10% TAX SLASH APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

Excise and Firm Levies Also Cut

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—A 5 billion 300 million dollar tax reduction for individuals and corporations in 1946, erasing 12 million low-income persons from the tax rolls completely, was approved today by the house ways and means committee.

Heading to the house floor, the first peace time relief from record war time pocketbook levies, the tax framing group cast aside many administration recommendations on methods, but kept close to Treasury Secretary Vinson's tax cut limit of five billion dollars.

Committee Proposals

This is what the committee proposes:

INDIVIDUALS—Relief of 2 billion 600 million dollars next year, by reductions in the "normal" tax and surtaxes. The committee decided to reduce the graduated surtaxes by four percentage points in each bracket, and to apply the surtax exemptions [$500 for the tax payer and $500 for each of his dependents] to the normal tax [now collected on net income above $500 regardless of the number of a tax payer's dependents].

The committee amended this program today to stipulate that no individual tax payer shall receive in 1946 less than a 10 per cent tax reduction. This increased individual relief from 2 billion 500 million to 2 billion 600 million dollars. The change in the normal tax exemptions removes 12 million low income persons from the tax rolls next year.

Easier on Corporations

CORPORATIONS—1946 tax easement of about 1 billion 900 million dollars. This would be done by: cutting the excess profits tax next year from 95 per cent to 60 per cent; repealing this tax Jan. 1, 1947; reducing the corporation combined normal and surtax from 40 per cent to 36 per cent [the cut being in the surtaxes]; repealing next July 1 the capital stocks tax, collected at $1.25 per $1,000 declared value.

The cut in the excess profits levy would save 19,000 corporations about 1 billion 270 millions next year, while the corporate surtax slash would ease the burden for all 450,000 corporations another $404,000,000. Elimination of the capital stocks levy would reduce corporate liabilities another $200,000,000.

EXCISES—The levies on such things as liquor, furs, luggage, jewelry and cosmetics would be cut back next July 1 to their 1942 levels, meaning a 50 per cent reduction in many items. This would save consumers about $550,000,000 in the last half of 1946. Taxes on floor stocks under excises would be refunded to business to the extent of about $160,000,000.

Freeze Security Taxes

The committee also decided to:

1. Freeze the social security tax in 1946 at 1 per cent each on employer and employe. This tax was set to rise to 2.5 per cent against

60,000 Navy Officers Get a Promotion

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—About 60,000 officer promotions were announced by the navy tonight. Affected were all officers up thru commander, who have served in their present grades for 18 to 25 months according to rank.

The general effect was to give more rank to reservists who make up the bulk of the eligibles.

At the same time it was learned that further recognition of the contribution of reservists in war time will be forthcoming soon when a slate of some 50 reserve officers will be nominated for flag rank—commodore and above. Only a handful of reserves now hold such rank and that number includes some naval academy graduates who left the service before the war.

The promotions announced tonight come in wholesale lots for men now holding the rank of lieutenant and lower.

Advance One Grade

Effective as of Oct. 1 all physically qualified lieutenants who had served at that level for more than 25 months were ordered boosted to lieutenant commander. Those who complete their 25 months later this year will be promoted in monthly groups during the remainder of the year, affecting a total of 19,438 men.

For officers now in the rank of ensign or lieutenant [j. g.] the promotion to next grade is effective after 18 months. By the end of the year it is figured to produce 22,454 new lieutenants [j. g.] and 16,736 new lieutenants.

Higher Ranks Must Qualify

Officers now serving as lieutenant commanders and commanders have to take their chances with selection boards for the move up to commander or captain. They become eligible upon two years service in their current rank. Affected are some 820 men now commanders, and about 1,600 lieutenant commanders.

The navy estimated about 65,000 officers in all, come under the promotion plan, but did not expect quite all of them to move up. For one thing, only officers up to and including lieutenants are entitled to mustering out pay upon release. Therefore some officers might elect, if they plan to leave the service, to take mustering out pay rather than promotion to lieutenant commander.

It is all part of the campaign aimed at a "vigorous and able" officer corps thruout all ranks in the post-war navy, Secretary Forrestal said in announcing the program.

Seek Young Blood

In another move aimed at infusing young blood in the naval high command, an early announcement is expected on promotion of a group of younger officers in the regular navy to the rank of rear admiral. Many of these are still in their 40s.

All of these steps, it was explained are pointed at replacing the older naval officers who have rendered valuable war time service but are entitled to a rest and desire to make way for younger men.

In this connection, it was noted that legislation is pending in congress to reduce the compulsory retirement age from 64 to 62 or 60 years, to establish a permanent board for the involuntary retirement of officers below flag rank.

Doctor's Wife Slays Nurse as Love Rival

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 4 [Special]—Maddened by jealousy, the socially prominent wife of a San Francisco physician today shot and killed an attractive registered nurse she believed had stolen the love of her husband. A few minutes later she said she was convinced by the dying woman's denials that her suspicions were unfounded.

Mrs. Vada Martin

The slayer is Mrs. Annie T. Mansfeldt, 45, wife of Dr. John Mansfeldt and mother of three children. An amateur actress, she has appeared in numerous Theater Arts colony productions.

Her victim was Mrs. Vada Martin, 32, a nurse at Sutter hospital and wife of Warrant Officer Wibur L. Martin, now serving overseas with the army.

Drives Victim to Hospital

"There's a dying woman outside in my car," Mrs. Mansfeldt calmly told Louis Cambou, steward at Central Emergency hospital, as she dropped a pearl handled .32 caliber revolver on his desk. She had driven to the hospital after the shooting.

Tho her body was still warm Mrs. Martin was dead, shot once thru the left breast.

Dr. Mansfeldt, summoned to the hospital, identified his wife but stayed only a few minutes and then left without commenting on the tragedy. His wife was later charged with murder.

After receiving emergency treatment herself, the modishly dressed slayer told authorities why she had been moved to kill. For a year, she related, she had "entertained doubts" about her husband's fidelity.

Saw Woman in Car

"Then came Thursday night," she cried, looking around wildly. "Thursday night I died."

An emergency call had come for her husband that night, she recalled. She managed to trace him to French hospital and drove there to deliver the message to him. In front of the hospital she saw a woman—Mrs. Martin, she learned later—sitting in her husband's automobile.

The next day Mrs. Mansfeldt consulted Dr. Milton Lennon, a neurologist, and told him she felt sure she "was going to shoot some one." She made a second visit to his office and told him she felt better and wouldn't do it for the sake of herself and her children.

But this morning, driven by renewed jealousy, she traced Mrs. Martin to her home and telephoned her. Mrs. Martin agreed to meet her at a street corner near the apartment house where the nurse lived.

The two women got into the front seat of Mrs. Mansfeldt's car. Immediately Mrs. Mansfeldt accused the other woman of being in love with the doctor. When she denied it, Mrs. Mansfeldt said she decided to "scare her" with the revolver she had brought along.

Thought She Was Lying

"I accused her of being infatuated with my husband," Mrs. Mansfeldt sobbed.

"She denied everything. She told me it was my imagination.

"But I thought she was lying. So I fired. Nothing seemed to happen, she continued to talk. She told me again she had never been intimate with my husband. I struck her with the gun.

"She collapsed, but as she did she kept repeating what she had said before. She told me that with her dying breath. And now I believe her! I believe her now! But it's too late!"

PIGEON COMES HOME WITH 141 POINTS AND PURPLE HEART

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 4 (AP)—Blackie Halligan, a carrier pigeon with 40 months Pacific service behind him and 141 points for discharge, disembarked with a shipload of war veterans from Manila last night. Blackie has been awarded the Purple Heart and was cited by Gen. Patch for returning with a vital message despite wounds from Japanese fire. His toughest fight came not from the Nips, but from a hawk. Blackie came out of that battle with wounds on his head, wing and chest.

Globe Circling Plane Home; Sets a Record

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—The first flight in regular around-the-world air service was completed tonight by the United States army air transport command.

A C-54 [Douglas Skymaster], the sixth ship used on the six and one-quarter day flight, landed here at 9:42 p. m. It flew the 2,500 mile last hop from San Francisco in 13 hours. The global flight started from here at 3:58 p. m., Sept. 28.

Lt. Gen. Harold L. George, commanding general of ATC, termed it "the fastest world flight ever made at near the earth's greatest circumference." It covered 23,279 miles in 149 hours and 44 minutes, including ground time of 33 hours and 21 minutes.

13 Plane Crews Utilized

Seven men and a women were passengers on the entire route of ATC's new schedule, known as the "Globester." Other passengers were carried between individual stops. Thirteen different ATC crews flew various stages.

ATC's original announcement of the flight said it was to be made in 151 hours, terminating at midnight tonight. Later, some previously planned stops were eliminated, and the final schedule called for reaching here around 9 p. m. tonight. Head winds slowed the plane as it neared Washington.

Speed was only incidental in the inaugural run. ATC was interested in testing the schedule and considering changes. ATC also used the flight to seek ways of increasing air passenger comfort.

Passengers Stand Up Well

Col. M. S. White, chief surgeon of ATC, conducted daily tests on the seven other passengers and himself as well. He said tonight:

"It was definitely shown that long distance air travel can be made by any normal individual, without fear of undue fatigue."

Globester planes will depart every Friday in the future, over a slightly different route, stopping at Stephenville, New Foundland; Santa Maria, Azores; Casablanca; Tripoli; Cairo; Abadan, Iran; Karachi, India; Calcutta; Kunming, China; Manila; Guam; Kwajalein; Johnston Island; Honolulu; San Francisco, and St. Joseph, Mo.

This eliminates the Bermuda stop made on the first flight and replaces it with Stephenville. An added stop is St. Joseph.

Gen. George said that when traffic justifies the Globester will fly twice a week, one plane leaving Washington in each direction.

Japan Cabinet Resigns Over Ouster Order

BULLETIN

TOKYO, Oct. 5 [Friday]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito today accepted the resignations, en masse, of the occupation cabinet of Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni.

TOKYO, Oct. 5 [Friday]—(AP)—Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni and the cabinet he formed after Japan surrendered have decided to resign as the result of Gen. MacArthur's demand for ouster of the home minister, it was authoritatively learned today.

[Reuters said Foreign Minister Yoshida will confer with MacArthur later today regarding formation of a new cabinet.]

The decision was reached at a two hour meeting today, it was learned, with Higashi-Kuni planning to go to the imperial palace at 1:30 p. m. [11:30 p. m. Thursday, Chicago time] to present the resignations.

Demanded Ouster

MacArthur had precipitated the cabinet crisis by demanding that Home Minister Iwao Yamazaki be removed because his "thought police" were gagging public opinion. It was Yamazaki who recently ordered the confiscation of newspapers showing pictures of Emperor Hirohito calling on MacArthur.

Sources suggested Prince Fumimaro Konoye as the likely successor of Higashi-Kuni because of his long association with such men as Marquis Kido, highest ranking consultant for the mikado and the elder statesmen whose voices will be instrumental in naming the new premier.

The decision of the entire cabinet to resign was regarded as evidence that Higashi-Kuni lacked the power to force the resignation of so-called war time ministers while still retaining office himself.

Conferred on Demand

Higashi-Kuni summoned the cabinet to a meeting after the latest MacArthur directive "for the purpose of deciding whether it could meet the demand for removal of the home minister," authoritative sources said.

The sweeping MacArthur order was aimed at insuring freedom of expression in Japan. It demanded the release of political prisoners, many of them held for advocating overthrow of the emperor.

"The ministers decided to resign en bloc because they didn't feel confident enough to cope with this demand," the authorities said.

That was interpreted to mean the cabinet was loosely bound, with diverse elements insufficiently strong to withstand a direct American attack on the home minister when others also were long associated with the war period and abuses of personal rights.

STRIKES CALLED 'TREASON ACTS' BY SEN. WILEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Any strike affecting food, fuel, transportation or other essential products and services is "well nigh an act of treason," Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] charged today in a senate speech in which he demanded congressional action to halt the rising tide of strikes.

"A strike against the people which deprives them of essential services," Wiley said, "can no more be tolerated in a government of law and order than can any crime against law-abiding citizens. . . . Right now, every strike is sabotage against American prosperity."

Wiley said much of the present labor strife is due to New Deal "false education of the last decade, which taught labor that it could do no wrong." He predicted that the voters in the 1946 and 1948 elections would remember the "strike disease" and act to remove it.

He said the fuel situation is particularly serious yet the administration is planning to send 6 million tons of coal to Europe. He suggested that the people of Europe devote the same energy to digging coal that they do to "bickering with one another."

Ban Religious Tracts for Red Troops on Bornholm

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 4—At the request of Russian military authorities, the police chief of Russian occupied Bornholm Island, strategic Danish possession in the Baltic sea, has banned distribution of religious pamphlets to Russian troops.

TRUMAN ACTS TO INSURE FUEL FOR MILITARY USES

Urgent Phone Calls to Be Handled, Company Says

At least 250,000 unionized telephone and associated workers in Chicago and the rest of the country will leave their switchboards and shops from 2 to 6 p. m., Chicago time today, to vote on a nation-wide strike petitioning referendum. Three Chicago groups have rebelled against the action and will not participate.

At least 7,200 local and long distance operators in Chicago and 6,700 more downstate are expected to vote. In addition about 15,000 telephone equipment manufacturing employes and others in Chicago and Illinois are expected to do likewise.

5,000 to Stay on Jobs

Against these 28,900 off-the-job workers, approximately 5,000 other unionized workers in Chicago will work as usual. Only 1,800, however, are operators. They are members of the United Telephone Workers' union.

Telephone company workers who leave their jobs to vote will be docked for the time lost, a company spokesman said. He added provision for such action is contained in the union contract. It was reported that the news came as a shock to many operators, who had expected to be paid for the four hours off.

With the help of the 1,800 and of all other available experienced telephone employes, the Illinois Bell Telephone company promised last night to give as much service in Chicago as is possible. "It won't be 100 per cent service, but it will be our best," said an official.

Dial Service Unaffected

Emergency or high priority long distance calls will be put thru, the company said, as well as emergency or other highly essential local calls.

Automatic dial-to-dial telephone service will not be affected. Hardest hit will be users of nondial phones whose calls are relayed by operators. Of 111 exchanges in Chicago, 46 are automatic. Calls from dial to nondial phones are completed by operators.

The four hour interruption for a strike vote was ordered by the National Federation of Telephone Workers, a national, independent organization. No grievances against companies are involved. The move admittedly is aimed at the national labor relations board because of an NLRB examiner's recommendation that an NFTW affiliate at Kearny, N. J., be dissolved on the ground it is company dominated. The union asserted this is discrimination in favor of a rival CIO union.

Union Chiefs Delay Decision on Going Back to Work

OTHER STRIKE NEWS

Steel mill blast furnaces began closing down yesterday as 146,000 coal miners remained on strike. News on the coal and other strikes appears on page 3.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—President Truman tonight ordered the navy to seize the plants of 26 oil companies that have been shut down by strikes in 15 states.

The President—with 51 refineries shut down and 43,000 CIO Oil Workers on strike for more pay—said the seizure was necessary for the needs of the army and navy.

Almost immediately the navy telegraphed the superintendents and union heads at the struck plants that the government was taking over and instructing them as follows:

1. Plant managers were appointed plant managers for the United States and were told to go on with the normal conduct of their business.

2. Heads of local or picketing unions were to be asked to cooperate in restoring production.

Union President O. A. Knight, after a meeting with the union's executive committee, said there would be no statement tonight on whether the union will order the strikers back to their jobs.

Conciliation Move Fails

The seizure followed collapse of the government's effort to get the companies and their CIO union workers to reach some agreement on the workers' demands for a 30 per cent wage increase.

While the union's executive committee was meeting here to decide whether to order the strikers back to work, Acting Navy Secretary H. Struve Hensel said the navy could not try to adjust the wage dispute without an order from the war labor board. That board has not been consulted in the dispute, as Labor Secretary Schwellenbach attempted to get the companies and union into agreement thru his own efforts.

Hensel told reporters: "Our job is not to arbitrate the labor dispute. Our job is to keep the plants open and operating."

May Use Navy Personnel

He said navy personnel might have to be used to maintain some supervision within the plants, but the navy did not want to resort to patroling the properties unless it became necessary.

"We won't start that way," he said, "but we will do anything necessary to see that the law is not violated."

He explained that the navy was losing about 100,000 barrels of fuel oil daily since the plants shut down, or one-third to one-half of its minimum needs.

Morreel in Charge

Vice Adm. Ben Morreel, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, was ordered to take charge of the struck plants.

The President told the navy to operate the plants under the war labor disputes act, to take any action necessary for protection of the plants or people looking for jobs in them, and, if necessary, to get the help of the department of justice and its FBI.

Mr. Truman said in a statement issued at the White House together with the seizure order:

"During the past two weeks some 50 petroleum refineries, together with a number of related transportation and distribution facilities, have been shut down due to work stoppages.

One-Third Shut Down

"The shut down daily capacity amounts to 1,675,000 barrels, representing about one-third of the total refinery capacity of the nation.

"The plants remaining in operation are insufficient to produce enough petroleum to supply both the direct military requirements

IKE ORDERS HALT TO YANKS FORCING REDS TO RETURN TO RUSSIA

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Germany, Oct. 4 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower, in an order amounting to temporary abrogation of one phase of the Yalta agreement, has instructed that American troops discontinue forcing Russian nationals to return home unless the United States government rules otherwise.

Existence of the order, affecting 26,400 Russians still in the American zone of Germany, was disclosed today by commanders of displaced persons camps.

Questioned on reports that troops had fired over the heads or near the feet of some Russians to compel them to board soviet bound trains, one officer said:

"Possibly for a time some of them were being pushed onto trains without our asking many questions, but that's all stopped now."

Many of those left in Germany have threatened to commit suicide if forced to go home, he added, and "we are not eager to risk the lives of American soldiers trying to make them go."

and the minimum essential war supporting activities on the home front.

"So critical has the supply situation become that essential military operations are already jeopardized. Thruout the nation, serious shortages are developing which would, if not corrected immediately, impair essential industrial and agricultural production, and all forms of transportation.

Must Protect Supply

"Oil is so vital to the continuing military operation and so essential to production for the armed services and national security at home, that we must move without further delay to protect our petroleum supply positions. The public interest, in any emergency of this character, transcends the interest of any group.

"There is no other way, except by the action taken today, to prevent our armed forces from suffering thru lack of necessary oil.

"Nothing will be permitted to stand in the way of the adequate supplies of any kind for our armed forces and for their proper redeployment and demobilization."

The navy is to hold the plants until production is restored, but cannot hold them 60 days beyond that time.

Plants Listed

The executive order included these plants and facilities:

Cities Service Oil Co. [Del.], East Chicago, Ind.; Johnson Oil Supply Co., Gary, Ind.; Petroleum Specialties, Inc., Flatrock, Mich.; Pure Oil Co., Midland, Mich.; Shell Oil Co., Inc. [combination 6 inch and 8 inch petroleum pipe line extending from Wood River, Ill., to the east, and 8 inch pipe line extending from Wood River to Chicago]; Sinclair Refining Co., East Chicago, Ind.; Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., Inc., East Chicago, Ind.; and Trenton, Mich.; The Texas Co., Lawrenceville, Ill., and Lockport, Ill. and The Texas Pipe Line Co. [petroleum pipe line facilities in Illinois and Indiana in the Illinois-Indiana division of the Texas Pipe Line Co.]

Eleven companies have been involved in the discussion over the CIO's wage demands, but one of them -Stanolind Pipeline company—was not strike bound.

The other 10 companies are: Standard Oil of Ohio, Cities Service, Shell Oil, Pure Oil, Tidewater, Union Oil, Pan-American, Socony-Vacuum, Texas, and Sinclair.

The states where the strikes have occurred are: Texas, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, West Virginia, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Kansas, New York, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, California, New Jersey, and Kentucky.

UNION AWAITS WORD

More than 1,000 strikers, meeting in the Oil Workers' hall, Hammond, last night, approved a resolution in which they agreed to "hold in abeyance" all action and comment on the government seizure pending word from their international officers in Washington, D. C.

After the meeting, however, the executive board of local 210 issued a statement asserting that pickets still were on duty and the strikers appeared disinclined to act on a proposal that they return to work at prevailing wages, as stipulated in the seizure order, in view of company offers of a 15 per cent increase.

At Great Lakes, Ill., Vice Adm. Arthur S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, was being kept informed of developments by Washington. Navy spokesmen said the navy anticipated no trouble in the Calumet area and would not dispatch personnel to the seized plants unless requested to do so by the navy in Washington.

DETROIT COURT ISSUES WRIT TO CURB STRIKERS

Restrains Picketing at Kelsey-Hayes

BY THOMAS MORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4—Attorneys for the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company today obtained a temporary injunction in Circuit court restraining CIO strikers from picketing the plant and halting the return of workers. The company held that the strike was not sanctioned by the CIO United Automobile workers. A hearing will be held Oct. 12 to determine whether the injunction will be made permanent.

The court action was taken after 255 workers crossed the picket lines into the plant. Ed Cote, president of the striking UAW-CIO local 174, urged immediate return to work on the ground that a continued strike would mean added hardship to the strikers.

Expects Gas to Flow

Gus Scholle, Michigan CIO director, who told a meeting last night that the oil workers should not strike against the government, said today that gas would flow within eight hours after President Truman's seizure order takes effect.

Despite General Motors' rejection of the UAW-CIO demand for a 30 per cent increase for 325,000 workers in 96 plants, it was reported that wage negotiations will be resumed tomorrow. Similar negotiations between the union and Chrysler corporation are to be resumed Tuesday.

Utility Strike Threatened

The state labor mediation board moved to prevent a threatened strike of the Michigan CIO Utility Workers' Joint council against the Consumers Power company of Jackson. Such a strike would affect more than 750,000 consumers of electricity, gas, steam heat, and water in the area bounded by Mount Clemens, Muskegon, Adrian, and Sault Ste. Marie.

The union asked for a 30 cents an hour raise for workers, elimination of zone differentials, and premium pay of 4 and 6 cents to rotation shift employes. Company officials held that the raise would force liquidation of the company.

ELECTROCUTED IN ACCIDENT

Donald Suhr, 29, of 405 W. Front st., Harvard, a fireman for the Dean Milk company, was electrocuted on his day off yesterday while helping repair a farm well pump in White Oaks community northwest of Harvard. A pipe Suhr was handling came in contact with an electric power line.

CANADA BOOSTS SOME SUPPLIES OF MEATS TO APPEASE WORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 4—The government of Canada, faced with increasing and alarming strikes in various industries, will increase the amount of middle grade meats obtainable on coupons and reduce the amount of higher class meats.

All coal mines in British Columbia and Alberta, which supply the prairies wtih fuel, now are idle with 10,000 miners on strike. Ten thousand workers in the packing industry in western Canada also threaten to strike within two weeks unless given a 40 hour week which would mean 30 per cent increase in wages. Workers claim this action would also provide more jobs for discharged service men.

The packing house workers are members of the CIO and the miners of the United Mine Workers of America. Many western cities are out of coal already and in Winnipeg some dealers are restricting coal to deliveries of a single ton.

WORLD TRADE UNION CONGRESS PICKS 'CABINET'

PARIS, Oct. 4 [Reuters]—The congress of the newly formed world federation of trade unions today nominated its executive committee to act as the "cabinet" of world labor.

Among those nominated were: Russia, Vassili Kuznetsov, Mikhail Tarasov and Madame Popova; United States and Canada: Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman [American Congress of Industrial Organizations] and Pat Conroy [Canadian Congress of Labor].

Britain: Walter Citrine and Ebby Edwards; France: Benoit Frachon and Leon Jouhaux; Latin America: Lombardo Toledano [Mexico] and Lazaro Pena [Cuba].

Bonds of Two Forfeited on Misconduct Charges

Two $25 bonds posted by Mrs. Hilda Evertson, 45, of 3228 S. 48th ct., Cicero, and Roy Brinker, 43, of 1505 Jackson blvd., were ordered forfeited by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Women's court yesterday as he found them guilty when they failed to appear to answer disorderly conduct charges. The charges were brought by Mrs. Everton's husband, William, of 3326 S. 49th av., Cicero, who accused them of misconduct.

19,000 REMAIN IDLE IN STRIKES; ONE IS SETTLED

One strike was settled yesterday, a picket line was withdrawn from another plant, but strikes prevented 19,000 employes from working in 16 other Chicago plants.

The strike settled was that of local 65, United Steel Workers union [CIO], which for five days kept 800 employes from the south works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, 3426 E. 89th st.

A picket line at the Lanzit Corrugated Box company, 2425 S. Rockwell st., was withdrawn, John Coleman, president of local 73, Building Service Employes International union [AFL], said. He explained the company had agreed to hire its watchmen from a company which has a contract with local 73. Harry O'Reilly, regional director of the AFL, announced that he had recommended the AFL withdraw the charter of local 21485, which also had been picketing the plant.

Electro-Motive Strike Continues

A strike in progress at the General Motors' Electro-Motive diesel division, at McCook, since last Friday, continued. More than 8,000 employes have been prevented from working by an unauthorized strike of local 71b, United Automobile, Aircraft, and Agricultural Implement Workers union [CIO].

Local No. 16 of the International Typographical union, waging a strike in commercial print shops, called 20 of its members employed by the Chicago Daily Drovers Journal, a daily live stock newspaper, out on strike to force the company to sign a union contract for its commercial shop.

Express Drivers to Vote on Strike

Nearly 2,000 members of local 720 of the Chicago Railway Express Drivers union of the AFL teamsters union are expected to take strike action at a meeting at 3 p. m. Sunday. A union spokesman said his union and AFL unions in other cities had voted to strike Sunday because the Railway Express company had turned down the union's demands, including a 22 per cent wage increase, at a meeting in New York. The official said a strike, if called, would affect 50,000 employes.

CANADA STILL SEEKING 24,561 DRAFT DODGERS

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Canadian parliament was told today that 11,145 drafted Canadians had deserted or gone AWOL and still are unaccounted for.

In addition, 13,416 defaulters are still unaccounted for. A defaulter is a man who fails to report for duty after being called up. To these figures must be added another 11,132 defaulters who have been apprehended and prosecuted, and an undisclosed number of deserters and absentees who have been found and dealt with.

BLOCK SCHEME BY RUSSIANS TO LICENSE UNIONS

BERLIN, Oct. 4 (AP)—A Russian proposal here before the allied kommandantur that Berlin labor unions be licensed quickly without allied interference was blocked today. United States, French, and British representatives insisted that occupation authorities proceed with caution, lest a communist clique seize control.

The Russians proposed that the provisional committee of eight, representing 18 unions and organized before the western allies reached Berlin, be allowed to meet immediately and draw a constitution.

The United States, France, and Britain contended that preparation of the constitution should be deferred until free elections were held. No decision was reached at the 90 minute discussion.

Suit for Divorce Filed by Jane Harding Whiston

Jane Harding Whiston, 20, of 6347 Winthrop av., granddaughter of the late John P. Harding, restaurateur and president of the city civil service commission, asked a divorce from her husband, Robert F., 25, a real estate broker, in a suit filed in Superior court yesterday. The bill, filed by Atty. William C. Boyden, charged cruelty. Mrs. Whiston seeks custody of a daughter, Candace Ann, two months old. The Whistons were married May 20, 1944, and separated last Feb. 1.

U.S. TELLS EAST TO SET UP COAL RATIONING PLAN

Fuel Dwindles as Strike Closes 453 Mines

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—The government tonight called on coal dealers in the east to ration deliveries to house heating consumers as strikes in the bituminous fields spread.

The solid fuels administration urged the retailers to put into effect a voluntary plan of consumer rationing wherever necessary.

C. J. Potter, deputy administrator, said most fuel yards in the east will find themselves "practically out of solid fuels within a few days unless they carefully conserve their supplies."

Lewis Called to Meeting

Labor Secy. Schwellenbach had a 30 minute conference this afternoon with President Truman. Afterward he told reporters he would invite John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, and bituminous coal operators to a meeting here at 10 a. m., Chicago time, Saturday. The strike revolves largely about a drive for recognition by the operators of Lewis' foremen's union.

The 14 day old strike brought the number of idle miners to 146,000 today, 36 per cent of the nation's coal diggers. Closed mines totaled 453.

West Virginia headed the strike list with 181 mines closed and 55,000 miners idle. In other states, the idle pits and miners were: Pennsylvania, 140 and 52,027; Kentucky, 111 and 20,000; Ohio, 14 and 11,000; Tennessee, 7 and 8,000.

Controls Extended

Emergency controls were extended to include all producers in the strike bound Appalachian region when central Pennsylvania and western Maryland were brought under the program. Six other Appalachian districts previously were covered by the distribution orders, which declare that producers must ship only to railroads, public utilities, hospitals, and other essential users.

In the Pittsburgh, Pa., area, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, a United States Steel subsidiary, closed the equivalent of two and a half of its blast furnaces and said 10 more would be affected by Sunday night.

Carnegie-Illinois also planned to cut operations of its Clairton, Pa., by-products coke plant—largest of its kind in the world—to 50 per cent by late Saturday.

The walkouts were begun by the United Clerical, Technical, and Supervisory Workers, a UMW affiliate, which is demanding union recognition. Operators are opposed on grounds that the supervisory workers represent the management.

BUS STRIKE CALLED

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 4 (AP)—Twenty-seven hundred drivers and station employes of the Pacific Greyhound line will go out on strike at midnight tonight, R. E. Hasselman, AFL union business agent, said late today after wage negotiations with the company failed.

"The company proposed to reduce the wages of the drivers 4 per cent, so naturally the union didn't get anywhere," he asserted.

F. W. Ackerman, president of the firm, charged this as "absolutely untrue."

Hasselman said union members in California, Oregon, Arizona, Utah, Nevada, New Mexico, and west Texas had been notified to leave their jobs at midnight. The company said the strike would affect 140,000 passengers daily.

PLANT DEFIES STRIKE

Salem, Ill., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Texas company today announced it would hire any one who wanted to work at its strikebound gasoline plant here, despite pleas by government officials to delay such action. A force of 75 state police, with full riot equipment, patroled picket lines and roads leading to the plant.

The strike, called Sept. 24 by Centralia local 553, AFL International Union of Operating Engineers, is an attempt by the international to obtain recognition for the local union as sole bargaining agent.

CIO WILDCAT STRIKE

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 4 (AP)—The 400 striking steel foundry workers at the Bethlehem Steel company voted today to continue a walkout begun Monday. Three locals of the CIO United Steel Workers of America are involved in what C. B. Newell, steel workers' district director, termed "a wildcat strike."

J. M. Sylvester, general manager of the plant, said the walkout started when the company refused to permit an intoxicated coremaker to work Sept. 28.

SHIP YARD REOPENED

Wilmington, Cal., Oct. 4 (AP)—Consolidated Steel corporation's ship yard was reopened today after a union jurisdictional dispute had suspended work by 14,000 employes on government cargo ships. Lloyd R. Earl, vice president in charge of production, said two AFL unions, the operating engineers and the machinists, had agreed to permit international union officials to determine which shall have jurisdiction over sea trials of newly built ships.

PLANE PLANT CLOSED

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 4 (AP)—An estimated 8,000 workers remained idle today as pickets continued their operations at Consolidated Vultee's aircraft production plant here. J. C. Johnson, president of the AFL Machinists lodge, 776-A, said the strike, called by 700 machinists seeking a pay increase, was unauthorized by the international union.

URGE DOCK STRIKE END

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—The wage scale committee of the AFL International Longshoremens' association tonight urged between 35,000 and 60,000 strikers to return to their jobs in New York harbor next Monday and end a situation that has stopped movement of 166 ships.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the association, said the scale committee made the request with the understanding that the employers would reopen negotiations on disputed points in a new contract. The old contract expired Sept. 30.

Blood Test Ordered

MRS. EVELYN BRENNER

An international blood test—thought to be the first of its kind—was ordered by Judge Edwin A. Robson in Superior court yesterday for Sgt. Charles Brenner, 34, now in Germany, his wife, Evelyn, 24, of 5199 S. Princeton av., and Mrs. Brenner's second child, William, 3.

Mrs. Brenner, who is charged with adultery in a divorce bill filed by Sgt. Brenner, admitted in court that her youngest child, Roy, 2, was not her husband's. Brenner's attorney, Leo Bartoline, contended that William also was not his child. He asked blood tests for all involved.

Mrs. Brenner's attorney, Samuel Starr, agreed. Brenner's test will be made in Germany and the results sent here. Bartoline's petition to stop Mrs. Brenner's $120 a month allotment was continued until Oct. 19. The Brenners, who have a daughter, Patricia, 4, were married Nov. 13, 1937, and separated July 11, 1942.

ADVISED TO ASK RULING IN CITY LAWYER BATTLE

Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett in a letter yesterday recommended to Mayor Frank G. Wallin of Waukegan that he apply to State's Atty. Harry A. Hall of Lake county for a ruling in his fight to retain Corporation Counsel Jack E. Bairstow, whose reappointment the city council refused to confirm last July, and whose salary has been cut off since Sept. 9.

Wallin and Bairstow are Democrats, and ten of the 13 aldermen are Republicans. Barrett held that the matter was a local one. Mayor Wallin will ask Hall's aid in filing quo warranto proceedings to establish the legality of his appointment. The council has given Wallin until next Tuesday to appoint a new counsel before it institutes mandamus proceedings in Circuit court to compel him to do so.

Bairstow has been city counsel since 1941, and is the central figure in a dispute on proposed city annexation of land formerly owned by him.

NEW ZEALAND'S LABOR ACCUSED OF WAR RACKETS

Cost of 'Squeeze' Placed in Millions

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Oct. 4—A demand that New Zealand's 7,000 dockers take over waterside facilities as a closed corporation was disclosed today by Thomas Hill, national secretary of the Waterside Workers' union. He said his organization was negotiating with the Socialist administration on terms under which the plan would function.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 13 [By Air Mail]—New Zealand labor unions, dominating the government here, have been accused of having racketeered in their conduct of the war in ways that cost millions of dollars in reverse lend-lease.

One instance of how the seamen's and longshoremen's unions worked in their alleged squeeze of their countrymen, and ultimately of the United States, was read into the record of the house of representatives on March 7, 1944, by M. H. Oram, oppositionist member for Manawatu.

On Dec. 18, 1943, Oram said, an allied [American] vessel in distress off Wellington appealed to the harbor board for aid. The working agreement between the harbor board and its employes provides that in an emergency pay rates shall be a matter for agreement. The demands of the crew of the harbor board tug available were so outrageous, Oram said, that the board first refused to send out the tug and turned the matter over to the New Zealand navy. The navy had no tug available and directed the board to dispatch its tug.

Thirteen members of the tug Tola were employed on this rescue mission at $1 an hour for a 24 hour day. Wages and risk and insurance bonuses brought the pay of each for the 11 days to $283.

Seamen manning the coastal ships demanded a bonus of $50 a month for an almost nonexistent risk, and got it.

The demands of watersiders in New Zealand were a constant source of annoyance to the United States war shipping board.

In Wellington, Gen. John L. Marston, then commander of the 2d marine division, which had helped clean up Guadalcanal, was forced to take E company of the 18th marine regiment, an engineer outfit, and assign it to the docks early in 1943.

5.3 BILLION TAX CUTS APPROVED BY HOUSE GROUP

12 Million Persons Would Not Pay

pay envelopes and 2.5 per cent of payrolls on Jan. 1.

2. Repeal the automobile war time use tax, next July 1, softening the burden on automobile owners by $135,000,000.

The bill is the first tax reducing legislation to be sent to the house floor in 16 years. The last was in 1929, during the Hoover administration, when congress passed a "Christmas present" bill reducing both individual and corporation burdens.

Treasury Secretary Vinson proposed on Monday a four point program: 1. Repeal of the 3 per cent normal tax on individuals, amounting to a reduction of 85 millions; 2. Repeal of the 95 per cent excess profits tax, to lighten corporate burdens by 2 billion 555 million; 3. Reduction of the excise taxes next July 1, at a saving to consumers of about 550 millions, and 4. A temporary freeze of the social security taxes.

The committee program for reducing the tax bills of individuals was roughly equivalent to Vinson's recommendation.

Ignore Vinson Ideas

For corporations, the committee departed from the administration plan. Whereas Vinson proposed 2 billion 555 million relief for business, the committee provided 1 billion 900 million.

If the committee's program is approved by the house and senate, this is what will happen to excises next July 1:

LIQUOR—From $9 to $6 a gallon; BEER—From $8 to $7 a barrel; WINES—Sharp cuts varying with alcoholic contents.

FURS—20 per cent retail back to 10 per cent; JEWELRY—20 per cent to 10; TOILET PREPARATIONS—20 to 10 per cent. LUGGAGE—Cut off the 20 per cent excise.

ADMISSIONS—1 cent for each 5 cents, back to 1 cent for each 10 cents; CABARETS—20 per cent to 5 per cent; DUES or MEMBERSHIP FEES—20 per cent to 11.

BILLIARD and POOL TABLES, and BOWLING ALLEYS—$20 a year per table or alley, back to $10 per year for each.

ELECTRIC LIGHT BULBS and TUBES—20 per cent to 5.

TELEPHONE, LONG DISTANCE—25 per cent to 20; DOMESTIC TELEGRAPH—25 per cent to 15; LOCAL TELEPHONE SERVICE—15 per cent to 10.

TRANSPORTATION of PERSONS—15 per cent to 10.

BILL ALLOWING ENLISTMENTS OF 1½ YEARS PASSED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—The house completed legislative action tonight on a bill to encourage enlistments in the army and the navy.

As sent to President Truman, the legislation permits short term enlistments, optional army retirement at half pay after 20 years of service, which the navy already allows, and extends benefits of the GI bill of rights to men reënlisting.

Enlistments may be made for 18 months in the case of a new recruit and for 12 months for men already in service who have had at least six months of training.

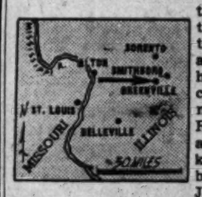
CHILDREN LINED UP BY COUSIN, 16; SHOT KILLS GIRL

Tried to 'Execute' Both with One Bullet

Greenville, Ill., Oct. 4 [Special]—Albert Frank Bryson, 16, confessed to authorities today that he shot and killed his little cousin, Connie Janet Rench, 3½, and tried to kill her brother, Joie, 5, with the same shot because he had a "grudge" against their father, at whose farm home he had lived for eight years.



Greenville [arrow] near site of killing

"Yes, I did it," Bryson said at an inquest conducted by Coroner A. M. Keith. "I lined them up behind the barn, with Connie in front. I meant to shoot them both with the same bullet. I went back about 30 feet and fired. But Joie wasn't hurt much."

The .22 caliber bullet passed thru the little girl's body and inflicted only a skin break on Joie's abdomen after going thru his coat and shirt.

Denier Mistreatment

Bryson gave no further explanation of his trouble with the children's father, John Rench, except to say that they "didn't get along." He admitted that he had not been mistreated at the home where his aunt, Mrs. Rench, had cared for him since 1937.

Bryson had first insisted that his fatal wounding of Connie accidentally took place when the children followed him yesterday afternoon as he went out to shoot squirrels in a pasture near the Rench farm, eight miles east of here. But Coroner Keith said he later admitted his actions were deliberate.

"I hadn't thought about shooting them for long, I just got the idea about 10 minutes before I did it," Bryson confessed in reply to questions concerning premeditation.

Tosses Body in Ravine

After firing the one shot he had planned and felling only one of the children, he took Joie back to the barn and told him to stay there. Then he carried the girl's body about 40 feet from where she had fallen and threw it in a ravine, the coroner quoted him as relating.

Meantime Joie had gone into the house to show his mother the wound he had received. She found blood on his clothes, but that he was not seriously hurt. Unable to learn from him what had happened or the whereabouts of his little sister, she began a search. But not until she had summoned neighbors and they had searched the farm did they find the body.

Bryson was seized at Sorento, 20 miles from here, where he had lived at one time.

DESTROYER SUNK AFTER ORDER TO RETURN HOME

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—Just 49 minutes before she was due to come home, the destroyer Callaghan was struck fatally by a Japanese suicide plane off Okinawa July 29. The ship's loss had been announced previously. Making public additional details of her final action today, the navy said casualties totaled one officer and 47 enlisted men dead as a result of explosions and fire that followed the crash.

The suicider which scored was the 13th to attack the Callaghan during her 18 months of Pacific duty. Her guns shot down the first 12.

The attack came after the crew had been notified that the Callaghan would be relieved at 1:30 a. m. At 12:41 the Japanese pilot in an antiquated biplane, crashed into the ship's starboard side. Four minutes later, the plane's bomb, which had penetrated the after engine room, exploded. The Callaghan sank at 2:34 a. m.

Peruvian Cabinet Quits Over Senatorial Criticism

LIMA, Peru, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Peruvian cabinet resigned today in a ministerial crisis precipitated by the resignation of Finance Minister Romulo Ferrero. Ferrero quit, he said, because several senators voiced disapproval of recent statements he made on national economic policies.

GREEK WAR RELIEF'S BENEVOLENCE AIDED BY COMMUNITY FUND

Greek War relief, one of 30 war related agencies that will benefit from the $13,040,700 Community and War Fund, has sent more than 7,000,000 articles to the destitute of Greece, Walter P. Paepcke, general chairman of the fund, announced yesterday.

The articles included 5,000,000 garments, 770,000 pairs of shoes, 49,000 blankets, and hospital supplies, he stated. Greeks lost half their live stock during the German occupation and a program has been instituted to ship goats and pigs.

Greek War relief has shipped 55 tons of milk concentrates and vitamin pills for undernourished children.

3 of 4 Autos Inspected in City Lanes Approved

More than 81,000 automobiles went thru city testing lanes during September, Edward J. Gorman, city vehicle license commissioner, said yesterday. Approvals totaled 60,214 and rejections 20,861. The 32,573 mechanical defects found included 10,195 cases of faulty brakes, more than 3,000 steering wheel mechanisms or wheel alignments, and 15,477 faulty lights. Nearly 20,000 automobiles were approved after returning for a second inspection, Gorman said.

REVEAL P-59 SET U. S. ALTITUDE RECORD OF 9 MI.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 4 (AP)—The Bell jet propelled P-59 Airacomet has set unofficial American altitude records of more than nine miles, Bell Aircraft corporation disclosed today.

The No. 1 YP-59, first production model of the Airacomet series, performed the feat almost two years ago, but the information was withheld until now for security reasons, a Bell statement said.

On Dec. 15, 1943, the statement said, Jack Woolams, Bell test pilot, took the plane up to 47,600 feet in a flight from a base near Muroc, Cal. Four months later another test pilot reached 47,700 in the same plane.

In both cases the propellerless craft was equipped with full military load.

The Airacomet's heights compare with the United States altitude record of 43,166 feet for heavier-than-air aircraft set June 4, 1930. The international mark is 56,046.

U. S. FIRE PUTTER OUTERS CONQUER BLAZING BORNEO

Texas Experts Extinguish All the Wells

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LABUAN ISLAND, Straits Settlements, Oct. 4—The oil fires of Borneo, which like giant blast furnaces consumed an estimated $10,000,000 worth of petroleum, are out after three months, the last of them conquered finally by two Americans.

The pair, H. L. Patton, and his son, O. L. Patton, of Houston, Tex., call themselves the world's biggest oil fire fighters. They have fought fires in oil wells all over the United States, in Mexico, and South America. Borneo's producers hired them and had them flown here when all efforts of the Australian army to extinguish the blazes failed.

The fires were in the field at Seria, in Brunei, tiny British colony on the Borneo west coast. The field was only a few years old and the richest in the British section of Borneo.

Heat Melts Concrete

Seria had 37 wells. The Japs fired them all when Australian troops landed at Brunei more than three months ago. The army began fighting the fires. The heat was terrific. Concrete around the well openings melted. Water boiled in tanks 100 feet away.

In desperation the Aussies set up an airplane engine near the well and while the propeller air wash blew the flame to one side bulldozers brought up piles of sand. Sweating soldiers protected by sand bunkers moved the sand screen forward inch by inch until eventually the sand reached the well opening and closed it.

One by one in two months they smothered 25 fires. The other 12, the worst of all, were unreachable. Bombs, shells, and hoses didn't ease the blazes. That was when the British Malayan Petroleum company, subsidiary of Royal Dutch Shell, sent for the Patton father and son.

Force Used Down Hole

The Pattons rigged their equipment, which swung a tube into the well opening and forced mud down the hole. Not only did the process put out the fire, but it left the well little damaged. All 12 wells are now capped and, oil men said today, will start flowing again merely at the turn of a tap. The Seria field can yield 1 million dollars in oil weekly.

At Seria, as at Tarakan, in Dutch Borneo, oil production is being held up because of lack of storage facilities. About 60 wells at Tarakan have been restored, but are shut down until storage tanks and pipe lines are rebuilt.

Dangerous, but Well Paid

Fighting oil fires is dangerous business. Patton Sr. lost an arm a few years ago and his brother was killed. Patton Jr. was scalded on the legs by steam while fighting fires here.

But the work pays well. "It's made us quite a fortune," Patton Sr. says. Other oil men say he and his son were hired on a contract that called for a down payment of $30,000 plus a bonus of $25,000 for each fire they extinguished. They put out 12 fires which, if the oil men's reports are correct, means the Pattons received $330,000 for their four weeks' work.

GEN. R. A. WHEELER, PEORIA, SWORN IN AS ARMY ENGINEER CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Lt. Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, a native of Peoria, Ill., was sworn in as chief of army engineers today, succeeding Lt. Gen. Eugene Reybold whose four year term expired Oct. 1. The ceremony was held in the new war department building, with the oath administered by Maj. Gen. M. C. Cramer, judge advocate general, before high ranking army officers.

Lt. Gen. R. A. Wheeler

Gen. Wheeler, a graduate of the military academy at West Point and a veteran of both World wars, is the 38th chief of engineers in the army's history. From 1933 to 1936 he was chief engineer of the Rock Island, Ill., district while also serving as chief regional engineer for the works project administration with offices in Chicago.

His nomination by President Truman to the permanent rank of major general in the regular army was confirmed yesterday by the senate. The President has announced that Wheeler will retain his temporary rank of lieutenant general. As chief of engineers, the general commands 11 engineer divisions embracing 45 engineer districts.

SHANGHAI, HERE WE COME—25,000 YANKS ON WAY

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 4 (AP)—This city, already shaken by the spending impact of 5,000 American soldiers and sailors, is going to have to brace itself for the arrival within two weeks of at least 25,000 more.

Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, of Chicago, commanding the Shanghai base command, told newsmen today every effort is being made to establish a price ceiling, find adequate housing and settle conditions otherwise to help absorb the shock of a tremendous increase in military personnel.

"These boys have been fed on gunpowder and raw meat, and have been trained to combat a ruthless enemy," Weart said. "This is their first real touch of civilization in months or even years and they're just going to blow off steam. It would strain any community."

YANK IN PACIFIC SAYS BRIDES GOT SHIP PRIORITY

Portland, Ore., Oct. 4 (AP)—Corp. George A. Phillips, veteran of 33 months in the Pacific, told his family by mail yesterday he and 88 other army personnel were put off the liner Lurline Sept. 11 at Brisbane to make room for Australian war brides.

He told his father, L. L. Phillips, Linnton, Ore., there was "plenty of room and even spare bunks" which he and the other service men could have occupied.

The soldier wrote that he and his buddies are still in Australia and "plenty mad" while they wait for another ship bound for home.

Naval Air Transport Begins Shanghai Flights

JAPS TO BUILD 50,000 WOODEN HOMES IN TOKYO

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

TOKYO, Oct. 4—Major problems facing the Japanese home ministry include sweeping changes in the election system, supplying the needy with food and clothing, and the speedy erection of temporary housing before the arrival of extreme cold weather.

According to the home ministry, lumber now is being cut for 50,000 temporary homes in Tokyo and 300,000 thruout the country. The plans call for their completion before the first of the year. Later they will be replaced with permanent structures. It also is planned to repatriate any Koreans or Formosans who wish to return to their own lands, altho those wishing to remain in Japan may do so.

Questioned concerning reports that "thought control" police are investigating the progress of the women's suffrage movement, Home Minister Yamazaki admitted that they were, but explained that the investigation is being made "sympathetically."

"Prisoners All Communists"

Yamazaki, who shortly after was ordered ousted by Gen. MacArthur, said the police had to know "what meetings are held and who attends them in order to keep check on how far the movement has come," but insisted that there was no intention to hamper such a campaign.

He said the political prisoners now held are all Communists, even tho many never have been tried. The best definition of a Communist we were able to get from Yamazaki was any one advocating the overthrow of the emperor.

He said that with Japan in its present weakened condition it would be dangerous to release any one suspected of communistic leanings, and asked the newsmen whether Americans favored the spread of communism.

"Not Many in Japan"

The newsmen replied that the majority of Americans are strongly opposed to communism, but equally opposed to arresting any Communists except those advocating violence. Even then, Yamazaki was told, it was considered proper to give them a speedy hearing and not, as done in Japan, keep them in the police station sometimes a year or longer under questioning.

Yamazaki's answer to that was that in cases involving ideas it took far longer to gather evidence than in cases like murder or robbery, but that the trials should be speeded up.

U. S. Sailor's Wife Stows Away on a Submarine

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 4 (AP)—Two young married women, one the wife of a United States sailor, stowed away on the United States submarine tender Anthedon when it left port yesterday, but they were discovered today and returned to land on a pilot launch. They reportedly donned United States seamen's uniforms to get aboard the ship.

BRITISH STUDY MIXUP OF GOVERNMENTS IN BORNEO AND LABUAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LABUAN ISLAND, Straits Settlements, Oct. 4—What this part of the British empire has is variety in government. This island is a crown colony, part of the Straits Settlements. Brunei, on the Borneo mainland four miles away, is technically run by a sultan, but he has been pensioned off and the small country is administered by the British.

Sarawak, to the south of Brunei on Borneo, has its white rajah, a Britisher named Charles Brooke, and British North Borneo, to the north, belongs to a private company appropriately named the British North Borneo company.

At least that was the governmental situation before the war. What it is going to be now is one of the big questions. There is some talk that the British government may take over Brunei, North Borneo, and Sarawak as crown colonies.

Many natives of these countries are said to favor such a change.

DE GAULLE AGAIN WOOS RHINELAND FOR THE FRENCH

FRIESBURG, Germany, Oct. 4 (AP)—Gen. De Gaulle, in a series of statements to German civil administrators, has revived a two centuries-old French policy of attempting to split the Rhineland away from Germany and bring it within the French sphere of influence.

On the second day of his tour of the French-controled sector, he again extended a friendly hand to the Germans. However, he declared he makes a clear distinction between the Rhineland and other parts of Germany.

He told the German civil government: "I purposely say nothing about the past, despite all that has happened between us. What matters is today and tomorrow. If you wish, you can win our esteem and consideration."

British Prize Cargoes Are Sold for $44,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 4—Enemy ships and cargoes captured on the high seas since 1939 have been sold for more than $44,000,000, it was reported today. This sum held by the Supreme court prize deposit account may be doubled, naval sources suggested, by cargoes seized by the British when Germany surrendered. The bulk of the prize money, it is expected, will be paid out to navy men as after the last war when British naval personnel from admirals to ship's boys shared $60,000,000.

Chinese Report Arrest of Nanking Puppet Chief

FRANCE ORDERS 7 WARSHIPS TO INDO-CHINA CITY

PARIS, Oct. 4 (AP)—Navy Minister Louis Jacquinot said today that seven French warships and other light craft had been ordered to join the battleship Richelieu at Saigon, Indo-China, where a tense situation continues to prevail. The carrier Bearn, the cruisers Suffern, G. Loire, Emile Bertin, Duquesne, and Tourville, and the destroyer Fantasque are among ships ordered to the scene.

Will Return Dewey's Body

SAIGON, Indo-China, Oct. 3 [Delayed] (AP)—Annamese nationalists agreed today to return the body of Lt. Col. A. Peter Dewey of Washington, D. C., the son of Charles S. Dewey, former Republican congressman of Chicago. Col. Dewey was shot to death in recent disorders here. The Annamese also agreed to release all French citizens taken as hostages.

Maj. Gen. Douglas Gracey, commanding British occupation forces, made the demands as peace talks began between Annamese and French leaders. A "cease fire" order will be in epect until Saturday, when the talks are scheduled to end.

PARTS OF BODY DISCOVERED IN RIVER MYSTERY

Discovery of a man's right arm and a portion of his back and shoulder on the west bank of the Chicago river at 2342 Wolfram st. furnished police with another possible murder mystery yesterday. The limb, apparently in water for at least six months, was taken to the county morgue, where experts were attempting identification thru finger prints. The discovery was made by Frank Neigel, 2468 Linden pl., an employe of the postoffice, which maintains a garage near the river. Lt. Phil Breitzke, head of the homicide bureau, said the tattered sleeve of a white shirt clung to the arm.

ATOM EXPERTS INDORSE GLOBAL BOMB CONTROL

Warn of Catastrophic Possibilities

Members of the executive committee of an organization founded as the Atomic Scientists of Chicago yesterday warned that within a few years there can be enough atomic bombs on hand in several countries to cause a world catastrophe.

The committee, which claims to represent 95 per cent of the civilian scientists who helped develop the atom bomb at the University of Chicago, held a press conference in the Quadrangle club, 1155 E. 57th st., and urged some form of international control of the bomb as advocated by President Truman.

Decry Partisan Issue

"The future of atomic power is too important to become a partisan issue," said the scientists, who emphasized they did not speak for the University of Chicago and requested their names be withheld.

Americans, they asserted, should support Truman's stand, "without regard to party affiliation," in the President's "difficult task to insure international control of atomic power."

Truman, they said, has emphasized the fact that the fundamental scientific information, on the basis of which the bomb was constructed, has been well known for a considerable time in all the civilized nations.

Peril Is Real Issue

"The important question," said their statement, "is not whether we should 'keep the secret' of the atomic bomb, or 'give it away,' but what the policy of this country should be in the knowledge that a few years from now there can be a sufficient number of atomic bombs on hand in several countries to cause a world catastrophe."

Scientists, they said, can see no adequate defense against the atomic bomb itself, only against the carrier of such a bomb; yet complete protection against the bomb if borne by planes and rockets coming without warning from many directions, including the stratosphere, is more than can be expected from radar or any foreseeable counter-defense weapon.

ATOM MEASURE EXPLODES IN BARKLEY'S FACE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Forces which want all phases of atomic energy control handled in one piece, with congress dealt in on international dealings, blocked efforts today to turn domestic aspects over to the senate military committee.

After two hours of stormy debate and a threatened parliamentary snarl, Sen. Barkley [D., Ky.], majority leader, called the proposition off until tomorrow.

The row was over where to send a White House bill to set up a commission to control atomic energy in America.

Barkley made his move to send the home front bill to the military committee after a White House conference of congressmen at which Mr. Truman urged speed.

Speeches on the floor indicated most senators would oppose Barkley's request, and the majority leader suddenly withdrew his motion to take up the legislation.

56,767 GIs ARE LET OUT IN MONTH IN SIXTH COMMAND

Army discharges in the 6th service command totaled 56,767 in September, Maj. Gen. David McCoach Jr., commanding general, said yesterday. Fort Sheridan issued 35,533 discharges; Camp McCoy, 17,797, and the Camp Grant separation center, operating since Sept. 24, discharged 1,687 officers and men. Smaller separation centers at Mayo, Gardiner, and Vaughan General hospitals and at the Percy Jones hospital center issued a total of 1,750 discharges. By Dec. 1 the discharge rate is scheduled to reach 5,200 a day, or 156,000 a month.

SEND US MORE BACON, BRITAIN URGES CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 4—An urgent appeal has been received by telephone from Ben Smith, British minister of food, asking Canada to increase exports of bacon during October and November so as to enable Britain to maintain the three ounce per week ration, J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, announced to commons this afternoon.

Smith said that unless Canadian exports can be increased by 3,000 tons in each month, Britain will have to reduce the rations to two ounces a week. It had been four during the greater part of the war, being cut to three to provide extra food for liberated Europe, Gardiner said.

Present Canadian commitments are 11,000 tons of bacon per month for October and November. Gardiner said it will be difficult to provide 14,000 tons in October, but that 18,000 could be shipped in November, to which Britain replied that unless there can be an increase in October, the situation will be difficult.

All WACs in Near East to Go Home this Month

CAIRO, Egypt., Oct. 4 (AP)—All WACs in the near east theater are scheduled to sail for the United States about Oct. 17, Maj. Gen. Benjamin F. Giles, American commanding officer, said today the WACs "justified to the full the expectations of the war department." About 300 WACs are in Egypt and others are at Accra and Casablanca with the air transport command.

YOU CAN'T WHIP ATOMIC BOMB, EXPERT CLAIMS

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Oct. 4 (AP)—Niels Bohr, Danish scientist who was closely associated with the atomic bomb research, told technicians here last night that he believed no defense against the bomb was possible, and thus "talk of military bases is nonsense."

Addressing the engineers' society of Copenhagen, he estimated that the United States can produce about three kilograms [approximately seven pounds] daily of uranium, the element used in the manufacture of the bomb. A form of the element, known as uranium-235, is the agent which releases the vast atomic energy.

Bohr said the neutrons which bring about the explosion of the bomb have a velocity of 6,210 miles per second. He said the radioactivity of explosion was comparable to the effect of thousands of pounds of radium—"in fact, incomprehensible." He said he hoped the nations of the world would agree upon international control of atomic energy so that it could be used for the benefit of mankind.

REVEALS HITLER HAD ARRANGED TO BOMB SWISS

Army Chief Tells Nation of Its Danger

ZURICH, Switzerland, Oct. 4 [Reuters]—Swiss secret service agents working in Germany found a Luftwaffe map showing the strategic points to be bombed had Switzerland been attacked, Dr. Karl Kobelt, army minister, told the Swiss parliament today.

The Swiss government was well informed thruout the war and knew about three weeks before each event when Germany would start the offensive in the west, invade the Balkans, and attack Russia, Kobelt said.

Lists Dangerous Times

The most dangerous times for Switzerland were:

1. At the beginning of the war, when Hitler was tempted to incorporate Switzerland in his new Europe.
2. On May 15, 1940, as the Germans began their offensive toward Sedan. Only when the Maginot line was by-passed could the Swiss breathe a little more easily.
3. After the collapse of France when Switzerland was completely encircled.
4. During 1941 and 1942 when Germany exercised political pressure on Switzerland.

Germans Lose Main Reason

The turning point for Switzerland was the capitulation of Italy when the Germans lost one of their main reasons for attacking Switzerland—to gain control of the Alpine passes.

The allied invasion of Europe finally ended the danger of a German attack on Switzerland tho there always was the chance that the German armies, pressed against the Rhine, might bring the war to Swiss soil, Kobelt said.

CHILDREN GIVEN HARMONICAS TO FORM NEW BAND

The harmonica band of the Spalding School for Crippled Children, 1628 Washington blvd., was reorganized yesterday after having been disbanded shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor. Twenty of the first 12,000 harmonicas to arrive in Chicago since the war were presented to the group.

The band, directed by Miss Florence Henry, was discontinued because it could not obtain the instruments during war time. All harmonicas manufactured since 1942 have been designated for the army as entertainment equipment for posts in the United States and overseas.

Members of the band are between the ages of 11 and 16 years.

FRANCE WANTS RUNDSTEDT IF HE AVOIDS TRIAL

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Germany, Oct. 4 (AP)—France wants Field Marshal Von Rundstedt as a major war criminal if he escapes trial before an international tribunal, Lt. Bibline Myron, French liaison officer with the allied war crimes commission, said today.

In addition, he said, the French want the German commander in every single French village during the occupation, along with every member of the gestapo.

As commander of all German forces in France, Von Rundstedt is held responsible by the French for such atrocities as wiping out the village of Oradour-sur-Glane, the "Lidice of France," Lt. Myron said. Von Rundstedt was last reported held at Nuernberg.

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

October 4, 1945

TWENTY Angus heifers at the Wheaton farm were visited by the doctor recently and pro-tested mightily over their medical tests. The heifers are ready to be sold and the herdsman wanted them examined for Bang's disease.

The heifers were rounded up and closed in the barn. When the veterinarian was ready they were driven, one at a time, into a narrow chute. As each animal pushed thru the end of the chute the men clamped its head in a wooden stanchion and prevented the heifer from backing up by thrusting an iron bar behind its legs. Then the vet pushed a needle into each heifer's neck and took a blood sample. The blood will be tested for signs of Bang's disease and a report sent to the herdsman.

Bovine Battlers Bested

It took a crew of four men to manage the heifers, which put up a mighty battle to keep from being inspected. Bawling and mooing, they tried every trick to keep away from the needle. When the job was finished, the men were muddy and tired.

Survey of the cornfields discloses that none of them is yet safe from a hard frost. The last planted field still is in the milk. This field will be cut with the corn binder and put into shocks.

Nutritive Value Retained

The shocks will be run thru the ensilage cutter and fed to the cattle as needed. In this way, the full feeding value of the corn will be utilized as long as frost holds off.

The early planted fields still need drying weather to get them to a safe level of moisture. The heavy rains have kept the ground moist and the plants growing. Tho some fields have been in the dent for several weeks, they still are too wet to crib safely. They should dry out enough on the stalk in the field to make them safe.

Concrete foundation and piers have been laid for the new chicken house and the building is set up so that the fowl will get plenty of clean range. During the days when the men could not work in the fields, they toiled at the job of digging a ditch so water pipes could be laid to the poultry house. A separate house will be built as a feed room.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

BLOOMSDALE Long Standing spinach, New Zealand spinach, and kale are three leaf crops that have provided a full supply of green leaf vegetables for the farm tables this year. Bloomsdale is the standard favorite for planting in late March or early April to provide the first major crop for the table and for freezing. Farm residents prefer the flavor of this variety over that of any other standard type. Bloomsdale does not thrive with midsummer planting.

New Zealand spinach, planted in May, withstands hot weather and has provided the farm tables with leaf greens from July to the present. It is like Swiss chard in that it may be cut often during the summer.

Kale will succeed New Zealand spinach on the farm tables during the next 45 days, or until the ground freezes. It is very hardy and its flavor is improved by light frosts. Altho a member of the cabbage family, it is not heavily attacked by the cabbage worm.

SAYS NAZIS USED DOGS, FIRE, GUNS TO MURDER 300

LUENEBERG, Germany, Oct. 4 (AP)—Josef Kramer, concentration camp commandant being tried here with 44 other Nazis, was accused today of setting dogs on 300 helpless prisoners lined up at the edge of a flaming funeral pit and machine gunning those left alive.

A deposition signed by Regina Rosenthal, Polish Jewess, interned at both the Oswiecim [Auschwitz] and Belsen camps, declared:

"While I was at Oswiecim I saw about 300 people around a ditch in which a big fire was burning. Commandant Kramer was behind them with a machine gun and some dogs. When he pointed to a man the dogs would attack, and he was either killed or fell in the fire. Kramer then machine gunned the others."

A deposition by Miriam Winter, Polish Jewess, charged that Erich Barsch, previously accused of several murders around the Belsen kitchen he supervised, shot and killed—for no apparent reason—a girl he found standing by a pile of turnips. Then, Miss Winter testified, he called over another girl who had seen the shooting and asked her if she was thirsty. When she said she was, Barsch was quoted as replying that "she could drink the dead girl's blood."

CLAIMS ALLIES IRKED DUCE INTO ENTERING WAR

BY P. E. BRIQUET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Oct. 4—Mussolini hated the Germans and distrusted Hitler but entered the war out of sheer resentment against the allies, the Milan Italia Libera asserted recently when it published the intimate diary of Claretta Petacci, mistress of Mussolini.

Under the date March 1, 1940, the actress, who was shot and hanged with the duce, wrote:

"Whenever the duce comes to see me he is always in a great hurry. His face is more impenetrable and always tense as tho from effort. I would help him, but how? Today I was at the Palazzo Venezia and all Europe was ringing his phone. He talks politics with me also, but how can I help him? He speaks continuously and says that only I have been listening sincerely. Sometimes I feel lost before him, perhaps in fear of my task because I am incapable of breaking his solitude. Today he seemed insensible even to my love.

'Only I See Beyond Hill'

"He said, 'I am the only one who sees beyond the next hill. France and Britain never have trusted me, the only man capable of saving Europe. They left me in the lurch when I saved Europe from Russia in Spain; they would leave me in the same way in case I tried to save her from Germany. Hitler is rising alone against Europe. I feel my Romagna blood boiling in my veins, but my life is insufficient for the task.'

"Such speeches frighten me. All those around him say that he is too tired, and he constantly tells me that he feels alone. If I could find one man who would be his sincere friend, disinterestedly and not for money, I should look the world over for that man and seek him from door to door."

She Wants to Marry

For the following day the diary says:

"Often I dream of a cathedral with red tapestries on the facade. Upon entering it I am dazzled by the infinite tapers, and great music overcomes me. Mother says that when girls dream of churches they want to marry. Why should I deny this is my wish also?"

On March 20, 1940, Petacci wrote:

"My impression is that there is some sort of passive resistance among all the people against any thought of or preparation for war. Yet these intentions are courageous, as at the time of the Ethiopian war. Let us hope for some intervening lull, after which everything will start again with the same enthusiasm as before the war. After all, I understand little about such things. They say that women should not play politics, but this is not politics. Everything is at stake."

Burglars stole $67, three cases of liquor valued at $185, and 19 cartons of cigarets from a grocery operated at 4903 Cottage Grove av. by Benjamin Rooth of 919 E. 44th st., he reported to police yesterday.

U.S. ARMY TO TRY GEN. HOMMA FOR HIS WAR CRIMES

MANILA, P. I., Oct. 4 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, who commanded Japanese forces during the infamous march of death from Bataan, will be arraigned as a war criminal in the near future, Col. Alva Carpenter, chief of Gen. MacArthur's war crimes branch, said today. Homma's arraignment will follow shortly after that of Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, now scheduled for next Monday.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Ingrian Families Split; Sent to Labor Gangs

[Second in a series of articles depicting life in Baltic countries.]

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Oct. 4—Among the harried peoples, enslaved, pauperized, and shunted into the soviet interior in Premier Stalin's Russification of the Baltics, are the Ingrians. Some were interviewed in person and others thru reliable intermediaries in Helsinki, Finland, and vicinity.

Ingria extends from eastern Estonia to Lake Ladoga and includes the Leningrad area. It was settled by the Finns in 1617. In 1914 they numbered 200,000, still talked Finnish—not Russian—and were so closely knit that only 2 per cent had married outside the clan in three centuries.

In the bolshevik revolution the Reds deported many of the Ingrians to Siberia and East Carelia, but in 1941 there were still 70,000 living in villages and farms south and east of Leningrad and 30,000 more north of the former Russian capital.

Homes Destroyed

The battle for Leningrad destroyed their homes. In the spring of 1942 5,000 starved to death and the German commander sent 20,000 to Estonia. The Germans and Finns collaborated in migrations to Finland in 1943. By the spring of 1944 there were 65,000 Ingrians in Finland.

Under Finland's armistice with Russia all Ingrians in Finland who had been forced to leave their homes must be permitted to return. The Finns decreed that all who wanted to return to Ingria would be accommodated.

The Russians put agents in all the parishes of Finland where there were colonies of Ingrians, the refugees were promised safe return to their old homes and were promised jobs. They were given ration coupons and credits so that they could buy from Finland's meager supplies clothes and farm equipment and even livestock for the trip home.

Stripped of Property

The rest of their story probably will be disputed. I shall repeat only those incidents which were corroborated from independent sources. This is their story:

When Ingrian volunteers for repatriation in convoys of wagons and trucks reached the Russian border they were stripped of their vehicles, animals, extra clothing, and personal property. Families were separated. Able bodied men were placed in one group and women suited for physical labor were placed in another. Children and old folks were placed together and segregated from the others.

News of what has happened to these migrants in the last six to nine months is limited to a few letters with code messages that have reached relatives or friends outside Russia and to accounts of a few who have escaped.

Work gangs, some male and some female, were transported to labor camps at various locations east of Moscow. The children and aged were sent to other camps in the interior. None was returned to Ingria.

Quotas to Be Filled

The Ingrians in Finland who had volunteered for repatriation to Russia did not meet soviet demands numerically. It was reported that Moscow had ordered the return of 50,000. So the Finnish government, dominated by the Reds, issued a decree ordering all Ingrians to report and register with the Russian agents in the parishes.

The Ingrians were interrogated by the agents, who demanded to know why they had not moved to Russian soil. Names were signed for those who could not write. There were quotas to be filled. There were threats of punishment for failure to sign up. With these lists, trucks moved thru the villages and thru the countryside picking up families. On paper it was voluntary migration.

The second exodus in the last year followed the same fate as the first at the Russian border and from there on, according to witnesses. All told, 55,000 Ingrians were moved from Finland. Of the other 10,000 there a year ago those not in hiding have fled to Sweden.

Ingrians still in Finland believe that their ancient nation, as they have considered themselves for three centuries, has been liquidated.

POLAND GETTING RELIEF AT RATE OF SHIP A DAY

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 2 [Delayed]—American ships have been arriving at Danzig and Gdynia at the rate of one a day for the last two weeks with UNRRA [united nations relief and rehabilitation administration] supplies for Poland, according to Clifford Wilson, UNRRA aid formerly with the department of agriculture at Denver, Colo.

"By the middle of the month the big 10,000 ton Liberty ships began unloading daily," Wilson said, "and the Poles are working feverishly to complete arrangements to handle the huge tonnage.

"Shipments thus far comprise 25 per cent foodstuffs, 25 per cent clothing, 20 per cent medical supplies, 18 per cent agricultural implements and the balance transport.

First Tanker Due

"We drove in 3,000 used army trucks already and unloaded 3,000 tractors, and the first tanker with gasoline and diesel and lubricating oil is due tomorrow. The trucks will be loaded with supplies for distribution thruout the country and will drive away, relieving the shortage of locomotives and cars.

"Today the first live stock shipment was unloaded—bred mares and fresh cows to replenish supplies, as Poland lost 80 per cent of its stock during the war.

Expects Dreadful Winter

"The Polish government has not asked for heavy material like steel, concrete, and bridges for reconstruction, but has requested food, clothing, and transport in order to nourish and strengthen the population and permit the people to begin rebuilding the country themselves. I noticed stevedores at Danzig who could not lift boxes of food the first days, but after a week of the proper food their strength returned and they could lift similar boxes alone.

"I expect dreadful conditions here during the winter, but we are doing everything possible to help before frost sets in, altho it is a gigantic task to look after 23,000,000 people. Warsaw today, with plenty of luxuries and delicacies obtainable at fabulous prices, is an oasis in the midst of misery, but when the harvest is over and winter comes the city will feel a bitter pinch. Most of the farmers around the capital are bringing produce to town to sell in order to buy boots, shoes, clothing, and blankets for winter. Frost will soon end those supplies, and Warsaw will require our help also."

LEAGUE OR NO, POLES SEEK TREATY FOR SECURITY WITH U. S.

BY HENRY WALES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WARSAW, Poland, Oct. 1 [Delayed]—Poland wants a security pact with the United States, Wincenty Rzymowski, foreign minister and member of the Polish Democratic party, said today in an interview. The Warsaw government also seeks negotiated security guarantees from Britain and France, supplementing the treaty with the soviets.

The Polish policy reveals the little faith governments place in the united nations league's ability to preserve peace, and indicates they place more faith in direct, protective agreements.

"Yes, the Polish government is expelling Germans from Silesia and other areas which they colonized during the occupation," said Rzymowski. "Remember Poland lost 6,000,000 killed during the war, every Polish family lost a member, and we want no Germans in Poland."

Surrender of Japanese in N. China Set for Today

TIENTSIN, China, Oct. 4 (AP)—Official surrender of Japanese troops in north China is tentatively scheduled for 9 a. m. tomorrow at Tientsin. Marine Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commanding the 3d amphibious corps, will assist Nationalist Chinese generals in accepting the formal Nipponese capitulation.

NEW ZEALAND TO AID EUROPE

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Oct. 4 [Reuters]—New Zealand has collected 1,250,000 pounds of clothing and footwear for winter relief in Poland, Greece, Czechoslovakia, and Albania. These goods and $640,000 worth of used army clothing, footwear, and blankets purchased by the UNRRA will reach a Mediterranean port late in November.

REVEAL GERMAN PLOT TO POISON ALLIED TROOPS

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP)—The nazis planned a slow death by poisoning for the invading allies, and suicide for themselves if all else failed, the allied war crimes commission has disclosed.

Secret German papers made public by the commission revealed a plan for introducing a delayed action poison into alcoholic beverages which "friendly folk" would offer invading troops. Poison pills and capsules also were to be prepared for allied soldiers coming to first aid stations for treatment.

The papers, which reported the proceedings of a conference of official chemical experts at the Berlin secret police institute, said that the problem of concealing suicide doses for themselves had been studied by the nazis. The poison suicide of Heinrich Himmler probably illustrated this phase of the plan. Speed of the allied advance was credited with foiling the scheme.

VOTERS OF SPAIN TO ELECT THIRD OF CITY COUNCILS

MADRID, Spain, Oct. 4 (AP)—The Franco government told Spanish voters today that they could elect one-third the membership of municipal councils next year.

It was assumed the regime would keep its grip on the councils by appointing the remaining two-thirds itself or have the syndicates organized under its aegis appoint them.

These first elections since the end of the civil war in April, 1939, will be open only to heads of families in contrast to the period of the last republic, 1931-'36, when Spaniards enjoyed universal suffrage. Generalissimo Franco first promised municipal elections about a year ago.

BRITISH POLICE RAID HEART OF JERUSALEM; CHECK CAFE CROWDS

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Large parties of British mobile police with armored cars and tommy guns threw a cordon around the busy thorofares of the center of Jerusalem at noon today, British dispatches from Palestine said.

The police began an immediate search of cafes, restaurants, and public buildings and began checking identity cards.

RUSSIA PLANS TO COMPLETE ITS REBUILDING BY '50

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP)—Russia will pour billions of rubles into an attempt to rebuild its war devastated areas in five years, an undertaking that normally would take 25 years, the Moscow radio said tonight. It asserted that under the plan, sponsored by Generalissimo Stalin, Russia plans to have rebuilt by 1950 "the entire ruined economic structure of the nation up to the prewar level." The project embraces further economic development in the Ural mountains and Siberia, to which many major industries were transferred early in the war.

JUDGE RELENTS AFTER OUSTING LAVAL AT TRIAL

Vichyite's Lawyers Quit, but Plan Return

BY ROBERT SAGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 4—Pierre Laval, former Vichy chief of government, went on trial for his life without a lawyer today.

Fighting like an angry bull against charges of treason, he provoked incidents in a tumultuous session of the high court of justice that led the presiding judge, Paul Mongibeaux, to expel him from the courtroom and order the trial continued in his absence.

Mongibeaux relented tonight, however, and said he would permit Laval to return to court tomorrow. He added that he was giving him "one more chance; the next expulsion will be final."

Lawyers to Return

The three lawyers who walked out on Laval as a protest against the court's refusal to reopen his pre-trial examination are expected to be at his side. One, Albert Naud, said they would return because they would not be permitted to practice again if they did not. The others are Jacques Baraduc and Jean Jaffry. All were appointed by the court.

After Laval had picked up the job of defending himself, a defense charge that the court was mixing politics with justice started the prosecutor, Andre Mornet, who won a death sentence for the spy Mata Hari in World War I., on a long oratorical rebuttal.

All in the Same Boat, Laval Says

What he said enraged Laval, who, squirming, muttered to himself. As Mornet listed his alleged acts of treason, Laval jumped up and shouted:

"You were all at the orders of the Vichy government—you, the magistrates, and you, Mr. Prosecutor. I am a Frenchman and I love my country. You can convict me, but you haven't the right to insult me."

This was greeted with jeers from the jurors. Judge Mongibeaux shouted to gendarmes to take out Laval and threatened to continue the trial without him. Laval apologized and the trial proceeded.

The incident that led the judge to expel him came late in the afternoon when Laval, after vainly protesting that he was too tired to continue, got into a verbal battle with the judge and the jurors and again lost his temper. He accused the magistrates of leading him into an ambush and of denying him elementary guarantees.

Ordered to Leave

At a loud protest from the jurors, Laval shouted:

"Take me out of here right away and the whole thing will be clearer. All you have to do is convict me."

"Take the defendant out," the judge ordered.

"I'll take myself out all alone," growled Laval, stuffing his papers into his briefcase and starting for the door.

Guards arrested a son of Pierre Cathala, Vichy finance minister, who had cried, "Vive, Laval!"

Amid confusion court was adjourned until tomorrow.

The trial opened with a stubborn attempt by Laval to obtain a postponement of the trial on the grounds that political motives had made the court rush the opening go on without completion of the pre-trial examination.

After the reading of the indictment, which Laval called "a bad piece of journalism," Judge Mongibeaux reviewed Laval's career while Laval muttered to himself, "That's what you think," "I've got half a mind not to defend myself," "That's not true," and similar comments. Time and again he interrupted the judge to make speeches defending his actions and asserting he always had been a patriot.

He wasn't the one who persecuted the Jews, Laval said, put the Free Masons out of business, and hounded the Communists, and as for the English, he had always been a great admirer of them. As for the accusation that he had hob-nobbed with Hitler and Mussolini, Laval said he would associate with Stalin in the same circumstances, and he added with a bitter smile that his famous sentence, "I desire a victory for Germany," was not nearly so bad as the things done by Stalin and Molotov in 1939-40.

"During this trial you will see what kind of man I am," said Laval. "I will answer every question frankly. I won't conceal anything. I will produce documents to support everything I say. When I get thru you will understand I never did anything but serve my country."

There's "Mud Around Me"

Answering the court's questions about his private fortune, which is reputed to be upward of $1,400,000, Laval said, "I've got $200 now. It is deposited with the cashier of the Fresnes prison." But he said he would welcome an opportunity to tell how much he had made and how he had got it, adding ominously, "There is a little mud around me and I will take pleasure in washing myself in public."

The legend of his great wealth was created in 1936 by the Front Populaire, he said.

Laval entered court a sick man, suffering from stomach ulcers and the effects of an assassin's bullet still lodged near his heart. This and the fact that he is not permitted to smoke in court [he is a chain smoker of three of four packs of cigarets a day] may have contributed to his irritability. Since his appearance as a witness in the trial of Marshal Petain, Laval has lost 10 pounds.

The 24 jurors include three women, one of whom is Mrs. Gabriel Peri, widow of a communist leader who was murdered by the Germans.

BUILDING CODE FINE DELAYED FOR 8TH TIME

Judge Francis Borrelli in License court yesterday granted Joseph Winkler his eighth continuance on a motion to vacate a $100 fine imposed for violation of the city's building code. The complaint cited violations existing in a building at 541-543 N. Clark st.

Winkler, who holds leases on half a dozen near north side apartment buildings, faces seven other complaints brought by the building, health, and fire departments.

Records in License court allege he has failed to comply with municipal law in 42 instances, has failed to appear in court to answer charges on seven occasions, and has been granted about 25 continuances. He has been fined a total of $300 and costs but has paid nothing because motions to vacate the fines are still pending.

NATIVES OF JAVA SEIZE CONTROL OF TWO CITIES

BATAVIA, Java, Oct. 4 (AP)—Indonesian Nationalists are in control of two of Java's most important cities, Soerabaja and Bandoeng, an allied military spokesman has disclosed.

An Aneta dispatch said the Nationalists had seized the airfield at Soerabaja, principal naval base in the Netherlands Indies. Three flyers approaching the field turned back when they saw it thronged with natives waving Nationalist flags and bamboo spears. A sailor and press photographers returning from Bandoeng said that Indonesians had seized Japanese armored cars and weapons.

Lt. Comdr. Paul de Bach of the Netherlands navy, allied representatives in Soerabaja for the recovery of war prisoners and internees, was arrested there and held overnight.

Two additional British Indian regiments arrived here, bringing forces in Batavia to the strength of a brigade, and more detachments were on the way.

Argentine Ship Sinks in Collision; Crew Saved

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 4 (AP)—The United States cargo vessel Atlanta City radioed today that the 1,405 ton Argentine cargo ship Toro sank after the two vessels collided off Rio Grande Do Sul, Brazil, and that she had picked up all 25 members of the Toro's crew. Herself damaged, the Atlanta City, 5,686 tons, reported she was putting back into Montevideo for repairs.

RUSSIANS BLOCK NEW U. S. PLAN TO SOLVE PEACE

Proposed General Allied Parley Gaining

LONDON, Oct. 4 (AP)—An American proposal for a general allied peace conference gained support in diplomatic quarters tonight, but one barrier remained—Russia's insistence that France and China be excluded from basic peace treaty drafting.

Diplomats were hopeful that the barrier might be removed by direct telephone talks of President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee, and Premier Stalin, or by agreement of Stalin after he confers with Foreign Commissar Molotov.

The Soviet news agency Tass asserted in a dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio that the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, China and France had made "no effort whatever" at the council of foreign ministers to find a formula to settle the dispute.

Australian Proposal

Underlining support of the American plan, advanced by Secretary of State Byrnes, was the policy-making conference proposed today by Herbert Evatt, Australian foreign minister.

Evatt urged that representatives of Britain, the United States and Russia meet to discuss questions of major principle and policy, preliminary to general peace talks open to all nations which "sustained belligerence" against the axis.

The preliminary conference of the heads of state would rule out any further breakdown in negotiations, Evatt contended.

France Seeks Equal Share

Various diplomatic representatives made it evident that Belgium, the Netherlands, Czechoslovakia, Iran, India, Yugoslavia, and other active belligerents against the axis would welcome a full dress peace conference.

France insists upon an equal share in all discussions dealing with European peace. China has remained silent, but most diplomats said they believed she would support Byrnes' proposal.

Meanwhile, a Moscow dispatch said diplomatic observers in the soviet capital believed Russia favored the same kind of military consultation for Japan as exists in Germany. This, they said, was the intention of the letter from Molotov to Byrnes urging that a government for Japan controlled by the United States, Britain, Russia, and China, be set up before creation of a far eastern allied control committee.

BYRNES HOME; TO TELL WHAT HE DID IN LONDON

Schedules Radio Talk for Tonight

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Amid confused conjecture on the implications of what he agreed to in London, State Secretary Byrnes returned to Washington tonight as the capital awaited light on new allied arrangements for the occupation and government of Japan.

Whether Byrnes had made dangerous concessions to the British supported Russian demand for a control council which, instead of the United States alone, would boss the occupation and have power to remove Gen. MacArthur, as urged by soviet Foreign Commissar Molotov, was the question that nobody in the administration could answer.

Plans Radio Talk Tonight

Alighting with Mrs. Byrnes and state department aids and special advisers from a four-engine army transport, Byrnes would say only:

"I am happy to be back. In the morning I shall see the President. Tomorrow night I shall talk on the radio."

The 30 minute address was set for 9:30 p. m. Chicago time.

One of Byrnes' advisers, John Foster Dulles, said that he was optimistic over the outcome of international tangles but declined to comment further.

With an onslaught on MacArthur and American occupation policies Molotov on Sept. 22 sprang his demand for an allied control council on Byrnes at a meeting of the foreign ministers. He did not disguise the purpose to set up a body that could remove MacArthur and initiate the policies advocated by Moscow and the American Communists.

Byrnes parried the proposal with the argument that Japan was not on the agenda.

May Shunt U. S. Aside

In the next few days, however, Byrnes receded from the position he had taken. He had found himself under pressure from the British and the British dominions to accede to the Russian demand for a control council. On Sept. 29 Byrnes announced that the British and Russians had accepted a proposal made by the United States Aug. 22 "for the establishment of a far eastern commission to formulate a policy of carrying out the Japanese terms."

The commission will also be asked to consider whether a control council should be established.

In the negotiations leading up to this statement Byrnes had fought any control council that would relegate the United States from its position of dominance in Japan.

In the concession he made, however, Byrnes not only failed to stipulate a purely advisory role for the allied commission, but opened the way for a control council.

MARINE, 17, GETS CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL TODAY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 [Special]—Jacklyn Lucas, 17, of Belhaven, N. C., who joined the marines at the age of 14, will receive the congressional medal of honor from President Truman tomorrow, the youngest man ever to win the decoration.

Lucas performed his heroic deed during the bloody battle on Iwo Jima, a fight he got into by going AWOL from his unit at Honolulu and stowing away aboard a ship headed for the South Pacific.

In a trench during the battle with the Japanese, Lucas dived upon two grenades that rolled in among him and his companions. He was seriously wounded in the explosion which he covered with his body, but has now recovered and has been discharged from service.

STUDENT SLAIN AS ARGENTINE GROUPS CLASH

Rioters to Give Schools Over to Police

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 5 [Friday]—(AP)—Argentine students will surrender their universities to police authorities at 11 a. m. today, ending a two day siege in which one student was killed in fierce clashes with nationalist groups.

A 20 year old student was killed last night in front of the University of Buenos Aires engineering school.

Police Use Tear Gas

The death was the first in the rebellion by Argentine undergraduates against the military government. Earlier La Plata police used clubs and tear gas in efforts to oust students from university buildings there.

The fighting here broke out with the arrival in front of the school of groups shouting "Viva Peron," in approval of Vice President Juan Peron, Argentina's "strong man." The students answered with cries of "Viva Democracy," and the opposing groups surged together in fighting which police finally ended.

CRITICIZE ACHESON

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 [Special]—Leading members of the senate foreign relations committee have formally protested to Acting State Secretary Acheson about the manner in which the United States sought postponement of this month's scheduled meeting of the inter-American states at Rio de Janeiro.

The protest, it was learned tonight, was made here Tuesday, when Acheson called a meeting of the leading members of the committee and told them that the United States had asked Brazil to postpone the meeting in protest against the anti-democratic policies of the Farrell-Peron regime in Argentina.

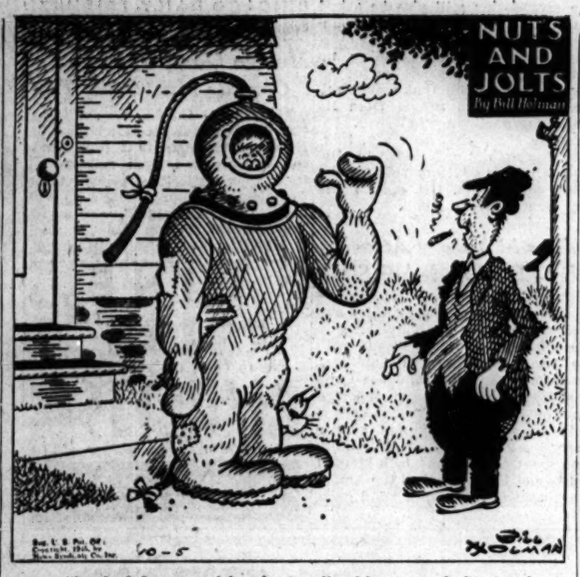
Consultations Urged

Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], chairman, and Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] both complained about the failure of the administration to discuss the matter with the foreign relations committee before deciding to seek the postponement and also protested about its seeking the postponement before consulting the other American republics.

Members of the committee emphasized that their protest should not be interpreted as support for the present Argentine government.

Connally, it was reported, suggested that if the administration really had wanted to make an effective demonstration against Argentina it should have gone to the conference and refused there to coöperate with the Farrell-Peron representatives in drafting a security pact for the hemisphere.

The Pan-American union announced its governing board will meet tomorrow to act on the United States' proposal for postponement of the conference in Brazil.



"I asked for one of her husband's old suits and this is what she gave me."

WINDSOR TO FLY (ALONE) TODAY TO VISIT MOTHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Oct. 4 — Travelling without Wally, Edward Windsor is expected to fly to London from Paris tomorrow.

It will be the first time the former king has set foot on English soil since 1940, when he came to London from France, where he was acting as chief liaison officer with the French forces.

He will stay at Marlborough house with his mother, the dowager Queen Mary, whom he has not seen in nine years, since before he abdicated. A small family dinner party has been arranged by the queen mother for tomorrow evening. King George, who will reach London from Balmoral, Scotland, tomorrow, is expected to attend. The brothers have not met for five years.

GUATEMALA AND HONDURAS HIT BY 75 MILE STORM

GUATEMALA CITY, Oct. 4 (AP)—A hurricane with winds reaching a velocity of 75 miles an hour was reported tonight to have struck the Caribbean coasts of Guatemala and Honduras, causing at least one death and heavy property damage.

Reports from Belize, British Honduras, said one person was killed and many injured at Punta Gorda, where 80 houses in the town of 7,000 population were demolished.

The storm was reported to have struck Livingston on the Guatemala coast, destroying nearly 40 houses and blowing out to sea a yacht and barges loaded with 10,000 bags of coffee.

GROCERY ROBBED BY BURGLARS

Burglars who broke into the grocery at 4903 Cottage Grove av. yesterday took $67, 19 cartons of cigarets, and three cases of whisky, all valued at $185, Benjamin Rooth, 919 E. 44th st., the owner, complained to police.

SHERIFFS YIELD TO STATE BAN ON 2 TERMS IN ROW

Sheriff Kirk King of Winnebago county, president of the Illinois Sheriffs' association, yesterday said that its executive committee has decided against taking to the state Supreme court the question of whether county sheriffs and treasurers can succeed themselves in office. Proposed action by the high court had been under consideration since an election last November when a proposal to change an existing constitutional amendment prohibiting sheriffs and treasurers from holding office for two consecutive terms failed to receive a majority of all votes cast.

A Discussion

By MARK MERIT

We have occasionally made the statement that there probably exists more misunderstanding about whiskey than about almost any other product. Literally millions of persons are moderate consumers of this product of two of the oldest natural processes known to man—namely, fermentation and distillation. But many misunderstand the factors which go to make a so-called fine whiskey, and it appears that there is misunderstanding even among some of our friends whose business it is to observe, record and interpret the trends and events in our industry.

For instance, we have before us an article clipped from one of our most esteemed sources of daily information. The headline tells the reader that the outlook is poor for fine whiskey; that Scotch and Bourbon whiskies are scarce; but there are plenty of blends.

We comment on it here because one of our closest friends read the article and asked a penetrating question. Said he, "Just what really is inferred when I'm told that because Scotch and Bourbon are in short supply, there are no other fine whiskies? My favorite is rye, and I like some blends, too. I just don't like the types of whiskies mentioned, but does that mean the kind I do like are not fine?"

Now that's the story, and my friend is eminently fair-minded. He didn't disparage either Scotch or Bourbon, because he knows there are fine Scotches and fine Bourbons—as everyone will agree. There are, too, fine ryes, fine blends—just as there are fine clear Havana cigars, and fine cigars which have Havana fillers and Sumatra wrappers, and shade-grown wrappers—in fact, fine blends of choice tobaccos.

Incidentally, this company produces straight whiskies and bonds and blends, and also markets in this country one of the world's most popular blended Scotch whiskies. Yet, we believe that the whiskies largely available today are as fine as any ever produced in this country. They are fine native American blended whiskies.

And may we say just once more, the whiskey your taste buds like best, is the finest whiskey for you—make no mistake about that.

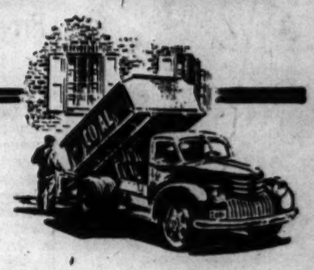
YOUR COAL DEALER



It was a long, tough, tragic pull — winning the war . . . It was particularly tough and tragic for those in uniform who fought so valiantly and sacrificed so much — but they came through.

There were folks on the home front, who had their troubles, too — but they came through. One of these we like to think about is your coal dealer. What with a shortage of equipment and manpower, and demands for coal which he sometimes had to parcel out — his job was no picnic. But with your understanding, cooperation and patience, he made the grade.

In the days of Peace that lie ahead, your coal dealer is anxious to cooperate with you just as closely as he did when we were "all out" to defeat our ruthless enemies. He can give you many suggestions that will be helpful.

FIRE LIMITS BAR DREAM COTTAGE BUILT OF WOOD

Unreasonable Barrier to Home Builder Cited

(The following is the fourth article in a series reporting a survey of the Chicago building code and building trades to determine whether the regulations encourage or dismay the family planning to build a home.)

BY LEWIS HUNT

Fire limits, within which construction of wood houses is forbidden, cover virtually the whole of Chicago, and this wide inclusion causes one of the major complaints expressed to THE TRIBUNE in its survey of the Chicago building code. Fire and provisional fire limits are defined in one chapter of the voluminous code.

The few exceptions from fire limits are areas generally undesirable for residence. Thus the limits constitute virtually a complete bar against the traditional frame house and the numerous modern advances in that type of construction.

Criticized as Extreme

Chicago's wide extension of fire limits is criticized as being extreme beyond the practices of other cities whose per capita fire loss is about the same. It also is declared to be unreasonable when compared with the National Board of Fire Underwriters' definition of fire limits, which states:

"There shall be prescribed fire limits including all closely built mercantile and adjoining manufacturing districts and surrounding blocks on all sides which constitute an exposure to the district, or within which new construction is developing of a mercantile or manufacturing character. Within these limits frame construction shall be prohibited."

The most vocal sponsors of frame houses are dealers in materials used in that type of construction. They feel that they were refused fair consideration with other materials interests when the code was in the making and they declare that continued exclusion of their wares places an unreasonable restriction on the citizen planning to build a home.

Advances in Frame Houses

Frame houses in other cities and in Chicago suburbs are built with advanced ideas, it was pointed out. These include the use of insulating board for outer wall sheathing. Boards are supplied in large sizes, which go in place with savings in labor and time. Besides their insulating qualities, these boards test structural strength above the requirements set by all building codes for lumber, the manufacturers assert.

The use of decorative plywoods and compressed woods for inner walls also is advocated by the manufacturers. Under the Chicago code this material may be used only when applied over a regular plastered wall. Spokesmen for insulating board makers say their product was approved for inner walls without plaster by the technical advisory committee on the code but was rejected in council committee hearings.

Amount of Saving Debatable

While a frame house is popularly regarded as less expensive than masonry, the question of how much less is said to be debatable in view of a tight lumber market. In response, insulating board advocates, particularly those speaking for fiber and gypsum board makers, recommend their products as substitutes needed to ease the shortage of lumber.

Aside from the merits of modern frame construction, its supporters view its exclusion from the Chicago code as another instance of arbitrarily denying the home builder his choice of materials enjoyed by Americans in other places.

Enclosed in Chicago's fire limits or equally restrictive provisional limits, builders point out, are large areas of prairie where realty prices are suited to extensive building of small homes. Chicago's total vacant space is a high percentage compared with other large cities, yet much of it is under the same fire limits that cover construction in congested districts.

Suburban Standards Liberalized

Builders declare that unless code restrictions are lowered to encourage small home building, outlying vacant areas never will be built. A home builder shopping for a lot close to the city limits will realize that if he picks his site within the city he must build to Chicago imposed standards, but if he goes a short distance over the boundary into a suburb with a liberal code, he will be permitted a choice of materials on which he can save money.

[Another article in the survey will be printed in an early issue of The Tribune.]

EX-ALD. ALBERT SUED BY WIFE FOR CRUELTY

Arthur F. Albert, former 43d ward alderman and candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor in 1931, was charged with cruelty in a divorce suit filed in Circuit court yesterday by his wife, Rosella.

Mrs. Albert, represented by Thomas J. Sheehan and James J. McDermott, charged that her husband, who is president of the Standard X-ray company, 1932 Burling st., struck her on an average of twice a week from January, 1936 until Sept. 22 and abused and derided her before friends. The bill states Albert's income is $30,000 annually.

The Alberts, who have one son, Albert Jr., were married July 14, 1927.

POLICE DISPERSE 2 MEETINGS OF STUDENTS IN DAY

Policemen from the Gresham station last night broke up a meeting of about 250 pupils outside the Calumet High school, 81st and May sts. Group leaders said they voted to send a delegation today to the school principal asking permission to use the auditorium for discussion of racial problems.

Earlier in the day policemen commanded by Acting Capt. Barth J. Moran broke up a demonstration by more than 400 pupils outside the school. About 30 boys and girls were taken to the police station and lectured by Capt. Moran and Thomas Wright, executive director of Mayor Kelly's committee on race relations.

Their parents also were summoned to the station and it was pointed out to them that children under 16 might be sent to the juvenile home for truancy if absenteeism continues. While 1,700 pupils were absent from their classes in the school Wednesday, the number dropped yesterday to fewer than 500, Capt. Moran said.

HIROHITO—MAN, MOUSE, OR MYTH?

There is a simple and angry view of Hirohito which cannot be called unjustified. It is that he had no scruples until the military enterprises of Japan failed, that he couldn't have been shut in from all knowledge of the excesses of his troops, and that he could not have been unaware of what was being done to the occupied countries. Accordingly, so long as the ventures paid he did not use his influence to restrain or moderate his militarists and the exploiters. He may have been one of the principal profiteers. This view would hold that when Japan began to take heavy losses the emperor's conscience stirred and that when complete catastrophe appeared certain he experienced an overnight change of character and since has sought to save himself and the dynasty by sidling up to the soft side of the Americans. This opinion has its share of realistic reasoning. It may, however, be too simple.

Hirohito has done revolutionary things. We may not be able to comprehend how revolutionary they are. He has not, as yet, separated himself from the throne, but he has come down off the roof of heaven. It seems apparent that he has done so at great risks. One risk the Americans in Japan may have shared with him. His loss of prestige might have made it impossible to control the fanaticism which resisted so desperately, almost to the last man, everywhere Americans encountered the Japanese army except in the home islands where there were several million soldiers when MacArthur landed with his small force of advance occupation troops.

The authority which brought the submission of a great army in Japan and on the continent was that of a head of government, a single man, screened by mysticism and revered beyond occidental comprehension. When he spoke to the people of Japan, even by phonograph record played to the radio, he broke tradition and we know there were critical moments before that record got on the air and other critical moments before the Japanese commissioners could get away to Manila.

When Hirohito gave interviews to American reporters he stepped out of traditional character and he shattered the entire emperor myth when he visited Gen. MacArthur and was photographed alongside the tall American soldier. Whatever his talents the emperor has none in front of a camera. His appearance is peculiarly undistinguished and his expression peculiarly vacant. When that photograph was printed in the Japanese papers the emperor had joined the ranks of the common man. Reports which say that the Japanese people were shocked are believable.

These overtures on the emperor's part were not required by anything in MacArthur's demands thus far or, so far as is known, by any instructions sent him. They were voluntary actions. The man might have been arrested and held with the other prisoners. He would have been if the extremists in this country, if the Russians and their party line people here, and some of the vicarious victors in Europe had been able to dictate policy. Apparently there is no rage like that of a country which gets something for nothing, but not enough.

Thruout Asia and many of its rich islands one of history's most astonishing episodes is taking place. Japanese armies are surrendering to forces they've never seen in battle unless in retreat. In a military sense it's ridiculous, even in Manchuria where the Russian Siberian army pounced on a defeated nation. Elsewhere it's grotesque. The ragged troops of China have been flown into garrison cities to take a submission they couldn't have won in another thousand years of fighting. The European possessors can't get their troops into the recovered territories fast enough to keep the natives from going native. The Japanese troops must protect their synthetic conquerors.

Colonialism has gone wild. The Dutch, English, French, Australian, and New Zealand exploiters can't recover what they owned because, altho America brought the Hirohito peace rescript, none of the proprietors was prepared for the end of the war. The Japanese surrender to forces which then must ask them to police the countries, keep the natives in subjection, and ease the return of the incompetent owners to their possessions. And we, having conquered Japan, are a party to these proceedings. So far as we are concerned the war aims are lost on continental Asia. We must swallow our words. There remains Japan itself.

If we allow any of the power conspirators to have anything to say in the management of affairs in Japan itself we shall be guilty of an offense against moral nature. Hirohito is a mystery to us. He may, contrary to the justifiable and realistic criticism of his conduct, be an incredible revolutionary who wants to see his country reëstablished on a better foundation no, matter what it costs him. Are we to dismiss this as impossible? What have we to gain by doing so until the evidence incontestably proves us wrong? In 1865 a segregated Japanese emperor broke out of the rule of the mayors of the palace and brought Japan out into the world.

We do not know in what restraints the head of the Japanese government played his part before and during the war, or to what extent the mayors of the palace actually ruled until defeat enabled the emperor to break away and conduct his own revolution for the good of his country. Thus far we have had nothing but profit from it.

TIME'S A'WASTIN'

The trial balloon hoisted on behalf of the Clearing airport appears to have been punctured and collapsed almost as soon as it left the ground. This is fortunate, because so long as the site was under discussion action toward the acquisition and development of the Douglas airport was blocked.

The supposed objections to Douglas, brought up by the Clearing advocates, were pretty well demolished by Ralph H. Burke, park engineer and member of Mayor Kelly's airport selection board. He demonstrated that without moving the railroad tracks the Douglas port could be developed to handle six planes a minute on runways from 6,000 to 8,000 feet long.

The aviation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce has just pointed out that while Chicago is standing still in airport development other cities are making tremendous strides, which may endanger this city's position as an air traffic center. The committee recommends all possible speed in airport development.

Andrew Rebori Jr., former air force major and member of the advisory board of the state department of aeronautics, has even predicted that before the end of this winter the Douglas airport, in its present condition, will be needed as a stop-gap to handle air traffic into this city during bad weather.

Informed opinion is overwhelmingly in favor of the Douglas site. When does Chicago get it?

HOW TO TELL A FASCIST

Hal Foust of THE TRIBUNE is back in Stockholm, where he is writing the first full report of what is going on behind the screen of Russian censorship in Baltic Europe. Much of his information he gathered in Finland, which is struggling to fulfill the onerous terms of the peace imposed by Russia and, at the same time, is being infiltrated by communist agents trained in revolutionary tactics in Moscow.

In Helsinki Mr. Foust found that many Finnish leaders, long esteemed as patriots by their fellow citizens, are now being bitterly assailed by the communist press in Finland as "Fascists." This is by now an old and threadbare trick of the Communists. As it is used by them, "Fascist" is a term applied to any one who dislikes communism and opposes its extension. It is a smear word.

Now Fascist and fascism are perfectly sound terms with properly unpleasant and disreputable connotations. In its original meaning, "Fascist" was applied to the adherents of the system established in Italy by Mussolini, under which every important activity in national life was placed under the control and surveillance of a dictatorial government. By permissible analogy, the word later came to apply to Hitler and his Nazis, to Franco and his followers, to the various movements which Hitler sponsored to disrupt government in the Balkans and eastern Europe, and even, with slightly less accuracy, to the combination of oriental despotism and military oligarchy by which Japan was ruled.

All of these regimes had certain elements in common. They established governments under which the individual was deprived of all his rights and made, in every aspect of his life, a complete servant of the state. They deprived the majority of the people of any voice in political affairs and confined the control of the government to a small group of so-called elite, who maintained their power by armed force and terror.

They all, it so happened, were bitter enemies of communism, in large part because they were rivals of Russia in the field of power politics. They couldn't very well oppose communism on ideological grounds because they and the Communists were working opposite sides of the same street. In domestic affairs the Communists were a rival gang intent on ousting the Fascists and subjecting the population to the same slavery that the Fascists imposed.

In fact, it is quite easy to identify a Fascist. The test is, how closely does he resemble a Communist? If he believes that a small, self-chosen group should run the government, that the welfare of the state transcends the welfare of the individual, that the individual should be deprived of all the civil rights which make it possible for him to protest or resist the imposition on him of the state's will, that murder and torture are permissible weapons in enforcing that will or suppressing opposition to it, and if he also hates communism, then he's a Fascist.

But if a man believes in the essential dignity of the human individual, in his right to stand humbly before God and on terms of equality with his fellow citizens; if he believes that the state is the servant of its people, subject to their will, and not their master, subjecting them to its will; if he hates and detests every murderous device of the state to deprive its people of their liberty, then he must necessarily hate communism because it is the negation of all in which he believes and he must, of equal necessity, hate fascism, because it is also the negation of what he believes.

The Communist, nevertheless, will call him a Fascist, which reduces that term to absurdity. In any rational vocabulary he is a God fearing man and a patriot.

YOU STILL HAVE TO WORK FOR IT

[Swea City, Ia., Herald]

We should like to assure service men and women, puzzled about their civilian future, and perhaps a bit frightened, that they still live in the land of opportunity. In this respect nothing has been lost during the time they have been away defending the country, all this blah about unemployment to the contrary notwithstanding. We shall go so far as to assert that opportunities are vastly greater and more attractive than when we started out 40 years ago. The country will have to be rebuilt all the way from the kitchen sink to the great airports and commercial structures. Young men and women of initiative and courage never had a better chance, whether they elect to remain in rural America or the urban centers.

There is, however, one very important qualification—to-wit: the rules of the game have not changed. You still have to work for it yourself. Nobody is standing on the street corner ready to hand it to you, handsomely wrapped.

Moreover, it is the depth of folly to depend upon war pensions or bonuses. Likewise, cut a sharp course between the groaners of which we seem to have plenty, on the one hand, and the do-gooders, especially the political do-gooders, on the other hand.

Yep, Bud and Sis, it's there for you to get, but you have got to do the gittin' yourself.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Herringbone should remind one of which type of shop? Hardware Haberdashery Jeweler's Drug store
2. Which one of these will be the most efficient test for the perpendicular? Square Level Plumb bob Compass
3. A concussion usually makes one think of which part of the body? Chest Skull Eye Leg
4. The number of degrees in the three angles of a triangle is 90 degrees 135 degrees 160 degrees 180 degrees
5. The Little Brown Jug is a college symbol associated with which sport? Football Baseball Basketball Track
6. This is a vocabulary test in which you are to match the words in the left hand column below with their synonyms as listed in the opposite column. You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.

[a] Oversee	[v] Superlative
[b] Miraculous	[w] Supersede
[c] Replace	[x] Supervise
[d] Highest	[y] Supernatural
[e] Divine	[z] Superhuman

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

IT'S LINEBOOK TIME

The Linebook of 1945, 22d annual publication of A Line o' Type or Two, goes on sale today, and, therefore, its editor rises from his swivel chair to say a few words. It's his baby, even if he passes out advice instead of cigars.

A copy of this item, which we naturally regard as choice, may be acquired at newsstands, book shops, and THE TRIBUNE's public service offices. The wherewithal required for such over-the-counter purchases is 25 cents. By mail order, it costs 30 cents; and if you wish us to handle direct mailing overseas, to addresses which you may supply, the charge is 40 cents. That is all the large family of Linebook readers needs to know, but we will add a warning: If you wait until the urge for Christmas shopping strikes you, about the middle of December, you may be disappointed. This little number is a fast mover.

The publication date is the earliest in Linebook history, because the war and its regulations for shipping Christmas boxes to soldiers and sailors still linger in the lap of peace. Next year, maybe, the Thanksgiving day tradition can be restored. The edition is exactly as large as last year's, which was sold out in 10 days.

TO AN OLD BIBLE

By soft lamplight, how many an ended day
In private benediction you have dressed,
And with immortal music healed away
All ills of thought, leaving the heart at rest!
Your company how oft a truer peace,
A fresher strength, have brought to body and mind,
Than human hand or human voice release,
Or may be found in aught of humankind!
How deep the spirit-debt to you men owe,
What harborage you lend a world of storm,
What miracles of counsel you perform,
Mortals like me can never really know
Until, in evening's private hour, is heard
The matchless beauty of your ageless word.

Letter to a Skeptic

I see a cat. The cat's name is Ferdinand. It is a silver tabby.

Is it a female? No. It is an It. Are all tabbies females? No, they are not.

What is a tabby? "A brindled or streaked cat." Who, please, done tole you? Pappy Funk and Pappy Wagnalls.

Are all tabbies silver? No, some tabbies are brown. And some tabbies are red. Some are long haired. And some are short haired.

Can Ferdinand speak? Yes, he speaks, and often. What does he say? "Smile when you call me a female, suh."

THE LITTLE HOUSE

O, little house of Memory and Love,
No stranger could your grace or beauty see;
No alien heart ere be attuned to hear
The songs of dreams that you have kept for me.

What visions do the sunset glories fling
Athwart your trellised panes, your mossy walls!
What recollections wake to winds that sing

The friendly elms that guard your waiting door;
Your threshold worn with dear feet that have passed—
That shall return, alas, no more, no more.

A little shrine is each familiar room
That prayers of silent lips remain to bless,
Where in the firelight or the twilit gloom,
Lost faces shine with old-time tenderness.

May I point out the curious coincidence that the locomotive whistle was invented by a man named Whistler? He was Maj. George Washington of that ilk, an early Chicagoan, son of the Capt. John Whistler who built the first Fort Dearborn. He constructed the first railroad in Russia, between St. Petersburg and Moscow, often alleged to be a perfectly straight line. Maybe it had a curve or two, but it was the only government project in Russian history, up to that time, which wasn't completely crooked.

Mrs. J. B. writes: "My husband was drafted four years ago and now is a technical sergeant. If he joins the regular army now and keeps his rank, will I continue to get family allowance for myself and child? How long will I get the $80 allowance?"

Yes. Family allowances will continue to be paid to enlisted men who are discharged now to reënlist in the regular army. The allowances will be continued for six months after congress or the President declares the present war ended. Whether allowances will be paid after that date depends upon future action of congress. Previous to enactment of the family allowance act married enlisted men in the top three pay grades—staff sergeant, technical sergeant, master, and first sergeant, received a monthly allowance of $37.50 for quarters if not living in quarters supplied free by the government.

W. L. C. writes: "I now am hospitalized for coronary thrombosis and am to be discharged when medical treatment is completed. Does a soldier sign away any compensation rights when he accepts a certificate of disability discharge? I have been informed I will not be able to return to my pre-war job as a traveling salesman. What per cent of compensation should I receive? I was 30 years old when inducted in 1942. Can I go to college under the GI bill to prepare for another profession?"

You do not lose any rights. Your rating will depend upon the findings of the veterans' administration rating board. You can get a year of college under the GI bill, but if found compensable you can apply for vocational rehabilitation.

"PAINLESS" CHILDBIRTH

THE alleviation of pain in childbirth is a 100 year old crusade which had its origin when James Y. Simpson discovered chloroform. He had sought such a preparation for the chief purpose of easing the distress associated with this adventure.

As would be expected the idea was met with a storm of protest by the public and the medical profession. "It wasn't natural," they said. Many objected for religious reasons. The good Scotch doctor met every argument with an answer, recalling that other innovations had also been censured. But the dispute continues and, altho dressed in modern style, remains unsettled. Much of this turmoil results from lack of understanding as to just what can be done.

Partial relief can now be provided but not to the extent that the mother takes a pill at the first twinge, falls asleep, and awakens to find the baby in her arms. Should any woman have this impression she is sadly misinformed. There are, however, methods which will afford respite thru the most agonizing stages of labor. It must be remembered that the physician will allow help only so long as it does no harm to mother or child and does not interfere with delivery.

The ordinary anesthetics are still the most frequently utilized régimes and are useful when the intensity is at its worst. Ether, nitrous oxide [laughing gas], or cyclopropane are administered with each successive pain and the patient is awake in the intervals. Morphine is commonly employed if the arrival is not anticipated immediately. It does not stop pains entirely but if the mother is exhausted it affords her some relaxation. Unfortunately, the drug may be passed on to the child and handicap its breathing at birth.

When added to scopolamine, it is called "twilight sleep." This combination was widely publicized in the past but few realized that one of its ingredients was morphine. Those who praised it the loudest were probably unaware of its effect on the baby. Mother, on the other hand, was delighted for it created a temporary oblivion. Altho she went thru all the motions of suffering, she remembered none of them. When everything went all right, it is little wonder that she insisted upon, even demanded, twilight sleep. But, again, the physician knew best.

This was followed in turn by inserting into the rectum small quantities of ether dissolved in olive oil. This measure was safe and worked well in four out of five cases. Then the barbiturates and paraldehyde were introduced. These sleep producing chemicals dim the recollection of discomfort by bringing on an amnesia and the patient knows nothing about her labor.

The most recent development is to freeze the nerves leading to the pelvis so that there is loss of sensation without hindering contractions. This is continuous caudal anesthesia and has proved successful in a large number of cases. As with other measures, it is to be used only in the later periods of delivery.

Because the plan was presented during the war, few physicians have had an opportunity to study it in detail. The procedure is difficult and, unless performed correctly, may be dangerous. In addition, it needs the coöperation of a well trained anesthetist. More time will be necessary before the profession can adopt the method routinely, but its prospects look good.

Westward Crossing

[Excerpts from a soldier's letter.]

We left Camp Stoneman, near Pittsburgh, Cal., for overseas—loaded down with more equipment than a Fuller brush man. Our packs kept banging our shoulders and our accessories rattled like armaments on a circus horse. Three hundred air corps men, marching and singing along the road to the docks where a ferry waited for us.

It was 6 a. m. and we could hardly have expected beautiful girls waving us good-by. That happens only in the movies. But several eager children gave us our send-off in lively style, if not with proper inflections.

The ferry boat resembled a lake steamer. It was that ugly gray most naval ships are painted. Wonder why? We waited and waited. Finally we grabbed our lean, heavy duffle bags and ran aboard. We were arranged in lines, neat rows—like sardines without the oil! . . .

Before we came into San Francisco bay we could distinguish the white letters "ALCATRAZ," yellow buildings . . . out there on an island. . . . It did not look inviting!

Frisco itself—on its seven hills—was more appealing, the sunlight flashing on its towers. . . . We were served hot coffee and cookies by the Red Cross girls, cheerful and smiling. Great ocean transports looked to us like skyscrapers, for many of us were seeing them for the first time.

The "Golden Gate" turned out to be mostly hunks of rocks—not too attractive. But the bridge won bravos for its beauty. Automobiles crossing it looked like match boxes. We passed it and looked back to see its outlines fade—and wondered when we would be seeing it again.

Our ship was the U. S. Joseph Dickman—and was once the S. S. Roosevelt, which had a big part in the Normandy invasion and also took troops to Okinawa. Before the war it was a luxury liner. . . .

Loud speakers are everywhere, even on the top deck. We hear the captain's brisk order. "No gambling on this ship." Every one listens intently. They always do. Ten minutes later the poker games and dice games start. . . .

We kept turning our watches back to keep up with the announcements of time changes. . . . Finally we "lost" a day. One minute it was Sunday. . . . Then presto! Tuesday! That was a week that had no Monday.

Men everywhere taking sun baths and watching the flying fish arch into the air . . . silver flashes. . . . Crap games. . . . Movies . . . old films. The screen hung in the middle with the audience on both sides, titles hard to read for those on the "wrong" side. . . . One of the stars was Judy Garland. . . . Gifts from the Red Cross . . . bags containing such things as soap, a comb, razor blades, candy, cigarets. . . .

One day, good news from the loud speakers. . . . "No more censorship" . . . and everybody rushes to write letters. . . . This is written on shipboard and the motion doesn't help our writing. . . . We are remembering our folks back home and the world we left. . . .

SHANGHAIED TO THE PACIFIC

Wilmette, Ill., Oct. 2—Yesterday morning while at the breakfast table I read your editorial, "They Hate the Army."

A few hours later the postman handed me a letter from my son whom I have not heard from for over three months. I was shocked to read: "I am in the Philippines."

My son volunteered in January, 1942. He is a radio operator in the signal corp. He has been 27 months in Africa and Italy and has 91 points.

In this letter yesterday he wrote that his organization was put on an alert last June and all mail stopped, then were taken to their boat, which was built to hold 2,000 men but 3,000 were crammed on it. After two months they landed and he, with 49 GI's, were put in a boxcar with their bags for 12 hours until they reached their destination.

I believe it was President Truman who said that those who served in North Africa and Italy would not have to go to the Pacific. Why were these boys sent, if that was the ruling? Who ordered them sent?

What is wrong? Hate the army? Ask the mothers.

SUPPORTING WAR BONDS

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 20—Following World War I., to get urgently needed working capital for reconversion and reconstruction, American industry and foreign governments borrowed vast sums and paid high interest rates in the American money market. The result was a rapid decline of 10 to 20 points on war bond prices with great loss to individual, bank, and institutional holders.

To avoid the same unpleasant aftermath to World War II., the following suggestion is submitted. A law should be passed by congress requiring the treasury to use all social security tax collections to buy war bonds in the open market. Social security tax collections would thus be used to support open market war bond prices and not to finance current operations of the government.

1. The ordinary course is to place such an instrument in the hands of an attorney for collection. The possibility of collecting depends on the debtor's assets and income.
2. No, in the sense that he would be limited to the amount agreed to be paid.

V. F. W. BACKS AMERICA FIRST FOREIGN POLICY

Opposes Gift of A-Bomb; Hits World Isms

BY GEORGE TAGGE

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, which represents a million overseas fighters of World Wars I. and II., yesterday adopted resolutions setting for American foreign policy the course of looking after American interests first.

The expressions of policy, approved at the 46th annual encampment's closing session in Orchestra hall, included the following on international affairs:

1. A demand that the United States keep the atomic bomb for itself. This rejected the recommendation of the united nations veterans' conference, sponsored by the V. F. W., that the discovery be turned over to the united nations. The V. F. W. said the bomb should be employed for a world peace force only if this nation is an active participant.

Internationalists Rebuked

2. A warning that the V. F. W. will battle "to the limit of our ability and resources" the efforts of "certain internationally minded ideologists" to disregard the Constitution by having congress delegate its authority to declare war to a world organization. This stand, it was specified, takes precedence over any other resolution that might be deemed in conflict.

3. A request that congress support legislation needed to make the United States a party to efforts for world peace. The objection of some delegations that the United States delegate to a security conference might be empowered to approve belligerent action apparently was met by the resolution on congress' right to declare war.

4. A recommendation that the government exercise caution and regard for national self-interest in dealing with "clamor" for further loans and direct gifts to foreign nations. It was pointed out that grants, loans, relief, and other American generosity in the past did not prevent World War II.

Universal Training Indorsed

5. A plea that veterans of combat be appointed to be among the United States representatives at the peace conference.

6. A recommendation that enemy prisoners in the United States, and aliens who came here shortly before, or because of, the war, be returned to their home countries.

7. Reaffirmation of support of universal military training to provide a reservoir of trained man power.

The encampment also adopted a resolution urging revision of the federal tax system so that encouragement will be given investments to provide jobs in private enterprises. A government guarantee of jobs for all, the resolution said, might put America on the path to communism.

The V. F. W.'s program for benefitting veterans included three main points, recommending:

1. Legislation granting seniority rights to World War II. veterans who have no reemployment rights now because they never had jobs or for other reasons.

Bonus Recommendations Made

2. Payment of a federal bonus of $3, but not more than $3,500, for home service, and $4 a day, but not more than $4,500, for overseas service.

3. That employers make pledges to reserve 25 per cent of jobs for veterans and that women with employed husbands pledge themselves to quit war time jobs.

The proposal to admit women as members of the V. F. W. was shelved for a year because it had not been placed before local posts 15 days before the convention.

Joseph M. Stack, Pittsburgh, Pa., who is Allegheny county [Pittsburgh] chief of detectives, was elected commander in chief by unanimous vote. Louis E. Starr, Portland, Ore., was named to succeed Stack as senior vice commander. Ray H. Brannaman, Denver, Colo., got Starr's old position as junior vice commander.

Other officers named are Lyall T. Beggs, Madison, Wis., judge advocate general, and the Rev. Clarence B. Hall, Catlin, Vermilion county, national chaplain.

WARNS AMERICA NOT TO TRY TO REBUILD WORLD

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 4 [Special]—Stand up for the cause of America and don't let the internationalists sell us on the idea it's our duty to rebuild the world, State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder declared here today.

Arthur C. Lueder

Let the other countries pay their part and let Americans be as staunch supporters of their country as the Englishman is of England and the communist is of Russia, the state official said in a speech at the first fall meeting of the Caravan club.

"Today the internationalists are telling us it is our duty and obligation to refinance and rebuild the world. This nation has paid a great price in this war. War has always taken a great toll of money, great armies of youth, and has provoked famine and disaster. Let the other countries of the world pay their price as we Americans are paying ours.

"Let us stand up and work and fight for everything which is American. Let no interest, whatsoever it may be, be successful in unselling the American people on the philosophy of government which gave them the greatest nation ever created by the grace of God."

BYRNES ASKED TO GIVE CONGRESS FULL LIST OF FOREIGN LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—State Secretary Byrnes was called upon by Rep. Allen [R., Ill.] today to furnish to congress a list of loans or grants of money to foreign governments proposed by the administration.

In a letter to Byrnes, Allen also inquired if any foreign government seeking financial aid of the United States had been required to submit a financial budget of its annual tax revenue from all sources and a breakdown of expenses.

"What steps are being taken to determine the present ability of the people of the United States to extend further funds to foreign government," asked Allen, "in view of the fact that in the 10 years preceding World War II., the treasury was unable to collect from the people in any one fiscal year enough taxes to pay more than half the cost of running the federal government? How long can we continue to operate at an annual deficit and stay solvent?"

SUBCOMMITTEE TO SCAN LIQUOR SALE ORDINANCE

A proposed ordinance introduced by Ald. Cohen [4th], which would hold a minor who lied about his age in order to obtain liquor guilty with the seller, was sent to a subcommittee of the city council committee on judiciary yesterday after a public meeting of the main committee. Ald. Brody [39th], who heads the full committee, will head the subcommittee.

The ordinance, which would provide fines ranging from $10 to $200 for each offense, was termed two sided by Miss Jessie Binford, head of the Juvenile Protective association, who pointed out that parents, who make most complaints and who would have to testify as to the offender's age, might shy from the task if it meant the minor would have a criminal record.

Martin Moran, representing the Illinois Tavern Owners association, and M. M. Hart, attorney for the Tavern Keepers Service club, favored adoption of the ordinance as an aid to tavern owners.

FITZMORRIS HAS PHRASE FOR WHY HE'S IN HOSPITAL

Charles C. Fitzmorris, former police chief and city controler, has been in Wesley Memorial hospital for the last three weeks because of "civilian battle fatigue," he said last night. He expects to return to his post as president of the Getz Coal company in two weeks.

"Worry about my two sons, Capt. Charles, Jr., who was in the artillery, and Joseph, who was with the fleet in the southwest Pacific, landed me here," he said. "They're back safely now and I'm all right again after a good rest."

NAVAL RECRUIT AND PALS HELD IN THEFT OF CAR

Frank Kuffel, 17, of 5308 N. Mulligan av., was seized by police at an induction station yesterday as he was about to be sworn into the navy and held for questioning in a stolen automobile case. Also held are John Saran, 15, of 5059 Neenah av., and Richard Smol, 15, of 5110 N. Newcastle av. Detectives Herman Lukow and George Teery of the Cragin station said the three boys were in a stolen automobile which they pursued from 2100 N. Cicero av. to an alley at the rear of 2922 N. Kirkpatrick av. The boys got out and ran, but Saran was captured and he was struck in the leg by two pellets from a shotgun charge fired into the air by the policemen.

49 Citizens Admitted in Lake County Court

Forty-nine residents of Lake county became American citizens at final naturalization hearings yesterday in Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan. Judge William M. Carroll admitted the applicants to citizenship upon the recommendations of Peter John Dillon, federal naturalization examiner. The new citizens were from 18 countries. England had the largest representation, with 10 people, and Mexico and Italy were second with five each.

EUROPE YANKS HAPPY; THEY CAN SEND PETS HOME

Chicagoans' One Worry Is How Soon?

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Oct. 4—Chicagolanders who have acquired pets from all over Europe's battle fronts agreed joyfully today that the army's plan to redeploy the birds, fish, dogs, cats, and foxes of enlisted personnel will take a big load off the minds of the Yank owners.

Said Chicagoan Sgt. Harold Leance, 6800 Sheridan rd.: "If the officers can redeploy horses to the United States it is time we GIs should be allowed to send our pets. I've an Irish setter called Pepper, who's 3 years old. I've had him since he was a pup and I know how animals get attached to people. It would be a pity to force the GIs to abandon the pets who've stood by thru several campaigns."

Martin and George Ochotnecki, brothers, of 1324 Blackhawk st., Chicago, said they had found a brown French poodle in a tank.

"He seemed to know a fellow needs friends in war time," said George, who has 84 points and hopes to be home soon for a wedding. "I'd like to take my dog back as a present, if the army can fix it up in time."

Won't Freeze Out GIs

Ray P. Babbitt, 1380 Dean st., Chicago, said pets would not be taking the place of GIs and WACs aboard homebound ships because they probably would be sent thru the American Express on cargo vessels.

"If Gen. Eisenhower signs his O.K.," Babbitt added with a grin, "it will be the greatest oceanic redeployment of assorted monkeys, cats, birds, and dogs since Noah sailed the seas. Every outfit I know has at least one mascot. Some have litters, and we'd like nothing better than to return home with living souvenirs."

Pvt. 1st Class Robert T. Lewis, Western Springs, Ill., has two dogs he wants to take home to his children, Mildred and Tommy.

"One's a mongrel called Jumbo," he confided. "I found him during the buzz bomb campaign at Dover, England. A few days later he became friendly with a bulldog we named Lady. She didn't like civilians, but seemed to enjoy our company. I smuggled them over to Normandy in August, 1944. They brought a lot of cheer to my outfit during the battle of the bulge in December last year, and stuck with us all thru the German campaigns. They're more than just pets—they're buddies, and I want to keep them."

Set Overall Price

Once the go signal is given, the animals owned by United States personnel will be off for depots in staging and redeployment areas, to receive vaccinations, board cargo vessels, and take off for their new homes.

The GIs need not arrange for some one to accompany the animals. Such service will be included in an overall charge of $50, paid by the shipper. The cost also includes the dog's house, collar, chain, feeding and water pans. Food will be supplied by the quartermaster. The port surgeon and veterinarian will provide medical care.

The redeployment price list, exclusive of war shipping administration charges, is: Small dogs, $5; large dogs, $6; small birds, $1.20; large birds, $2; turtles and goldfish may get by for $1.20; monkeys, $2, and foxes, $6. Other animals will cost according to their size, in comparison with a small dog.

Mrs. Roosevelt Planning to Make Speeches for PAC

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said today she planned to make several public appearances this fall in the interests of the political action committee of the Congress of Industrial organizations. In an interview Mrs. Roosevelt said she would be a volunteer speaker, adding that, "Any agency which arouses citizens to a sense of their responsibility in the government is to be commended." Last night she told students at Mount Holyoke college, "We should not be too disturbed over the outcome" of the five nation conference in London.

JUDGMENT AWARDED TO OPA

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday entered a consent judgment for damages of $2,450.80 against the Rasam Lamp company of 1567 Milwaukee av. for violations of office of price administration price controls on lamp shades.

Wins Decree

MRS. ELIZABETH KYLE

Mrs. Elizabeth Kyle, 29, of 422 Laurel av., Wilmette, won a divorce from her husband, Carl, 30, a mechanic, and $12 a week for support of their child, Carl, 2, when she told Circuit Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg that her husband had violated his promissory note never to strike her again.

The note, introduced as evidence, read, "I promise not to strike or hit my wife again. [Signed] Carl E. Kyle." Mrs. Kyle said the note brought about a reconciliation in August, 1944, after she had filed a divorce suit, but that he struck her again last Dec. 20. Last January Kyle excused himself from a theatrical performance, Mrs. Kyle said, and she found him later in a tavern with another woman.

The couple married July 11, 1942, and separated last Jan. 16.

FINE IS REDUCED FOR DEFENDANT NAMED BY MAID

Judge Joseph B. Hermes of the Women's court, yesterday reduced to $25 a $50 fine originally imposed on Edward Hosek, 32, of 2632 S. 58th av., Cicero, on a charge of disorderly conduct. A similar charge against Miss Dorothy Daily, 22, a maid, who gave her address as 3552 W. 111th st., was continued to today to allow a further examination by Dr. David B. Rotman, court psychiatrist. Miss Daily reported to police that she had been raped, then admitted this was not so, and that she had gone with Hosek to a hotel.

RADIO TO START NEW DICK TRACY SHOW TOMORROW

A new radio adaptation of Dick Tracy designed to appeal to grown-ups as well as youngsters is to be introduced from 7:30 to 8 p. m. tomorrow over WLS-ABC. Patterned along lines of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S comic strip by Chester Gould, each episode of the new series will be complete in itself. Such established cohorts of the ace detective as Vitamin Flintheart, Snowflake Falls, Tess Trueheart, Gravel Gertie, and Itchy will make their network bows. Meanwhile, the 6:15 to 6:30 p. m. Monday thru Friday Dick Tracy show on WENR continues. This series has a different format and is primarily aimed at children.

Carl J. Meyers, who has returned to W-G-N after three years of service as a commander in the navy, has been appointed director of engineering for W-G-N, Inc., and G. William Lang has been named chief engineer, Frank D. Schreiber, station manager, said yesterday. Lang served as acting chief engineer during Meyers' military leave. Meyers and Lang are to act as a team supervising W-G-N's activities in connection with the development of a network of FM stations and conducting experiments in television and facsimile. Facsimile is the transmission of printed and graphic matter by radio.

Secretary of State Byrnes will give his first radio report at 9:30 o'clock tonight from Washington, D. C., on the first conference of the council of foreign ministers which concluded Tuesday in London. The broadcast, over the Columbia Broadcasting system, will be heard in Chicago on WBBM.

LONDON, Oct. 4 [Reuters]—Five leaders of a former Polish underground army known as the national armed forces have been sentenced to death by a Polish court, the Moscow radio said today. The men were found guilty of murdering leaders of the democratic party.

SCORES WATCH AS RAPIST DRAGS GIRL INTO ALLEY

An 18 year old white girl employed by the United Air Lines was raped by a Negro in an alley at the rear of 831 S. Wabash av. yesterday after he half dragged her across State st. at 9th st. in sight of scores of pedestrians and motorists.

The girl was seized at 6:45 a. m. as she was waiting at the intersection for a street car. The Negro held a knife to her throat, clasped his other hand over her mouth, and pulled her across the street to the alley.

The victim was taken to St. Luke's hospital. She said the rapist was about 2? years old.

A 22 year old Negro woman reported to the police that she was raped last night by a sharp nosed Negro who dragged her into a yard in the rear of a building near 62d st. and Prairie av. She went to Provident hospital for treatment.

"Rumor Had It"

By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Erica Pomeroy, whose parents died and left her a fortune, returns from Reno with a fiance, Toby Newcomb. It was expected Erica would marry Huntley Price. Mr Izenga had been in love with Erica's mother and had shared with her grandmother, Mrs. Letitia Pomeroy, the upbringing of the girl. He disliked Toby's mocking air. Ridge Dawson, Mrs. Pomeroy's brother, is charming, unreliable, has had several wives, and always is in debt. At Letitia's birthday dinner are her daughter, Hester Duke, and her husband, Harry; Erica, Toby, Huntley, Ridge, and Mr. Izenga. Her son, Bennet, arrives after dinner with Lucianna Dupres, whom he refuses to marry. Lucianna is bleeding Mrs. Pomeroy, as she has cause for a breach of promise suit. Mrs. Pomeroy's threat to cut off Erica without a cent if she marries against her wishes falls on deaf ears. Late that night Mrs. Pomeroy is strangled. She insists Toby tried to kill her. A second attempt to strangle Mrs. Pomeroy is successful. Bennet has been drugged. Erica informs Lt. French that Mr. Izenga will represent them. A ring, similar to Toby's, is found on the floor beside Mrs. Pomeroy's bed, but French does not suspect Toby. He is inclined to doubt Duke's alibi and will check Ridge's. Bennet believes Lucianna doped his liquor. French learns the terms of the will. Hester tells Mr. Izenga that a little after 1 a. m. Harry went out, met a woman, and quarreled with her. She followed him. Their maid knows this. French asks headquarters to check on Mrs. Duke's temper and whether it has caused trouble in the past. Mr. Izenga persuades the sheriff to postpone the inquest, and calls upon Miss Frohisher, who lives directly under Lucianna. Lucianna didn't get in until 4 a. m. that night. The ring is not Toby's. Lt. French believes the killer let himself in with a key. Erica trips over magazines left on the stairs and sprains her wrist. Mrs. Pomeroy's diamond and sapphire necklace is missing. Lucianna had had an imitation necklace made. Mr. Izenga questions Harry Duke about the necklace.

ATTACKED

"What do you want, anyway? Won't it wait?" Ridge asked pettishly. "The truth is, I've been knocked out by what happened to poor old Letty. Bad enough to lose your sister normally, not to speak of all this police business. I can't get away from the thing. I sit here in my little place and think about it till I've got myself into this state. And the police don't seem to be getting anywhere. I'm not going to her funeral tomorrow. I couldn't. Don't believe in funerals, anyway. I told Erica."

"Yes, she told me," Mr. Izenga said. "They are not expecting you there. And I won't bother you long. I want to ask just one question. Do you remember Letitia's diamond and sapphire necklace?"

Ridge blinked at his caller. "Huh? I don't know. Remember, she had a lot of junk. Why?"

"This particular necklace was very beautiful. Insured for $30,000," he added as more apt to impress this materialist.

"Whee . . ew! Thir-ty-thous-and bucks! Just to hang around a woman's neck. And whole families dying of starvation."

"You can hunt them up and divide with them when you get your legacy," Mr. Izenga said dryly. "I am not here to go into that. That necklace has disappeared and I want to know if you . . uh . . lent that necklace to any woman? Did some one ask you to let her borrow it to wear for a certain occasion?"

There was no doubt that he had Ridge's full attention now. Also, there was scant doubt that Ridge had not the remotest idea what he was talking about.

"Did you lend Letitia's necklace to Lucianna?"

"Have you forgotten how I fought Letty on every cent she allowed that cat all these years? If she had money to throw away, I could always use it! I know I'm a fool about women, but not the way my nephew is. I saw thru that hussy from the start. The only thing I would give her would be leprosy and I'm sorry I haven't got it." Mr. Dawson wound up with:

"Why not tackle Bennet about it? He's the one who's been a fool over her for so long."

Mr. Izenga explained all that. Ridge seemed surprised and pleased to hear the truth about Bennet's apparent infatuation.

"Bennet is right," he agreed, "Lucianna is behind this crime. She's as slick as the devil's wife and how she hated Letty. I hope French can bring it home to her."

Mr. Izenga did not go into that. He stood up.

"I'll be running along now, Ridge. Speaking of French, did he swallow your tale about the drugstore?"

"What do you mean? I told him the truth and he recognized it."

Mr. Izenga smiled nastily. "Whatever happened to that lady you knew? The one who had the reputation?"

"You're crude, Cornelius. I feel my headache coming back. Go away and leave me to my suffering."

"Don't underrate the lieutenant, Ridge," Mr. Izenga warned. "Mind if I use your phone to call a taxi?"

"Help yourself. But it's one of those four-party lines. I seldom find it free." He shut himself into the bathroom.

Mr. Izenga picked up the telephone in the little hall and heard, "So, my dear, I didn't say a word then . . . but the next night when he came home at two-thirty, I . . ."

He hung up.

"Guess I'll walk. Hope you're better soon, Ridge," he called. There was no answer, but he heard the water running in the bathroom so he did not linger.

He let himself out the front door and had to wait for the automatic elevator to get rid of its passengers. He surmised that Ridge had overplayed his headache to furnish a good excuse not to attend his sister's funeral.

Mr. Izenga was deep in these musings as he walked out of the front door of the apartment house. The brick walk curved gracefully to the street between clumps of cedars which had grown rather tall. As he passed one of these dark spots, he heard a sudden suspicious rustling and a loud swish.

He didn't stop to think. There wasn't time. With instinct he ducked and plunged to the right. The blow missed his head but caught him on the edge of his upper left arm. It had been meant to be fatal! He uttered no sound. He loathed scenes.

But, as he dashed around the curve of the walk he ran into three women and nearly knocked them over. At once, these ladies set up a screeching that brought heads out of all the windows.

For a few minutes the confusion was fantastic. One of the women fainted and another accused Mr. Izenga of trying to snatch her purse. He was obliged to exhibit his bruised arm and explain what had happened.

By this time, people had poured into the grounds from everywhere. One of the men who ran out of the apartment house, was a Dr. Braunwart. The swarthy little man insisted upon examining Mr. Izenga in spite of his refusals.

"Sir! Will you kindly leave me alone! Please!" Mr. Izenga looked around, frantically, for help. He saw Ridge Dawson's head with its turbanlike towel bandage peering over the fourth floor window sill. It drew in just as he saw it. But when he shouted Ridge it appeared again.

"That you, Cornelius? What's wrong?"

Mr. Izenga asked him to send for Harrison. He should be home by this time. The doctor found Mr. Izenga's arm was not broken.

Mr. Izenga fought off all would-be Samaritans in his quiet, deadly way. The three ladies recovered and finding out who was their assailant, were almost as annoying in their apologies.

It seemed hours but it was really only a few minutes before Harrison appeared in the car. He scolded Mr. Izenga all the way home with angry affection. Mr. Izenga took it meekly. It was soothing to know some one cared that much after such painful proof that one person did not.

Harrison bathed and bound up the bruised arm, efficiently.

Mr. Izenga, warm in bed, recalled Huntley but he did not bother to call him. He felt too shaken to advise any one. Let Huntley work on his own problems for a while. Oddly enough, Huntley must have come to the same conclusion, for he did not call again.

CASUALTY TOLL REDUCED BY 48; NOW 1,070,524

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—Another drop in the nation's war casualty toll was reported today by the military forces, with the total now standing at 1,070,524.

Army casualties, reported thru Sept. 30, totaled 922,476. The latest navy figure amounts to 148,048.

A breakdown on army casualties and those a week ago follow: Killed, 206,622 and 205,918; wounded, 571,664 and 571,720; missing, 22,552 and 23,271; prisoners, 121,638 and 121,430.

Navy casualties: Killed, 54,986 and 54,468; wounded, 80,247 and 80,244; missing, 10,259 and 10,779; prisoners, 2,556 and 2,842.

Waukegan Police Chief's Secretary Asks Divorce

Mrs. Vivian Nordblom, secretary to Police Chief Bart Tyrrell of Waukegan and police matron, yesterday filed suit in the Lake county Circuit court for a divorce from Walter Nordblom, electrician and ex-chief petty officer, whom she charged with cruelty. Her complaint, filed by Atty. Raymond Zack, asserted that Nordblom struck her on two occasions. The couple were married Dec. 23, 1932, and separated March 6, 1944.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Oct. 5—Death of Tecumseh

A BRAVE American Indian, who dedicated his life to the forlorn cause of his people, was killed 132 years ago today. He was Chief Tecumseh, a Shawnee, who was born about 1768 in Ohio and was a leader in conferences between the Indians and whites as early as 1800.

Alarmed by the steady westward march of the white settlers, Tecumseh formed a plan to unite the western Indian tribes. He claimed the land was the property of all the tribes and that therefore the treaties between the settlers and individual tribes were void. British agents fanned the flames of the Indians' dissatisfaction.

Tecumseh was assisted by his brother, Tenskwatawa, called "the prophet," who was regarded with superstitious reverence by the Indians, but Tecumseh's own eloquence and organizing ability were more important in developing the Indian confederacy.

The brothers were warned several times by Gov. William Henry Harrison of Indiana, and in 1811, while Tecumseh was absent in the south, Harrison moved against the prophet's town near the present Lafayette, Ind. This resulted in the famous battle of Tippecanoe, which broke the prestige of the prophet and later helped to make Harrison President of the United States.

When the War of 1812 began Tecumseh was made a brigadier general in the British army and took part in the skirmishes prior to Gen. William Hull's surrender at Detroit. Later he led 2,000 Indians at the siege of Fort Meigs.

After the battle of Put-in bay, when the British Gen. Henry Proctor began to retreat, Tecumseh reproached him for cowardice and forced him to join battle with Harrison on the banks of the Thames river, about 30 miles above Chatham, Ont.

On Oct. 5, 1813, Harrison attacked with 3,000 men. The enemy fled in confusion and Tecumseh was killed. The battle broke British power in upper Canada and destroyed the Indian northwestern confederacy.

SENATE MAKES DEAL WITH BILBO TO SHUT HIM UP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—Well, Sen. Bilbo [D., Miss.] isn't going to move the nation's capital to Indianapolis after all. He ended his filibuster today with the announcement that people got him wrong.

Sen. Bilbo.

He was going to raise the money for a new capitol building near the Supreme court by making a daily senate speech worth $800,000 against the land grant railroad bill. But he quit today in the midst of his second $800,000 oration when he and the rest of the senate made a deal: The bill would go into effect next October and Bilbo would stop talking. Bilbo stopped and the bill passed.

It provides that railroads partially financed with grants of government land need no longer carry army and navy property and personnel for the government at half rates. Bilbo had been arguing that the government was saving 24 to 30 million dollars a month thru the arrangement in war time.

Bond Set for Suspect in Dyer Act Violation

Allan Gausman, 23, of 4251 N. Sacramento av., was ordered held in $2,000 bond by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday for removal to St. Paul, Minn., on a charge of transporting a stolen automobile across a state line in violation of the federal Dyer act.

C. G. STEVENS JR. SUED BY WIFE FOR SEPARATION

Mrs. Helen Boericke Stevens, 35, of 423 Melrose st., yesterday filed in Circuit court a complaint charging her husband, Charles G. Stevens Jr., 40, secretary of the Charles G. Stevens company, dealers in steel, with desertion and asking for a separate maintenance decree.

Her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., obtained an injunction before Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg tying up Stevens' accounts and safety deposit boxes in the Continental and Mercantile National banks and the Northern Trust company, and all of his other assets. Mrs. Stevens asserted that her husband has a substantial income and valuable holdings.

Her complaint said they were married May 29, 1930, and lived together until Aug. 2, 1944, when he abandoned her and their son, Charles G. III., now 9. She asked sole care of their son and proper alimony, attorney's fees, and court costs. Stevens, whose business is at 33 S. Jefferson st., resides in the Chicago Athletic association clubhouse.

FEW NEW AUTO TIRES EXPECTED TILL END OF '46

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 4 (AP)—New automobile tires for non-essential drivers are still a year away, John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich rubber company, said today.

Altho tire rationing might end within three or four months, Collyer said it will be the end of 1946 before tire companies will have a sufficient inventory to supply the demand.

He predicted a definite future for synthetic rubber and said he believed the government should keep synthetic rubber plants producing at least 200,000 tons annually.

THANK YOU, CUB FANS!

For your support of the Team. It was a real help in winning the National League Championship.

THANKS, TOO . . . for being such good sports about the World Series ticket situation.

We wish Wrigley Field were big enough to take care of all of you who want to see the World Series. However, our ball park was built for your comfort during the regular season—not for maximum seating capacity. We did our best—but it was physically impossible to accommodate everyone. We regret this very much—we really do.

TB SANITARIUM COOKS SAY THEY 'HAD NO CHANCE'

Didn't Have Right Foods, Leader Contends

BY ORVILLE DWYER

Cooks at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium yesterday emphatically asserted that if the meals at the institution, operated at a cost of 3 million a year to the taxpayers, haven't been fit to eat, it is not their fault.

Thru Maurice Timpanaro, secretary-treasurer of their union, the cooks charged they haven't been given an opportunity to prepare the kind of food they are capable of sending to the table.

"It simply goes back to the old saying that you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear," Timpanaro said. "There are 14 of our union men cook there, 12 cooks and two chefs. The chefs are in charge. Most of them have been there for 10 to 15 years. If they weren't good they should have been thrown out long ago—not only out of the institution but of the union as well.

"Lack Right Ingredients"

"But if you want to get nutrition into a meal you must have the nutriment to prepare it from. That is the fault at the sanitarium. Let the sanitarium board, the institution authorities, or any one else say what they want—they have not given our men the grades of meats and other ingredients from which the palatable meals the sick need are made."

Timpanaro pulled the record of one of the sanitarium cooks from a pile of others on his desk. "Here," he said. "Look at this: He's cooked at the Chicago Athletic association, the Union League club, Eitel's in the North Western station, Lake Shore Country club, and so on. Do you think that man can't cook?

"That is true of all the other cooks our union [Hotel & Restaurant Employes International association, AFL] sent out there.

Washam Begins Survey

"I understand one of the directors told you we wouldn't send them good men because the big hotels pay as much as $20.25 a day and they won't consider the $181.50 a month its budget allows the sanitarium to pay. That's all hooey. Hotels pay our men $9.75 a day, working a 40 hour week, so how could it be true?"

Frank O. Washam, director of public school lunchrooms, who has furnished 13 million meals a year for high school pupils alone, yesterday began a survey preliminary to putting into the sanitarium a system which will assure the 1,300 patients "three wholesome, well-cooked meals a day." Washam was lent to the sanitarium by James B. McCahey, president of the school board, at the request of a mayor's committee from the Chicago Restaurant association, headed by Marion W. Isbell and made up of well known restaurateurs.

"I met with all those responsible for handling, preparing, and cooking the food at the institution, and I found out just who's responsible for what," Washam said. He added that today he will "roll up his sleeves" and "get on the job."

INDICT WAITRESS IN SLAYING OF INDIANA JEWELER

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 4 (AP)—A grand jury today indicted Zelda Mae Graves, 26, on a charge of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of Raymond L. Wilson here Sept. 20.

Miss Graves, a waitress, has been in jail since the shooting and Judge W. L. Parkinson said he would hold a hearing next Thursday to determine whether she should be released on bond pending trial.

Officers who questioned Miss Graves said she admitted shooting Wilson, a Lafayette and Richmond, Ind., jeweler, but asserted the shooting occurred accidentally during a struggle for possession of a gun.

Agencies Scattered Thruout Loop

Heads of various government agencies heaved a sigh of relief yesterday after digesting the news that the federal works agency's construction program calls for the expenditure of 22 million dollars for a new federal building here.

Altho legislation for the funds has just begun in Washington, D. C., the officials expressed a hope that the government's project will be among those at the top of the list.

The new building, replacing the present structure—begun in the early '90s and finished after eight years—would obviate expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 annually in rent for government offices in commercial buildings, it was pointed out.

Time Saver for Public

Centralization of agencies would save time for the public, which now must scamper from one end of the loop to the other to complete its business with a single agency.

The present building, known as the United States courthouse and postoffice annex, occupies the block bounded by Clark, Adams, and Dearborn sts. and Jackson blvd. The first two floors extend over the entire area; the next six floors are built in four wings, and the remaining seven floors form the building's tower. All available space is occupied.

Tax Bureau Needs Space,

One agency in urgent need of more space is the internal revenue bureau. Because of expansion of the government's vast tax system, space on seven floors is allotted to the bureau's 1,200 employes. Other units, including the revenue agents' office and the intelligence unit, occupy commercial buildings near-by.

Offices of federal trustees in bankruptcy were moved recently from the building at 7 S. Dearborn st., centrally located for convenience of lawyers, to the John Marshall Law school building at 315 Plymouth ct. The trustees had hoped to get space in the courthouse.

Merchandise Mart Space Used

Many other government agencies are located in the Merchandise mart, and others occupy space in the buildings at 105 W. Adams st., 135 S. La Salle st., 208 S. La Salle st., 209 S. La Salle st., and 141 W. Jackson blvd.

In 1933, plans were in the formative stage for an addition to the present building but these were dropped. They called for the expansion of the wings and tower, with addition of several more floors.

CHICAGOAN DIES IN GERMANY IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

CORP. THOMAS R. SCHLUETER, 32, of the army air forces was killed in a vehicle accident in Germany on Sept. 13. He had been on military leave since 1942 from his position as director of research for Ruthrauff & Ryan, Inc., Chicago advertising agency. Corp. Schlueter is survived by his widow, Lucille, and a son, Tom Ross, three months old. They live in Hollywood, Cook county.

PVT. RICHARD L. CARRY, who was captured on Corregidor, is on his way home from a Japanese prisoner of war camp, his mother, Celeta, of 1304 Birchwood av., said yesterday. He enlisted in the army in February, 1941, and served in the Philippines with the 59th coast artillery.

FATHER ASKS HUNT FOR BOY

Thomas Karas, 3442 W. 63d st., yesterday asked police to search for his son, Gus, 15, who has been missing since Tuesday.

BARRETT NAMES PHILIP H. TREACY AS DIVISION HEAD

Secretary of State Barrett yesterday announced three appointments. All three appointees formerly were employed by federal agencies.

Philip H. Treacy, Evanston, is the new head of the corporation division of the Chicago office. He has been special traction counsel for the Chicago office of the federal works agency. He formerly was in charge of the tax division of the state's attorney's office.

John T. Casey, Chicago, was named assistant supervisor of the driver's license division. He has resigned as expediter in the regional office of the United States treasury, lend-lease division.

Miss Frances Krimmel of Springfield is now director of public relations. For the last three years she has been information executive for the Springfield district of the office of price administration. Earlier she was assistant to top officials of the office of civilian defense and work projects administration. She was in charge of publicity for the department of public works under Gov. Horner.

JOHN B. CARNELL APPOINTED TO HELP CRIPPLES

Appointment of John B. Carnell, district rationing executive for the office of price administration at Springfield, as assistant director of the Easter seal division for the National Society for Crippled Children was announced yesterday by Lawrence J. Linck, executive director.

Before accepting the OPA position, Carnell was regional sales manager of the Croydon company in Chicago. He will assist A. H. Thompson, director of the Easter seal division, who recently moved to the society's new national headquarters here.

Linck also announced the society's department of education and publicity had been moved here to supplement his administrative staff in the Civic Opera building.

EX-WAR CAPTIVE A SUICIDE, SAYS CORONER'S JURY

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at an inquest into the death of Richard Hansen, 41, an army veteran, whose body was found Wednesday hanging from the limb of a tree on the Big Oaks golf course, 6600 Gunnison av., Norwood township. Thirty months' confinement in a German prison camp left Hansen mentally depressed, his widow, Ethel, testified. She added that she last saw him at their home at 4040 Keystone av. Monday night and that he said he was going to drive to South Bend, Ind., in search of a job.

Laud Pupils Who Refused to Take Part in Strikes

The race relations committee of the City Club of Chicago yesterday adopted a statement commending Chicago high school pupils who stayed in school during so-called strikes and "those community leaders who courageously insisted that absent pupils return to classes." The committee urged Mayor Kelly and the board of education to use their influence toward immediate adoption of a program of inter-cultural education.

Dinner-Dance Set by Evanston Junior League

BY JUDITH CASS

FOR the first time in four years the Evanston Junior league is planning a party. It will be a dinner-dance Nov. 24 in the Michigan Shores club and will be called "The Thrift House Ball." The party is not being given to raise money, or only indirectly so, for funds from the league's Thrift House, a resale shop, support the league's project, a dental dispensary for underprivileged children. However, every one is being asked to bring clothing which can be sold in the shop.

There is likely to be a variation of a mass strip tease at the club that night, for the committee has suggested that the guests, while clad properly for a gala evening affair, wear over their evening clothes the garments intended for the shop. The committee also recognizes the fact that many of the league's young members have husbands in service, and is making special arrangements for these "war brides" to form a sort of feminine stag line and cut in, during some dances, on the gentlemen present.

During the war league members have attended strictly to business, so the party will be the first just-for-fun affair the league has planned since Pearl Harbor. The league is proud of its members' war service records, too. Mrs. John J. Louis has headed the Evanston C. D. V. O.; Mrs. Henry Platt Jr. served in the civilian defense motor corps; Miss Carlene Blunt and Miss Katharine Biggert served as Red Cross staff members; Mrs. Reuben F. Ross Jr. and Miss Ada K. Rev went to work in war plants, and Mrs. Edward Cullen, president, served with a league committee to provide flowers for Great Lakes—to mention a few of the outstanding volunteers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Goltra and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murdough are co-chairmen of the dancing party, with Mrs. David Sampsell, Mrs. Louis Tilden, Mrs. Roger S. Barrett, and Miss Emily Pribble among those on the committee.

The league's first fall meeting will be a luncheon at 12:30 p. m. Monday in the Orrington hotel, when Frank Smothers will discuss "Imperialism versus United Nations Democracy." Mrs. F. Scammon Barry, whose husband, Lt. Comdr. Barry is at home after 18 months in the Pacific, is chairman of the luncheon.

An Event Today

The Evanston Infant Welfare society's 30th anniversary party and benefit tonight in Marshall Field & Co.'s Evanston store promises to be a gay one with some entertainment and fashions of the vintage of 1915 on the program. Dinner and a showing of present day fashions in which several costumes from the organization's birth year will provide added interest, are on the program.

Among the early costumes to be shown are the wedding dress Mrs. Hugh McCulloch wore in World War I., to be modeled by Mrs. James Kittleman, and the uniform in which Col. Ralph Bagby, just back from his second world war, was married. Kenneth H. Morine, husband of one of the party committee members, will have the role of bridegroom.

Also to be shown are three dresses found in Mrs. Elmer F. Bersbach's attic. One is a pink frock she wore as bridesmaid for Mrs. Telfer MacArthur; another is a yellow taffeta one which Mrs. Robert Stevenson wore as matron of honor for Mrs. Bersbach, and the third is a pink taffeta cape and gown from Mrs. Bersbach's trousseau. The first will be modeled tonight by Mrs. Thomas Murdough, the second by Mrs. Donald Wood Jr., and the third by Mrs. Robert Hobart. Also on view will be a white net frock, modeled by Mrs. Clyde Owens, and a coral velvet evening dress, to be shown by Mrs. Robert Atkins II., both of which were worn in 1915 by Mrs. Harold H. Day.

Other Events Today

A second infant welfare benefit today is the Kenwood Social Service club's Good Neighbor cocktail party this afternoon in the Racquet club. Adding to the fun will be the presence of Skeets Gallagher and Mrs. Gallagher, and perhaps of the famed comedy team, Olsen and Johnson. More tickets have been sold than to the club's similar party last year, which was enjoyed by more than 700 persons. A variety of substantial hors d'oeuvres will be supplied in addition to liquid refreshments so that guests may stay

Connecticut Woman Is Elected President of V. F. W. Auxiliary

Election and installation of national officers concluded the major convention activities yesterday of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary. Mrs. M. Frances Anderson of Bridgeport, Conn., was elevated from senior vice president to president. Her membership in the V. F. W. auxiliary dates back nearly 25 years. She became active in the national organization after she had held the top office in her own auxiliary and in her county and department organizations.

Mrs. M. Frances Anderson [left], Mrs. Sally Cannon [center], and Mrs. Grace H. Davis.

Mrs. Sally Cannon of Youngstown, O., succeeded to the post of national senior vice president. Other new officers are: Mrs. Dorothy Mann, Detroit, Mich., junior vice president; Mrs. Grace H. Davis, Kansas City, Mo., secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Helen M. Murphy, Union, N. J., chaplain; Mrs. Evelyn Monaco, Gallup, N. M., conductress, and Mrs. Sue Ilg, Edgewood, R. I., guard.

Most of the 2,000 auxiliary members attending sessions here were expected to leave Chicago last night. There will be a council of administration meeting this morning, however, in the Masonic hall, 32 W. Randolph st.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Not In the Text Books

A high school student, returning to her classes after a summer of employment in an office, has learned lessons not taught in text books, according to Clarence B. Carey, director of Jones Commercial High school.

She has learned to put to practical use such things as how to look up telephone numbers under pressure in a busy office, how to greet visitors, and how to give information. She has seen the actual coördination of effort in an office—viewed her job as part of the entire scheme of things, not as an isolated task. She has written a letter that is not merely an exercise to be corrected by the teacher, but a bona fide letter to go to a customer—one link in the chain of business.

Most important of all, Mr. Carey believes, the girl has gained that intangible something we call "experience." "Employers always are asking for some one with experience," he says. "What they mean is some one with the poise and initiative to go ahead and do a job without some one following her around. The girl who has had business experience goes back to school with greater seriousness. Her motive for studying has been increased. She has seen, first hand, the reason for her studies."

Shattered

Occasionally there's a day when everything goes wrong, but when a whole week follows that pattern . . . well, I began to think life was growing pretty difficult. All in one week, I had one of those birthdays you don't mention any more, broke a new pair of glasses, and dropped my typewriter so that it is smashed to the tune of a $45 repair bill. The boss was informed that it would be more practical to get a new one.

The Boss Complains

Mascara's worn around the eye,
While gray hair shows a bit of dye;
The voluntary blondes use bleach
And bright red rouge is smeared on each
And every cheek which might be pale.
I'm used to polished finger nail
While many of my winsome girls
Wear false hair in their careless curls;
Leg make-up, lipstick, powder puff—
Men call it "just a lot of fluff";
I'm seldom sure what works for me—
A walking drug store probably!

Opening Night of Opera to Be Fashion Event

BY REA SEEGER

This year's opening night of the Chicago opera season promises to be a gala occasion for the fashion spotlight. It has been years since a parade of such definite opera fashions has taken place. From the sleek snow white caraculs and ermine coats and jackets to the priceless and rare genuine chinchilla and opulent chiffon minks, Monday night should make history for the fashion pages.

Already the shops and store windows are filled with floor length evening gowns, brand new creations of almost pre-war glamor. There are wide swirling skirts of net, tulle, and chiffon, and bespangled sequin gowns. Many statuesque gowns of regal velvet and brocade also are displayed to inspire wandering shoppers and opera addicts.

Unquestionably, the distinguished floor length dinner gowns are the best buys, if a double purpose creation is desired. The current showings flash with decorative motifs, bands, and elaborate embroidery of beads and sequins. Some gowns have very decorative jackets. The jackets sometimes are completely covered with embroidery, often combined with sequins or beads.

Brilliant colors and unusual shades—such as burnished gold, mustard green, metallic tones of yellow, jade, and blue—are featured in exquisitely fashioned crepe gowns, made with figure revealing drapery and perfect details. Jersey that drapes perfectly in a simple or in an intricate manner also is used for the jackets.

Still going strong are the short dinner suits of fine wool blazing with embroidery paillettes, beads, and sequins. The shoulders and upper portions of the long sleeves provide that "across the table" festive appearance.

Some jackets have the entire sleeves of embroidery, with little if any more on the rest of the jacket. These jackets are sensationally dramatic. They come in lovely colors and in such suave neutrals as caramel beige, pale amber, and old gold.

Thru the Looking Glass

A brand new nail enamel shade has just been added to one of the most popular polish lines and we'd venture to say it's a color that's here to stay a while. No passing fancy this, it's the kind of lacquer shade women will fall for and be content to wear day in and day out with every costume color. A true, perfect red, it has no heavy overtones of blue or orange but was made especially to harmonize with and complement every color on the fashion calendar.

This is a red that won't grow tiresome. It's soft without being languid and has none of the loudness which makes some nail polish tints a bit boring after a while.

Rather, it's a color that will be universally popular, right for the woman who hasn't time to fuss around changing polish every time she changes costume.

We don't need to praise the quality of the polish, its popularity proves that. Two coats properly applied [and there are definite directions inclosed with each package] give the nails a beautiful, gleaming coat that stays fresh looking until time for removal.

You can buy the polish separately or in a combination package that has a creamy textured lipstick in the same wear-with-any-color shade to make a matched ensemble you can depend on for color rightness.

Movie Closeup

"The Dolly Sisters" marks Chicago's first movie premiere in a long, long time, and is being celebrated with festivities, including a parade starting at State and Wacker dr. at 11 a. m. today, plus an outdoor show at State and Madison. George Jessel, producer, June Haver, and a number of other Hollywood people will be present there and at the Chicago theater during the day's performances.

Symphony Fans Give New Season a Gala Opening

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE

Orchestra hall staged its own victory celebration last night amid the roll of drums, the ripple of the Chinese, French, Russian, British, and American flags above the heads of the orchestra, and a blaze of color around the box circle that was a far cry from the subdued blacks of war time years. For Edward L. Ryerson, president of the Orchestral association, and Mrs. Ryerson the evening began with a completely successful box office report—an opening night sellout and the largest season subscription sale in the orchestra's 55 years—and ended with a small celebration party in their home.

The Ryersons' box party was one of the most brilliantly gowned in the crowd that filled the foyer at intermission time. Sharing their box and the Charles H. Swifts' were Gov. and Mrs. Green, she with a handsome sable stole about the shoulders of her gold crepe gown; Mrs. Clive Runnells, in a French blue chiffon blouse spangled in sequins and a raisin taffeta skirt; the Percy B. Eckharts, Harold Swift, the Robert M. Hutchinses, and Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Block, the latter in ruby and black striped taffeta.

Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, chairman of the women's committee, hurried to her seat in a claret crepe dinner dress edged in cobwebby sequin-dusted lace. Mrs. William Sherman Hay, her silver curls beautifully offset by a plum and fuchsia gown, was box hostess to a party including Mrs. Bartholomay Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Felber, John Palmer, and young Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Petersen, who just have moved here from Boston while Dr. Petersen interns at St. Luke's hospital. In a near-by box were the Robert Hall McCormicks, she in platinum satin and platina fox. They had brought their box guests, including Miss Barbara Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Woodland, Philip Manuel, and Fritz Ernst, on from dinner in their new apartment in the Drake hotel.

The playing of Beethoven's "Eroica," dedicated "to a hero," might have been a personal tribute to any of the uniformed men and women in the audience, from a sprinkling of Chinese soldiers to the bluejackets who manned box V$_8$ on the port side of the auditorium. This box, given in memory of the Ryersons' son, the late Lt. Morton B. Ryerson, has been turned over this week to hospitalized sailors from Great Lakes and thru the season will be used by other recuperating service patients. Among the many others present last night were the Thomas I. Underwoods, the Herbert Stratfords, Sanger P. Robinson, Mrs. Alfred Ulhlein, the John Paul Wellings, Mrs. John Holabird and Miss Anina Paepcke.

Chicago Symphony Opens 55th Season with Concert Dedicated to Victory

Victory is an elusive goal, almost as difficult to celebrate as to achieve, but the Chicago Symphony orchestra did its best at Orchestra hall last night by opening its 55th season with a concert arranged for that purpose by its conductor, Désiré Defauw. It clustered the flags of the five victorious nations proudly at the center of the stage, and strung their national anthems on a swelling roll of drums that also got a workout in music of the Russian Miaskowsky, the British Elgar, and the American Schelling. After intermission rested the ears, the concert got down to the major business of the evening, Beethoven's mighty "Eroica," which to many of us is the supreme expression of victory, for it knows its exaltation as well as its exultation, and in the incomparably tender funeral march it knows the cost.

Unfortunately, the performance realized few of these splendors, either stimulating or compassionate. Apparently the orchestra has been increased in size, and certainly Mr. Defauw has been given higher standing on a brand new podium, but even the most optimistic ear could scarcely take great joy in the musical results. Some of the "Eroica" went well enough to make you prick up your ears with pleasure. There was a pale strain of mourning in the strings of the funeral march that was meltingly lovely, and the scherzo had considerable spirit. But the Beethoven of unparalleled magnificence, the heart of such depth, the mind of such vaulting imagination, the spirit of such radiance struggling to be free from earth, these were in hiding from an erratic and uninspired performance.

The net impression left by the music that fell between the anthems and the "Eroica" was one of noise, and perhaps of the three Miaskowsky was the noisiest, tho for a moment or two Schelling had him on the ropes. The Russian "Homage" Overture dates back to 1939 and its undistinguished début made it reasonably clear why this performance constituted its orchestral bow to the United States. Elgar's "Cockaigne" Overture, with its portrait of the pleasant spots of London town, had its best moments in the lyrical song of the lovers.

Schelling's "A Victory Ball" has been chosen by several conductors for victory concerts, but for the life of me I can't quite tell why. Written in 1923 and dedicated to the memory of an American soldier of World War I., it takes its theme from Alfred Noyes' ironic poem that depicts the ghosts of the war dead at a dance of the victorious living. A satirical waltz is drowned in the sounds of battle, only to recur almost sadistically before lonellest and saddest of sounds, distant taps. There is cruel irony here, tho most of it was drowned in what must have been the loudest performance in the history of the score.

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Désiré Defauw, conductor. Presented at Orchestra hall Thursday evening, Oct. 4, 1945, and scheduled for repetition Friday afternoon. The program:
National anthems of China, France, Russia, Great Britain, and the United States.
Homage Overture.....Miaskowsky
Overture, "Cockaigne".....Elgar
"A Victory Ball".....Schelling
Symphony No. 3, E-flat major, "Eroica".....Beethoven

'Dolly Sisters' Lavish, Tho Not Startling Film

"THE DOLLY SISTERS"

Produced by 20th Century-Fox, directed by Irving Cummings, featuring Betty Grable, June Haver, John Payne, S. Z. Sakall, Reginald Gardiner, Frank Latimore, Sig Rumann, Trudy Marshall, Gene Sheldon, Collette Lyon, Lester Allen, and Frank Orth. Presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée

This lavish musical slides smoothly onto the screen to the memorable strains of "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows" and brings back many of the hit tunes of the early part of the century—"Dark Town Strutters Ball" and "The Vamp"—as well as once famous Broadway names such as Oscar Hammerstein, Will Rogers, Frank Tinney, etc.

One of the first and most successful sister acts, the girls played one night stands until they met another struggling vaudevillian who wrote and sang his own songs. Jenny loved him, but Rosie decided that three was a crowd, so poor Harry Fox was shoved into the background for the first of many times. However, he was instrumental in helping them break into the big time on borrowed finery.

Their financial inequality removed, he and Jenny finally marry. Come World War I. and he again is as poor as a buck private in the army, while wifey becomes more and more famous and is cavorting about London and Paris with kings, dukes, and such. He can't see why she can't rejoin him immediately when he can come back to the United States, and she can't see why he can't understand that one-half the Dolly sisters is no good on the stage abroad, so they part. How they get together again is something the picture can tell you.

I saw one of the Dolly sisters many years after their retirement, and her hair was sleekly black, and queries to Charles Collins, who is a walking encyclopedia of the theater, elicited only the information that they were cute, and had raven hued tresses [altho I don't think Mr. C. ever tells any one all he knows, by a long shot], and Betty Grable and June Haver are the lightest possible blondes. Other than that, I have no comment on possible biographical inaccuracies.

The settings are lavish, the girls overdressed—for which we can blame the period and Flo Ziegfeld—and it's a pleasant, if far from startling, offering.

AREN'T PEOPLE WONDERFUL?
—BY QUAKER

Sometimes people instinctively do the very thing that's best for them—and later, science supplies the explanation. For instance: ever since the Bronze Age, brawny races have favored oats. The Irish and Scotch were outstandingly fond of oats dishes. In 1787, George Washington had a 400-acre oat crop at Mount Vernon. Frontiersmen thrived on oatmeal.

Today, we know that nature favored oats over all natural cereals. By scientific measurement, we've found that oats lead all natural cereals in Protein, the great stamina element; in Vitamin B_1, for growth and energy; and in Food-Energy itself! Enjoy delicious Quaker Oats regularly. Get a large, economical package today!

Outside Work Often Harms School Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Perhaps we do have high-and-mighty ideas about how our children should be brought up, but we're going to try to carry out these ideas," writes a mother.

"We have two boys, 9 and 11 years old. We live in a large city and try to keep them off the streets as much as possible. We won't let them earn money by selling things on the streets or working at all hours, altho we haven't any excess money around, I assure you. Our great problem is their paternal grandmother, who is always saying, 'Look at the famous men who have come up from the very bottom, working from the time they were little shavers. They've gotten along all right. Don't fuss so about the boys, a little hard work will do 'em good."

Because a famous or admirable man here or there had his origin in the humblest or most undesirable conditions, people are prone to say the same as does this grandmother.

This is fallacious reasoning. It has no foundation in fact. The average man who elevates himself, who stands out in character or achievement, is the one who has had a good home—no matter how poor it may have been monetarily, and wise and loving parents. The others are the exceptions, the rare exceptions. Statistics have proved this.

Those parents who, especially in a big city, are considering allowing their children to earn money after school or to leave school at the earliest opportunity within the law to work, would do well to think twice about it, if in any way money conditions will allow them to do so.

An investigation was made in connection with the causes of juvenile delinquency in one of our large cities. The greatest degree of delinquency was found among children plying what are called the "sidewalk trades"—delivering, selling newspapers, and the like. The outstanding reasons given for delinquency among the children working at the "sidewalk trades" were that they were more independent of parental control than nonworking children; that they did not have to appear for meals; that they lived on the streets, hearing and learning anything and everything, and away from all the home influence that means so much in the life of a child.

Any parent who has the best interests of his or her child at heart will think deeply and investigate thoroly any ventures in money earning by young children in a large city.

Bowed Legs And Knock-Knees Often A Needless Defect

Doctors report that many a child with ugly bowed legs or knock-knees might have grown up straight and shapely on a diet adequate in the bone-building minerals and Vitamin D.

Lack of calcium, for instance, in the earliest years may do irreparable damage—but in any case, calcium is so vital a factor that no child brought up on a consistently deficient calcium intake, can have much chance for strong bones and sound teeth.

That's one reason doctors talk so much about milk for growing children. Milk is our best food source of calcium. Do your children get enough milk...at least a quart every day? Many children just don't like to take that much every day! That's why Cocomalt in milk is so helpful.

Cocomalt* is so rich in calcium, it makes 3 glasses of milk equal to a whole quart in calcium value! (Also this supplies the day's full minimum requirements for iron, phosphorus, Vitamin B, and D.) And Cocomalt's delicious chocolaty flavor makes children love their milk.

Start your children on Cocomalt today. Save this as a reminder.

*3 heaping tsps. to 8-oz. glass of milk.

Brisk fall days remind us that this is the time to serve steaming bowls of chowder. It's a good choice for the busy homemaker as a crisp salad and tasty dessert are all that are necessary to complete a perfect meal.

There are many chowder recipes, varying from the original fish stews to vegetable chowders, but nearly all of them contain salt pork or bacon. Here are two outstanding chowders hearty enough to satisfy the healthiest appetites.

Fish Chowder De Luxe

[Serves six]

6 slices bacon, minced
¾ cup onions, minced
1½ cups canned tomatoes
1 pound halibut or haddock, cubed
1 tablespoon green pepper, minced
3 medium carrots, diced
3 medium potatoes, diced
1 cup water
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper to taste

Fry bacon slowly until slightly brown. Remove bacon and brown onion in bacon fat. Add tomatoes, fish, green pepper, carrots, potatoes, and water. Bring to boiling point in tightly covered pan. Reduce heat and simmer for 15 minutes. Add milk and bacon. Simmer 10 minutes longer and serve immediately.

Onion Chowder

[Serves six]

3 tablespoons butter
1 pint peeled onions, chopped coarsely
2 quarts boiling water
1 quart potatoes, sliced thin
1 pint milk
2 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon minced parsley
¼ teaspoon pepper

Melt butter in kettle and add onions; saute until pale yellow. Add the water, boil rapidly for 30 minutes; add the potatoes, and cook about 30 minutes longer. Add the milk; thicken with the flour mixed with ¼ cup additional milk. Season, sprinkle with parsley, and serve.

When time is short prepare this vegetable chowder or the oyster stew. They're sure to make a hit with the family.

Quick Corn Chowder

[Serves six]

¼ pound finely diced salt pork
½ cup chopped onion
1 No. 2 can cream style corn
2 cups raw diced potatoes
2 cups water
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1 cup tomato juice
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Fry salt pork until brown and crisp. Remove from pan and add onion to fat, cook slowly until golden brown. Add corn, potatoes, and water. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes or until the potatoes are done. Blend together flour and milk, and add to the vegetables. Bring to boiling point. Cook stirring constantly, for one minute. Add tomato juice, salt, pepper, and salt pork. Heat thru and serve.

Oyster Stew

[Serves six]

1 pint oysters
1 quart milk
½ pint cream
Salt, pepper

Drain off oyster liquor and save it. Place oysters in a strainer and pour cold water over them. Place with liquor in a sauce pan, add water to cover, and heat to simmering. Simmer until edges of oysters curl. Skim and pour over the oysters the milk and cream which have been heated to scalding and seasoned with salt and pepper. Serve at once with toasted crackers.

FASHIONS
By Angela

Dresses fashioned of sheer lightweight wool mixtures are ideal extra dresses for wardrobes of those wearing youthful styles in junior sizes from 9 to 15.

For fall wear under a new shortie coat is the two piece dress at left. A rich black gored skirt is an ideal contrast to a natural colored wool mixture top. It is trimmed with bright red looped wool around short sleeves, square neck and front. Red and green wool quarter size dots decorate the upper part of the jacket and bows accent darts at a slight fitted waistline.

An ebony black one piece dress in center may be saved for the "unexpected" dates which suddenly materialize. It has a new high square neckline and banded cap sleeves studded with gold nailhead. A slim skirt is further emphasized by a smooth yoke at the hipline. It is available in black and gold and black and aqua.

There is no end to the smart details contained in the black and white stripe two piece dress at right. It has a softly rounded shoulder yoke effect, high neckline with narrow white faille collar, and velvet bow. Silver buttons parade down the weskit cut jacket and the three quarter sleeves are cuffed with white faille. In back a narrow belt and bow tie across a pert graduated peplum.

Celery Should Be Drained Thoroly After Washing

After washing celery, always drain it thoroly. If it is to be kept for future use place it in an oiled bag or in parchment paper in the refrigerator. Do not let celery stand in water for any length of time—it loses flavor and possibly some vitamin content.

Mrs. Truman Decides Against an Elaborate Entertainment Season

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 [Special]—Now is not the time for elaborate official entertaining in the White House, Mrs. Harry S. Truman let it be known today. This announcement came at a press conference called to report Mrs. Truman's plans and activities thru her aids, Mrs. Bertha Helm, White House social secretary, and Miss Reathal Odum, personal secretary. Mrs. Helm recalled the food shortages, the many families still having men serving abroad, and said:

"Mrs. Truman says it is inappropriate at present to have an elaborate social program, and she has decided not to launch formal state receptions and state dinners this season."

Meat Base Soups EVERY TIME

Now—even without soup bones—you can make hearty, delicious soups chock-full of food meat flavor. Moreover, you make them in no time at all! It's B-V "meat magic" that does it.

With Wilson's B-V, you simply make a meat base broth to be added to your soup after the other ingredients are cooked. (See recipes.) This made-in-a-minute broth—so rich and so flavorful—turns ordinary soup into super soup. Try it and see!

Let quick, delicious B-V provide the meat base broth for all your homemade soups.

B-V is a delicious blend of concentrated meat extract and selected vegetable flavors. Use it for rich meat flavor in soups, hot drinks, gravies, stews, casseroles, etc. The meat flavor with a hundred uses. B-V makes it taste better.

B-V MEAT BASE TOMATO SOUP

Simmer 10 to 15 min.
1½ cups tomatoes
2 tbsp. chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
Put through a sieve.
Add 5 cups boiling water
½ cup cooked rice
1½ tsp. sugar, optional
3 tsp. B-V dissolved in a small amount of the hot liquid. Garnish with chives (optional). Serves 6.

B-V MEAT BASE VEGETABLE SOUP

Simmer covered, until tender in
6 cups water
1 cup cubed potatoes
1 cup shredded cabbage
¾ cup diced carrot
¾ cup diced celery
2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. bacon drippings
¾ tsp. salt
Add
¼ cup tomatoes (sieved)
4½ tsp. Wilson's B-V dissolved in a small amount of the hot liquid. Serves 6.

B-V MEAT BASE SOUP STOCK

4 tsp. Wilson's B-V
4 cups boiling water (including vegetable cooking water*)

Dissolve B-V in a small amount of the hot water (about ¼ cup). Add remaining water and serve.

Use full strength as a bouillon; for soup stock, use less B-V (from ½ to ¾ tsp. per cup of liquid) to suit your taste.

*Do not use too much vegetable water unless only lightly salted.

TRADE-MARKS REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Legion Women Urge U. S. to Retain Bases

Following the lead set by the American Legion, executive members of the Illinois department of the auxiliary yesterday went on record as favoring acquisition and fortification by the United States of bases both in the Atlantic and the Pacific which now are recognized as essential by the general staffs of the American army and navy. Universal military training is favored, and the auxiliary advocates that the R. O. T. C. be established in every high school and college. The group promises support of all legislation for maintenance of a strong National Guard.

State officers and committee chairmen, together with the directors of the 25 auxiliary districts in Illinois, make up the executive group, which has been in session since Monday in the Hotel Sherman. The meeting will adjourn tomorrow. It also was decided yesterday that the state organization would purchase two memorial windows for the post chapel at Vaughan General hospital.

The auxiliary's caravan school of instruction again is to be conducted this year. Mrs. Earle Eldridge, state president, will meet in the Morrison hotel today with officers and committee chairmen to start the program. The group will spend about a week visiting the various district headquarters to give instruction in parliamentary procedures and other auxiliary affairs.

The state organization has reported a membership increase of 2,000 over last year, with total enrollment of more than 50,000. A large per cent of the new members are mothers, wives, sisters, and daughters of veterans of World War II, who have joined the legion.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	6 hearts	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of clubs.

The bridge table is perhaps one of the last places in the world you would expect to encounter the phenonemon of an optical illusion, but it does sometimes occur there, and today's hand is offered with an eye to bearing that out.

I think no serious quarrel will be had with the bidding of this rock-crusher, tho South's final bid is somewhat on the aggressive side, in view of his previously having made a jump shift and a feature bid in diamonds. North's two diamond bid was made as a temporary device and when it elicited a jump in hearts from South there could be no question about the small slam, inasmuch as North held better than an opening bid himself. The four club bid was routine and when South followed up with the four diamond bid I think North could be excused for going the whole way himself if he chose to do so.

The opening lead was the jack of clubs and the ace was, of course, played from dummy. Declarer immediately drew the trumps and then proceeded with the spades in the hope that that suit would break, so that dummy would obtain two diamond discards. When this failed to materialize a spade had to be ruffed in the North hand and then everything rested with the diamond finesse. When this failed declarer was sunk.

This hand did not depend on the spade break and the diamond finesse. In the absence of a freak distribution the contract was more or less a cinch and I am sure declarer would have made the hand if he had been sitting North and South's hand had been dummy. Note that North's trumps are large enough so that they can be used for pulling purposes, and South has the short suit.

After winning the opening lead declarer should cash the ace and king of trumps to see if there were four in one hand. When this comes off pleasantly, a club should be ruffed in the South hand, North should be entered with the king of spades and the last club ruffed. The ace of spades is then cashed and a low spade ruffed safely with the nine of hearts in the North hand. The last trump is drawn and South discards the two of diamonds. Spades and diamonds take the rest of the tricks. A slight case of dummy reversal.

The usual weekly quiz will appear tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 4—Margaret O'Brien will be supported by three of our greatest character actors [and I hasten to name them]—Lionel Barrymore, Frank Morgan, and Lewis Stone—in Austin Strong's memorable story, "Three Wise Fools." That will be Missy Margaret's next picture. . . . And, while we're about it, I'd like to put in a bid now to the Motion Picture academy to give the youngsters regular sized awards this year instead of the small ones they've received in the past. After all, they should have a grown up Oscar for an adult size performance. Besides, they make better door stops. . . . Darryl Zanuck paid a fancy price for "The Black Rose," by Thomas B. Costain. It's No. 2 on the reading parade. Darryl tells me the story has more fire and dash than "Captain from Castile." . . . Can you remember Corinne Griffith and the late Conway Tearle in "Black Oxen"? That was only 21 years ago. Today Adela Rogers St. John is rewriting an adaptation of the novel for the screen. Metro would like Greta Garbo to make her return in it. Whether she will is something else again.

Scouting for a Mystery Murder Story

As soon as Stuart Heisler finishes producing Fred Astaire's dance numbers in "Blue Skies" he'll go to New York City to look for a psychological murder mystery for Gary Cooper. . . . Leo is roaring in the nicest way about Felice Ingersoll, who is 22, and a combination of Hedy Lamarr and Joan Crawford. Metro says if her ability is only 10 per cent of her beauty they've still got a star. . . . Bill Goodwin is being talked of for the lead in "Desirable Woman," with Joan Bennett. . . . Laraine Day, whose dancing is getting applause, hopes to team up with Gene Kelly when he returns to Metro in January. . . . I dined with Merle Oberon, Lucien Ballard, and Joe Schenck at Romanoff's. Joe was a little sad over his first domestic upset. A fine cook he inherited from Irving Berlin left—not because Joe brought too many guests home but because he didn't come home for dinner. She just couldn't stand irregularity. . . . If Jimmy Stewart is willing, his first movie since his discharge from the army will be "High Barbaree," as I said before. . . . This handed me a giggle. Philip Dunne, whose last script was "How Green Was My Valley," has finished one on "Forever Amber." After doing these he's probably color blind, but then Amber's easy on the eye.

But the Page Boys Didn't Come C. O. D.

Charlie McCarthy wired me from Washington: "I'm mad at Mortimer. He stole the show at the capitol. Edgar Bergen bought him a new green tweed suit, and I had to wear my old duds. I'm mad at Bergen, too, because the page boys get more than $100 a month from Uncle Sam, and I only get 75 cents a week from Uncle Bergen." . . . Our stars are looking ahead—'way ahead. Many of them are already buying homes in Hawaii. I suppose to get away from it all. . . . Myrna Loy's costumes will be of the 1870 vintage in that Jack Skirball picture. Wasn't "Parnell" about that period? Sorry, just a slip of the pen. . . . Edith Head is yum-yumming thru the days. She's designing 22 glamor costumes for Ingrid Bergman's "Notorious," and now she's got Ingrid in her favorite corner with Barbara Stanwyck.

The first Friday afternoon symphony concert of the season and the first of the usual after-the-symphony teas are other events contributing to a busy day. Désiré Defauw, musical director and conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will be the special guest at tea from 4 to 6 p. m. in the Cordon club. Mrs. John T. Pirie will serve as hostess at tea time in the English-Speaking union headquarters, 224 S. Michigan av., assisted by Mrs. John Stuart Coonley, and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr.

Lights will go up in Orchestra hall again tonight for the first of this season's concerts by the Woman's Symphony orchestra, with Jerzy Bojanowsky conducting, and George Czaplicki as soloist. Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. William S. Hay, the Charles H. Swifts, and the George Woodruffs are among the season ticket holders.

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago will give a special preview from 8 to 10 o'clock tonight of its new exhibition of paintings and prints by George Rouault, French artist of the ultra-modern school, which will be on display in Goodspeed hall from tomorrow thru Oct. 31. Among the women assisting tonight will be Mrs. Ernest C. Colwell, wife of the university's president; Mrs. Frederic Woodward, Mrs. Dallas B. Phemister, Mrs. Howard Kornblith, and Mrs. Carl O. Schniewind.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. G. L. Markham, Prairie du Chien, Wis.]

THE QUESTION

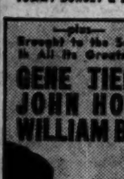
WHERE ASKED

South Shore High school.

THE ANSWERS

Marilyn Baird-Smith, senior, 7634 Cornell av.—Of course. If you're not doing anything you shouldn't be doing there's no reason why parents can't be with you . . . once in a while. If you don't ever want them along they'll think you're ashamed of them or of your friend. Parents can be loads of fun if you get to know them.



Jean Chapline, junior, 1959 E. 72d st.—I think it's all right but I don't think most parents enjoy going along with their children because of their likes and dislikes. They may be fun at a movie or on a dinner date. Going out with parents occasionally enables them to get acquainted with your friends and vice versa.

Jim Prescott, senior class president, 7310 Ridgeland av.—Once in a while it's all right, but I don't make it a habit. The fellow's parents as well as the girl's parents get to know who their children are going out with. I know that when I'm a parent I'll want my children to think of me as a pal.

Keith MacKenzie, chairman of finance committee, 6742 Chappel av. It depends upon the occasion. For dinner would be all right, maybe, if it were a special place. I haven't gone out with my parents very much because we always run around in groups or double dates. Only a special occasion should include parents.

Jane Schneberger, editor of Shore Line, 7426 Paxton av.—My mother and dad and I are very good pals and we've had a lot of fun together. Either I invite them out or they ask me to invite a friend of mine to join them. We play golf and go dancing, go to parties and I enjoy it, it's a different kind of evening.

BY EDWARD BURNS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4—Hank Greenberg, the towering ex-army captain who knocked a ninth inning, four run homer to clinch the American league pennant for the Detroit Tigers in St. Louis last Sunday, gave them their margin of success in a 4 to 1 victory over the Chicago Cubs today when he drove out a three run homer off Hank Wyse, Cub 22 game winner, in the fifth inning. A few minutes before the Tigers had matched the Cubs' lone run, scored in the fourth inning on a double by Phil Cavarretta and a single by Bill Nicholson.

Co-hero in the eyes of Detroit partisans among the crowd of 53,636 which watched this second and evening-up contest of the series was Virgil Trucks, who joined the Tigers last Saturday after his discharge from the navy, failed narrowly as a starter in the clinching game last Sunday, and roared back with a seven-hitter today.

Chicago Sure of Two Games

Thus, with the series evened at one victory for each team, Chicago is assured of seeing at least two games of the world series, Saturday and Sunday.

Today's game, like yesterday's opener, produced errorless play. Unlike yesterday's 9 to 0 Cub walkaway, however, today's spectacle, played under much more favorable weather conditions as to temperature and breeze, was replete with flashy defensive play which started when Greenberg threw out Stan Hack at the plate as he tried to score from second on a single by Harry Lowrey in the first inning.

Greenberg's smash is the only extra baser the Tigers have smacked thus far in the series—but it was really of high caliber, a shot which easily cleared the high screen 400 feet from the plate at about 25 feet to the left of the center field flag pole.

Wyse Was Good at First

Prior to the Tigers' triumphant fifth inning, Wyse had yielded only two singles and two walks. A pass to Roy Cullenbine and a single by Jimmy Outlaw in the second inning caused no distress. The single was made after two were out and Paul Richards ended the threat with an easy grounder to Roy Hughes.

The aforesaid run, fabricated on Cavarretta's double and Nicholson's single in the fourth inning, dissipated any dismay the Chicagoans may have felt over Hack's being stopped at the plate in the first inning.

There was a bit of National league tension when Roger Cramer led off the home fourth with the second Detroit hit and Cullenbine drew his second pass with one down. But the Cubs' one run lead stood up when Rudy York flied to Andy Pafko and Outlaw forced Cullenbine.

Hack Does It Again

In the fifth Hack knocked his third straight hit, a double, but there were two out when Stan stroked it and Don Johnson supplied the third out with a rolier to Eddie Mayo.

That double was the sixth and next to last hit off Trucks, tho the Cubs, of course, had no way of knowing at the time how bleak the rest of the proceedings were to be for them, offensively and defensively.

There was no rumble of impending disaster for the Chicagoans until the first two batsmen, Paul Richards and Trucks, had been re-

MICHIGAN-N. U. DUEL IS TOSSUP, STATISTICS SAY

BY HARRY WARREN

While Indiana prepares to defend its unbeaten — but tied — Big Nine record against Illinois tomorrow, the effect the Hoosiers have had on the current football race leaves fans slightly on the perplexed side as they attempt to arrive at some advance opinions on the game between Northwestern and Michigan in Dyche stadium tomorrow.

Indiana opened its Big Nine race by whipping Michigan, 13 to 7, and last Saturday the Hoosiers confused the issue by being held to a 7 to 7 tie with Northwestern.

Here Are Comparisons

The Hoosiers, thru their varied fortunes with Michigan and Northwestern, have been cast in a guinea pig role in the football laboratories of midwestern football fans. For these analytically inclined fans the statistics of the Indiana-Michigan and the Indiana-Northwestern games are presented:

INDIANA AND MICHIGAN

	Ind.	Mich.
Total first downs	13	13
By rushing	10	10
By passing	3	3
Net yards rushing	165	170
Net yards forwards passes	108	83
Passes attempted	15	12
Passes completed	7	3

INDIANA AND NORTHWESTERN

	N. U.	Ind.
Total first downs	10	12
By rushing	8	5
By passing	2	7
Yards gained rushing	285	186
Net yards gained by passing	39	133
Forward passes attempted	11	20
Forward passes completed	3	12

If any credence may be placed on the foregoing tables Northwestern and Michigan should provide some thrilling entertainment for the 35,000 fans who will sit in on the proceedings.

Pre-War Color Returns

This game is expected to provide more real college color than has been in evidence in years. Michigan's band, which has not appeared away from home since 1941, will be at the game some 100 strong. Northwestern, which has not been musically inclined while the university's band leader has been in service, also will have a band in action, but it will confine its activity to playing rather than marching.

Northwestern, with an impressive victory over Iowa State and that tie with Indiana to show for its season's work, has an opportunity to make its best showing in years. The Wildcats, like the Wolverines, are pinning their hopes on a squad top-heavy with younger players. Coach Crisler of Michigan, who long has been a believer in the single wing back formation, employs a modified T formation and the shift this season.

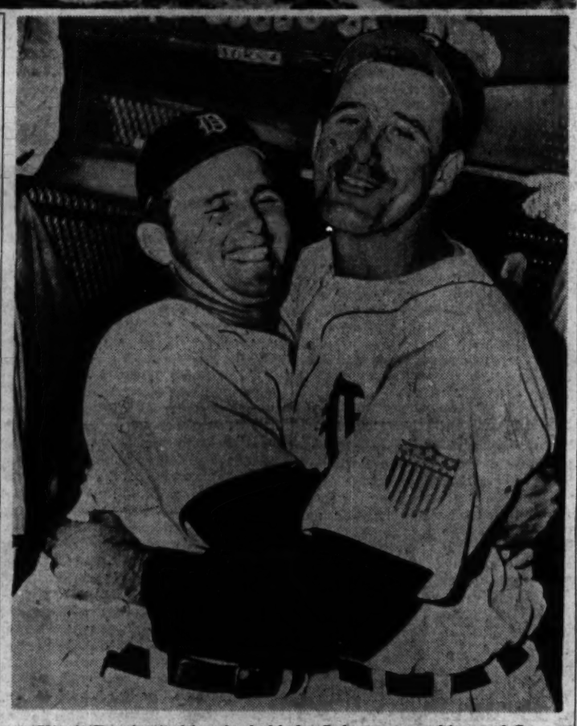
Prep Rivals to Meet

Two of the younger players who will be in evidence tomorrow will resume a rivalry which started in Chicago prep circles. They are Ted Kemp, 18, a graduate of Senn High school who is now with Northwestern and Walter Teninga, Michigan freshman star from Morgan Park High school. Last season Teninga was high scorer in Chicago public high school competition, while Kemp took secondary honors.

Bob Nussbaumer, former Oak Park High school star, who was lost to the Wolverines last year after the Purdue game, is expected to be of considerable help to Michigan tomorrow.

N. U., Michigan Alumni to Hold Luncheon Today

Alumni of Northwestern university and the University of Michigan will gather at a joint luncheon in the Crystal room of the Palmer House at 12:15 today. Honor guests will include Tug Wilson, Western conference commissioner of athletics; Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern coach; T. Hawley Tapping, secretary of the Michigan Club of Chicago, and Tom Harmon, former Wolverine star.



Virgil Trucks (left), who held the Cubs to seven hits, and Greenberg, whose three run homer clinched the decision, congratulate each other in the Tiger clubhouse. [Associated Press Wirephoto]

Greenberg and Trucks Draw Tigers' Post-Game Applause

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP)—Towering Hank Greenberg and Virgil Trucks were the center of a conquering heroes' reception in the Tigers' dressing room today after they individually and collectively put Detroit back in the world series.

Greenberg, whose three run homer in the fifth inning sewed up the game for the Tigers, wrapped his long arms around the boyish looking Trucks and gave him a big hug. "You certainly pitched a beautiful game," Greenberg told him.

Trucks merely grinned. Then the photographers swarmed around and pleaded with big Hank to give Trucks a bear hug and then a kiss. Greenberg balked at the osculation suggestion.

They Still Must Win Three

The photographers pleaded that it was the biggest day in baseball history for Greenberg. "No, it ain't," Hank countered. "We got three more games to win."

Greenberg, who returned to the club from the air force in midseason, said the ball he hit some 370 feet for his blasting homer was a curve.

"You know what?" big Hank suddenly blurted, "we wanna make a series out of it. Maybe it'll be a good series after all. I hope so. I hope all you guys are back calling on me tomorrow."

Gives Hank All the Credit

Trucks, discharged from the navy last Friday, was proud of his victory, but he gave credit for clinching it to Greenberg. "Hank's home

WRIGLEY SHUNS SERIES TO HEED TICKET GRIPES

P. K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, is on a sympathy strike with the thousands of fans who were unsuccessful in obtaining tickets for the Chicago end of the world series.

Is Mr. Wrigley in Detroit watching his National league champions battle the Tigers? No, he's commiserating right here in Chicago with those disappointed fans who were shut out in the pasteboard rush.

"It's the least I can do, don't you think?" Mr. Wrigley half-asserted, half-questioned last night. "That's why I'm staying in Chicago—to answer the beefs of the fans whose good money was returned when our ticket supply was exhausted."

P. K. was asked how many complaints have been registered from people whose ticket quests failed.

Few Take Time to Write

"I'd say that fewer than 200 have taken the trouble to write," he answered. "But they are at least entitled to an answer. That's why I'm here. That's my job. We figure that only 1 per cent of the people who are angry will go to the trouble of writing letters.

"That's why we're running an ad in the paper tomorrow explaining our position in the Chicago world series scalping situation. We want to make it thoroly understood that the Cubs are not capitalizing on these over the ceiling prices.

"We're facing the scalping issue frankly. There's no use to bury your head in the sand. Tickets will be scalped. Tickets cannot be controled once they are in the hands of the public. They belong to the holders. To give you a simile: A customer puts a penny in one of our vending machines. No gum. Well, who does he blame? Not the vending concern, but the Wrigley company.

The Cubs Can Do Nothing

"Well, I'm answering those 1 per cent to explain that we are powerless to control tickets after they have been sold. And as for the other 99 per cent, who are sore, too, but not sore enough to make a complaint, we're telling our side of the story in newspaper ads.

"I wouldn't feel right traipsing off to Detroit and being unavailable for these logical beefs by the fans. And they'll feel better, I hope, knowing that I, too, am missing out on seeing the Cubs play."

P. K. added that, anyway, he can't play second base. Before the team left for Detroit he told Manager Charley Grimm of his decision to remain in Chicago.

"Charley's running the team," he added. "I told him to attend to his end of the business and I'd look after my end here."

HARVARD BOOKS GAME AT YALE; FIRST SINCE 1942

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 4 (AP)—Bill Bingham, who returned to his post as athletic director at Harvard Monday, made his first ruling today when he declared Harvard football would be on a formal basis and, just to prove it, scheduled a game with Yale in New Haven for Dec. 1. It will be the first game between the schools since 1942.

BY ARCH WARD
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 4—Sailor Virgil Trucks and Soldier Hank Greenberg ganged up on the Cubs today and the result was inevitable. . . . The Cubs are not the first strong team to learn you can't whip Uncle Sam's army and navy or the men who have made them the greatest fighting forces the world has known. . . . Trucks said right along he knew he could beat the Cubs because he had pitched against them in an exhibition game at Great Lakes a year ago. . . . Virgil was not voted a share of the Tigers' world series dough because he still was in the navy when the decision was made, but maybe his mates will agree he's entitled to a few shekels after his performance today. . . . Trucks, of Irish-Indian descent, is quite a basketball player, too. . . . He was a member of a team that held the famous New York Celtics to a 48 to 45 score a few years ago. . . . He came to the Tigers from Beaumont of the Texas league, where he pitched against Hank Wyse, his mound opponent today, who at that time belonged to Tulsa. . . . Trucks won 14 games for Detroit in 1942, and in 1943, his last season before entering service, he won 16 and lost 10.

Trucks lost only one game while he was pitching for the navy . . . that was to the Army All-Stars at Pearl Harbor in 1944. . . . He returned from the Pacific July 23 and was discharged as a specialist, 3d class, last week. . . . In the dressing room after the game he said he thought he had all his old stuff today except for the eighth and ninth innings, when he had trouble getting a grip on the ball. . . . Greenberg said the pitch he smashed into the left field stands, which decided the outcome, was a curve. . . . As usual Hank was extremely modest about his achievement. . . . He declined to pose for pictures unless Trucks was included.

Sgt. Vince Garrity, former Cub batboy, who now is attached to Vaughan General hospital, Chicago, introduced himself to Commissioner Chandler in the lobby of the Statler this morning. . . . Vince, who rode an overnight coach to Detroit, asked the commissioner how a fellow went about getting into Briggs stadium. . . . "It's simple," beamed the commissioner, "just take this ticket." . . . Garrity almost swooned when he learned it was a seat in Chandler's box. . . . Incidentally the commissioner isn't worrying about the newspaper sharpshooters, some of whom didn't think baseball would survive the death of Judge Landis. . . . "My hide is pretty thick," Chandler remarks. . . . Mrs. Chandler and their two daughters will yield their box seats tomorrow to wounded veterans. . . . Washington, the team that chased the Tigers to the finish line, was the only American league club without official representation at today's game, provided you count Leslie O'Connor as already functioning for the White Sox. . . . Sammy Byrd, golf professional, came in for today's contest. . . . He once was a world series headliner with the Yankees.

Roy Johnson, Cub coach who served as batting practice pitcher yesterday, was injured on his right shin by a batted ball. . . . He was back today, however, regretting that he had only one more shin to give to his club. . . . Ernie Johnson, one time White Sox shortstop, and his son, Stanley, who flew in from California, were in the stands pulling for Don Johnson, another son. . . . It was the first time Stanley had seen his brother in a major league engagement. . . . More than 350 newspaper men are covering the series. . . . The Tigers never have finished last in the American league race. . . . There's a mild revival of the out-dated ghost writing at this series. . . . Ten years ago every one ever identified with baseball, from Old Cy Young, the winningest pitcher the sport has produced, to contending batboys, had his spook.

Wyse threw only eight balls to retire the Tigers in the first inning. . . . Hotel housekeepers were alarmed when many guests left for the stadium Wednesday with blankets, but a checkup last night showed almost every one had been returned. . . . The temperature in the press box at game time today was 60 degrees, 15 above yesterday's reading. . . . Rudy York was called out on strikes in the second without ever swinging. . . . The seating capacity of Briggs stadium is 52,954, but it once housed a throng of 58,404 for a double header with the Yankees. . . . Andy Lotshaw, Cub trainer, gradually is learning how to pronounce the names of some of his boys. . . . When Hank Borowy joined the club in midseason he asked Andy to introduce him to his mates. . . . As they came into the Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4—Youth, as represented by Henry Wyse, failed to serve the Cubs' world series purposes today, so tomorrow when the third battle of the fall event and the last scheduled to be played in the home of the American league Tigers is launched, the Chicagoans will turn to age and experience.

It will be Claude Passeau, announced Manager Charles Grimm this afternoon before his gang stepped forth and lost the edge built up by yesterday's opening victory. Passeau, a 36 year old right hander, during the regular season, contributed 17 victories to the Cubs' cause while losing nine times.

The Tigers intend to return to southpawing as Cub bait, the dispenser being the squatty Frank Overmire, who won nine and lost nine decisions during the season.

Virgil Is Good as Ever

When the Cubs gave the talented Hal Newhouser an unexpected bounce in the opening game it indicated a big bulge in the eventual outcome of the series but all that was reduced today by the unveiling of Virgil Trucks, the ex-sailor, as a series master mound mechanic.

Trucks, who hadn't pitched a complete big league game since 1943, after which he went into the navy, had all the tricks that made him a rare prospect as early as 1942, the showing making it a dead cinch that he will come back at the Cubs within the next few days.

It gives the Tigers an able running mate for the 25 game winning Newhouser, who, on percentages, looms as a Cub problem, the suffering they inflicted on him in the opener notwithstanding. Whether the Cubs can produce a companion for Hank Borowy, victor in the opener, remains to be seen.

Today's Game Is Important

If the Cubs can win tomorrow—and Passeau is the type of pitcher who might be able to outfox the local power swingers—it will be the Tigers' turn to worry.

The Cubs, in the event of a Passeau success, will have a 2 to 1 edge and they'll be in their own Chicago back yard for whatever remains to be played in the series. But, if they lose tomorrow, they not only will be trailing by 2 to 1 and will have shown that they are without sufficient pitching after Borowy has been used up.

Of course, there is this one thing to hang up as a Cub hope. That is, that once home even if their pitching should be bad, they'll make use of their bats for distance and thus overcome whatever weakness they might show on the mound. But just in case the Cub rooters get too enthusiastic, let 'em remember that the Tigers also have one Paul [Dizzy] Trout in reserve and while the great man hadn't been of much worth the last month, it doesn't follow that he might not bob up with all his 1944 brilliance.

Parker to Compete in Pan-American Net Meet

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4 (AP)—Frankie Parker, United States singles champion, will participate in the fourth Pan-American tennis tournament opening here Sunday.

WRIGLEY FIELD ALL DOLLED UP FOR BIG SERIES

Ushers Will Use Radio in Handling Crowds

O. K., you can bring on that world series!

Wrigley field, spic and span from the front gate to the last skillet in the concession stands, is ready for the opening of Chicago's share of the Cub-Tiger free-for-all tomorrow.

The north side layout was swarming with workmen yesterday and last night, preparing the stands and the diamond for use. The outer walls will be practically a solid mass of bunting when preparations are complete and the rails of the grandstands are decked out in the same fashion, while Ground Keeper Bobby Dorr has the diamond and outfield as smooth as the proverbial billiard table.

Directs Ushers by Radio

Andy Frain called a final dress rehearsal of his staff of ushers yesterday and this year something new has been added in the form of portable radio telephone sets known as handy-talkies, with which the ushers and usherettes assigned to the distant reaches of the grandstand can communicate whenever necessary with Andy and his chief assistants.

R. F. McCall, assistant sales manager of the Galvin Manufacturing company, producer of the handy-talkie, supervised the demonstration.

Four thousand chairs have been added to the box seat sections at Wrigley field. This will bring the seating capacity for the series to 41,700. Bleacher seats will go on sale at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning and every morning of the series. When those are disposed of, 2,500 standing room admissions will be offered. Bleacher seats are $1.20 and standing room tickets are $3.60 and are sold on a first come, first served basis.

Keep Eye on Scalpers

Nigel D. Campbell, collector of internal revenue, said yesterday that 25 agents have been assigned to check the sale of series tickets by scalpers in the loop. The agents, under the direction of Daniel J. Conerty, chief field deputy, will make no attempt to arrest the scalpers. Their mission simply is to see that the government receives its 20 per cent in taxes.

Tigers Defeat Cubs, 4-1, to Square Series

tired in the fifth. Then Skeeter Webb, a .200 hitter in the American league season, rebelled at supplying the third out. Instead, the former White Sox lined a single to left. This, no doubt, startled Wyse and he forthwith walked Mayo. Cramer then bashed the third of his three hits, a single to left which scored Webb with the tying run and put Mayo on third.

It Was a Curve Ball

Greenberg, held to a puny single on which Mayo was thrown out at third in the series opener and twice retired today before he went up to bat this time, missed on a strike and took a ball. Then he looked for the curve ball which he said, after the game, Jim Tobin, a Boston Brave till midseason, had told him the Chicago Hank would cast in such a spot. In any event, the Detroit Hank got a curve ball and socked it for that homer, scoring behind Mayo and Cramer.

The only hit the Cubs made after Greenberg's smash was Lowrey's second single after Hack had walked in the eighth inning. Wyse retired the Tigers in order in the sixth, then went away for Pinch Batter Frank Secory.

Paul Erickson pitched the last two innings for the Cubs. The Tigers loaded the bases with the aid of their sixth and seventh hits, but Paul escaped, then retired the Detroiters in order in the eighth.

Greenberg's Arm Is Deadly

Hack negotiated all but about four feet of the trip around the bases in the first inning. Stan opened the contest by beating out a grounder to Webb and promptly moved up while Rudy York was retiring Don Johnson on a sacrifice. Lowrey then lined a single to left and, the Hack immediately went into high gear, Greenberg's perfect throw to Richards sank the Cub veteran by an easy margin. Lowrey got to second on the business at the plate—and died there when Cavarretta bounced out to York.

After Greenberg had flied to Pafko at the start of the Detroit second, Cullenbine walked. York failed to offer at any of three strikes, but Outlaw lined a single to left, Cullenbine stopping at second. Hughes threw out Richards.

Hack Gets Another Hit

In the third inning Eddie Mayo threw out Hughes and Wyse fanned. Hack again beat out an infield hit, this one to York, but Johnson ended the inning with a strikeout. In the home half, Trucks grounded to Johnson, Webb flied to Nicholson, and Mayo was thrown out by Johnson.

Here's the way the Cubs scored in the fourth inning and stood off a Tiger threat in the latter half of the session: Lowrey opened with a grounder to Webb, but Cavarretta lined a safe one to right. The Cub captain pulled up after rounding first, but when he saw the ball slow down in the grass in front of Cramer, he broke for second and made it for a double, the first extra base hit of the game. Cavarretta held second while Webb was throwing out Pafko but scored on Nicholson's line single to right center. Paul Gillespie flied to Cramer. Cramer led off th' Detroit fourth with a single to center and Hack threw out Greenberg. Cullenbine drew his second pass but York flied to Pafko and Outlaw forced Cullenbine.

Hack doubled after Hughes and Wyse had supplied infield outs in the fifth but Mayo threw out Johnson.

Here's the Bad News

Then came the big doings in the Tiger fifth. The inning started mildly with Richards' fly to Pafko and Trucks' pop to Johnson. Webb then touched off the fireworks with a line single to left and Mayo got Wyse's third pass. Cramer singled to left, scoring Webb with the tying run, Mayo taking third. Greenberg then drove the ball over the screen atop the 400 foot marker in left center, scoring behind Mayo and Cramer. Cullenbine bounced to Cavarretta.

After Nicholson had grounded to Mayo and Gillespie had flied to Cullenbine in the seventh Hughes got Trucks' first pass and this brought up Secory to bat for Wyse. He lined to Greenberg.

Erickson Escapes Jam

Erickson was the replacement for Wyse and started off by fanning Trucks. Webb beat out a dribbler toward third for his second hit, paused while Mayo flied to Lowrey, then went to third on Cramer's third hit, a single to center. Greenberg walked, loading the bases. Cullenbine flied to Nicholson.

Hack walked at the start of the Chicago eighth and Johnson was called out on strikes. Lowrey knocked his second single to left and runners moved up while Cavarretta was going out, York to Trucks. Pafko rolled out, Webb to York. In the home eighth York rolled to Hughes, Outlaw fouled to Gillespie and Richards lined to Hughes.

The White Sox want to return to Pasadena, Cal., for spring training in 1946, but may not be able to get hotel accommodations. . . . If that happens they will move to Fullerton, Cal. . . . Hal Newhouser, who has lost 15 pounds in the last month, plans to rest at a camp upstate after the series. . . . The first time there was any real spirit displayed by the fans today was when Greenberg dropped his homer into the left field stands with two aboard in the fifth. . . . This was Greenberg's fourth world series homer. . . . He got one in 1934, one in 1935, and one in 1940. . . . It was his eighth in Briggs stadium this year. . . . The names of Cavarretta and Gillespie were misspelled in the official program, but American league towns aren't supposed to know National league players anyway.

Three thousand half frozen fans were in line at the bleacher gates at 8 o'clock this morning. . . . Two women led the procession. . . . They took their positions at 7:30 last night and came equipped with blankets, heavy coats, jugs of coffee, and sandwiches. . . . They spent the night curled up in the blankets. . . . Ten soldiers from Dibble General hospital, Menlo Park, Cal., who lost their sight on the battlefields of Europe and in the Pacific, are attending the series as guests of a San Francisco newspaper. . . . They were introduced to members of the Tigers and Cubs before the game today and a receiving set was installed in their box to bring them the radio report of the contest. . . . They were happy to learn a baseball statistics book is printed in Braille.

Leslie O'Connor says one of his first moves at Comiskey park will be to improve facilities in the press box. . . . Wish Egan, Detroit's chief scout, had four associates with him—Dan Crowley, who covers Southern California; Frank Shellenback, who looks after the New England area; Ed Katalinas, who digs for talent in the Pennsylvania coal regions, and Al Vincent, who next year will manage the Tigers' farm club in Dallas, Tex. . . . Fred Mandel and Gus Dorais, owner and coach, respectively, of the Detroit Lions, are looking forward to the day when their team will pack Briggs stadium. . . . It may not be long if the Lions whip the Green Bay Packers in Milwaukee Sunday. . . . Larry MacPhail enjoyed today's game much more than yesterday's. . . . First of all, he's an American leaguer and, secondly, he was very hoarse last night trying to explain why the Yankees sold Borowy to the Cubs.

Ten Years Ago Today—The Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago Cubs, 2 to 1, to take a three to one game lead in the World Series . . . Purdue defeated Northwestern, 7 to 0 . . . Notre Dame beat Carnegie Tech, 14 to 3 . . . Discovery won the Hawthorne Gold Cup race.

18 MAY START IN SPRINT HANDICAP AT HAWTHORNE

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Hawthorne's $10,000 Sprint handicap, featured event on tomorrow's nine race program, has attracted a fast set of thorobreds even tho it has lost a trio of stars which originally were entered—the Murlogg farm's pair, Fighting Step, winner of the American Derby, and Bergolater, victor in the $15,000 Hawthorne handicap last Saturday, and J. Howard Rouse's sprinter, Three Dots.

Fighting Step, which has earned more than $100,000 for Mrs. Frank Murphy and her daughter, Susan Kellogg, of Evansville, Ind., and Bergolater are on their way to Churchill Downs while Three Dots has been at the Louisville track for some time.

Nevertheless, the Sprint handicap, a six and one-half furlong affair, may have as many as 18 starters out of the original entry list of 28. Top weight of 118 pounds has been assigned Leon Tikulski's Bolus while Mrs. V. E. Smith's Sirius, winner of the race last year, gets in at two pounds less, along with Ruth Sidell's Burgoo Maid and S. D. Sidell's St. Jock.

Steve Brooks, leading jockey at the Stickney track, scored his 33d triumph aboard the Swanee river stable's Valdina Clown in the first race yesterday. Hilltop Stock Farm's Woodfin, ridden by Al Burdy, took the second and with Valdina Clown provided a $20.20 daily double. Valdina Clown paid $4.80 and Woodfin $6.20.

The featured sixth race went to the Walmac Farm's Wallflower, a 1 to 3 favorite ridden by Freddy Smith. Head Flight, owned by N. H. Cantrell and piloted by Jack Fliter, was second in the $3,000 six furlong sprint which drew a field of seven.

Lane, Marshall Preps Win Soccer Matches

Lane Tech High school defeated Von Steuben, 4 to 2, in a City league soccer game yesterday in Lane stadium. In Garfield park, Marshall beat Schurz, 4 to 2.

Columbus, O., Oct. 4—Ohio State's football squad now has 16 letter men on its roster as it prepares for its first Western conference game here Saturday with Iowa in defense of the championship won last season with a perfect record. The more recent arrivals are Dick Fisher, half back, and Bob McGinnis, a 195 pound guard, who still is in the merchant marine but currently has a 30 day furlough.

McGinnis was a reserve tackle last season and drilled this summer at guard. If he remains available, he probably will be assigned to left guard and Warren Amling will shift to the other guard spot. There still is a possibility that Capt. Bill Hackett may play. He will be re-examined, the second such test since he was injured in an automobile accident last spring.

Fisher Valuable Addition

Fisher possibly is the most valuable of the additions to the Buckeye squad. Altho he has practiced only a few days, it is apparent he can be used at either of the half back positions. Since Paul Sarringhaus, a member of Ohio State's 1942 championship team, is at left half, Fisher undoubtedly will see more action at right half. He and Sarringhaus should give the Buckeyes the speed and drive required for a seven game conference campaign.

Ollie Cline is a holdover at the full back post. John Ehrsam, a letter man, is the No. 1 choice at quarter back, where Les Horvath operated last fall. Bob Dove is next in line, but the position also has been bolstered by late arrival of Robin Friday, a letter man.

Fisher, who still needs 12 hours to graduate, played on Ohio State's team in 1939, in 1940, and 1941. So did Thornton Dixon, who now is the varsity right tackle pairing with Russ Thomas. Other additions are Don Steinberg, experienced right end, and Jack Roe, a guard.

45,000 Crowd Expected

Forty-five thousand are expected to see Ohio State open the conference season and local opinion on the Buckeyes' title chances will be affected by the result. No one exactly fears defeat by Iowa in view of last year's 34 to 0 conquest of the Hawkeyes, but the downtown critics will be disappointed if a comparable score is not compiled Saturday.

Carroll Widdoes, 1944 coach of the year, who now has an intercollegiate record of 10 victories and no defeats, is as taciturn as ever. Widdoes can, if he wishes, start 10 letter men against Iowa. The only position without one experienced player is center.

Half Million Spectators Is Packers' Goal

BY EDWARD PRELL

All signs point to the Green Bay Packers playing to at least half a million fans in 1945. They already have drawn almost half this total in six appearances and have nine games left in which to get the other 250,000. At the Fairgrounds in Milwaukee Sunday the professional champions and Detroit Lions, each unbeaten in the National league, will attract a sellout crowd of 28,000.

The Packers displayed their gate appeal in the College All-Star game Aug. 30 in Soldiers' field before 92,753. A crowd of 90,000 watched the Packers lose to the Philadelphia Eagles in Philly. An exhibition against the Washington Redskins in Griffith stadium brought out 26,000. In Hershey, Pa., against the Pittsburgh Steelers, the champions performed before 14,000. Last Sunday, 24,525 watched the Packers whip the Bears in Green Bay.

Many Choice Dates Remain

Curly Lambeau's eleven has many other choice dates coming up, the first one being a week from Sunday in Green Bay against Cleveland. If the Rams beat the Bears Sunday and the Packers whip the Lions, the game with the Rams on Oct. 14 will match the only unbeaten teams remaining in the west.

The half million estimate does not include the possibility of the Packers participating in the East-West playoff and this would send the total soaring far over that mark.

Coach Lambeau professes to be too worried about the Lions to concentrate on the club's turnstile prospects. He pointed out yesterday that the Lions have lost only Frank Sinkwich, but he could have added that this comes under the heading of a terrific loss, like a football without a

The Green Bay gridiron professor also reported, without prompting, that Don Hutson will play Sunday and on succeeding Sundays, too.

McKay Does All Right

Irv Comp, who suffered a head injury in the Bear game, will be in shape to face the Lions, Lambeau said. Roy McKay played in Comp's place in the second half last week and the Texas youngster kept the Packers' attack going to such an extent that they scored three touchdowns while he was at left half.

Meanwhile in Chicago it was reported that the Cardinals have lost the services of Ed Rucinski, regular end, who left for his home in Indianapolis, asserting he was quitting pro football.

36 Notre Dame Men Off for Georgia Tech

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 4 [Special]—After a signal drill this morning the Notre Dame squad of 36 departed for Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech on Saturday before a sellout crowd of 30,000.

Altho he was not expected to play, Elmer Angsman, right half back who started against Illinois last Saturday, was in the group. His place is expected to be taken by Freshman Terry Brennan, who has looked impressive in workouts. The traveling squad:

Ends—Bob Skoglund, Bruno Opela, Bill Flynn, Dick Cronin, Bill Leonard, and Mike Bush.

Tackles—Bill Fischer, Ed Mieszkowski, Bill Russell, Pete Berezney, Jack Vainisi, and John Glabb.

Quarter backs—Frank Dancewicz, George Ratterman, and Joe Gasparella.

Half backs—Phil Colella, Bill Zehler, John Agnone, John McNamara, Terry Brennan, Bill Gompers, Emil Slovak, and Elmer Angsman.

Full backs—Frank Ruggerio, John Panelli, and Stan Krivik.

Newark Triumphs; Wins International Playoffs

MONTREAL, Oct. 4 (AP)—Newark's Bears qualified tonight for the little world series against the Louisville Colonels of the American association as they downed the Montreal Royals, 5 to 1, in the seventh and deciding battle of their International league final playoff series before a crowd of 18,000.

Greenberg, Trucks Given Tigers' Cheers

Trucks said he had his usual control, but that he began to tire in the fifth and sixth, and that the ball seemed very slick in the eighth, when the Cubs got two runners on base, and the ninth, when he walked one batter.

"I was relying on control all the time," the 24 year old Trucks said. "I was trying to get the ball exactly where Catcher Paul Richards gave the target."

Grimm Praises Trucks

The Cubs trooped to their dressing quarters with no sign of the hustle they displayed on the field. Manager Charley Grimm broke the stillness with a philosophical crack: "Well, boys, tomorrow's another day, just like yesterday."

Grimm then opened a discourse on Trucks' fireball tossing. "Pretty good pitching; fast—very fast," he said with sincerity. "And a good curve, don't overlook that. I didn't see anybody in our league as fast as Trucks was today. Yep, it's the fastest stuff I've watched this year."

Stan Hack, hunched over a bench in front of his locker, looked up to say, "He was awfully fast—just as fast today as Feller when I looked at him before he left Great Lakes. Trucks didn't throw us many good balls to hit."

"It wasn't even over," Wyse moaned. "It was a high, inside curve, but I didn't intend to put it there. I wanted it low and outside where I had been pitching to him."

Paul Gillespie twisted his knee swinging at Trucks' ninth inning pitch and may not be ready to catch again his next turn. It's an old injury, but it isn't bad.

TIGER VICTORY REVERSES ODDS ON SERIES AGAIN

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4 (AP)—Betting odds on the world series swung back to the Tigers tonight. Members of the hotel lobby bookmaking fraternity, who boosted the Cubs to 5 to 8 favorites after yesterday's opener, reversed their field again and installed the Tigers the 5 to 6 choice to win the series. They also quoted the same price 5 to 6 on Detroit to win tomorrow's third game.

If you like Chicago, under the new line, you get even money on both the game and the series.

Hanke Earns Starting Post for Wisconsin

Madison, Wis., Oct. 4 [Special]—Coach Harry Stuhldreher announced today Del Hanke would step into the first eleven on Saturday when the Badgers face Purdue here. He will play right guard in place of Hank Fricke. Hanke was a reserve tackle last fall.

The remainder of the starting team will include Ray Mals and Jack Mead, ends; Clarence Esser, acting captain, and Martin Meyer, tackles; Hanke and Wray George, guards, and Hal Faverty, center.

In the back field George Fuchs will be at quarter with Jerry Thompson and Charles Lehman at the half backs and Ben Bendrick at full back. Rex John, a reserve tackle, will be inserted into the line-up to do the Badgers' kicking.

Advance sales and with good weather on Saturday indicate a crowd of more than 35,000.

36 ON PURDUE SQUAD

FORST OUT; 4TH BIG ILLINI LOSS IN LAST 15 DAYS

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 4—[Special]—Larry Forst, Illinois left guard, was taken to a hospital today for an appendectomy. Walt Versen, who won a letter last year as a reserve lineman, will replace him in the starting lineup against Indiana here Saturday.

Forst had been counted upon as a major factor in Illinois' defense against Indiana. A regular tackle in 1943, he was out last season with a leg injury, but came back this year to win a first string berth. He played an outstanding defensive game at Notre Dame last week.

Illinois now has lost four key players in 15 days. The first was Eddie McGovern, right half back, who came down with appendicitis Sept. 20. Second was Eddie Bray, left half back, who suffered a knee injury against Notre Dame.

George Bujan, center, suffered a broken small bone in his hand at Notre Dame. There is hope now that he may play a few minutes of the Indiana game. Mac Wenskunas is being prepared to start.

HOOSIER STAR WILL START

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 4 [Special]—George Taliaferro, Indiana running star who has been nursing an injury, will be in the starting lineup when the Hoosiers meet Illinois in Champaign Saturday. Taliaferro's slight injury has almost entirely cleared up.

The Hoosiers today held their last hard workout. Coach Bo McMillin put the squad thru offensive formations.

Indiana's squad will leave tomorrow afternoon for an overnight stay at Danville, Ill., going to Champaign Saturday morning.

MARQUETTE TUNES ATTACK

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 4 [Special]—Additional preparation for Sunday's game with Villanova in Buffalo today found the Marquette team tuning up its attack and taking another look at Wildcats plays in a dummy review.

Status of two members of Marquette's squad was uncertain today. Both Tackle Jim Berendt and Half Back Jerry Strohm still are nursing leg injuries received in practice.

TUOHY WARNS SCALPERS MAY BE PROSECUTED

State's Atty. Tuohy yesterday took official cognizance of excessive prices being asked by scalpers for world's series baseball tickets with a warning that it is unlawful to charge more than the price printed on the ticket.

"It is the duty of the police department to make arrests of persons offering tickets for sale at illegal prices," he said, "and after the arrests are made the scalpers will be prosecuted by the state's attorney."

An Illinois state law provides a maximum fine of $5,000 for selling baseball or other amusement tickets for more than the printed price, and if the offense occurs away from a baseball park, or other amusement place, there may be an additional fine of $500 and a sentence of one year in prison.

BOXERS FROM 3 CITIES MEET IN BOUTS TONIGHT

BATTLE REOPENS IN COURT TODAY ON L FARE HIKE

State, City, OPA Pledge Hard Fight on Rise

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK

Attorneys representing the state of Illinois, the city of Chicago, and the office of price administration promised yesterday an unrelenting fight to prevent the elevated lines putting into effect a basic 12 cent fare instead of the present 10 cents. The matter is to be heard today by Circuit Judge Schnackenberg.

The fare increase was denied the company in 1942 by the Illinois commerce commission, which held that 10 cents was the maximum charged by any transportation system for similar service. This stand was approved by the Circuit court, but was overruled by the Illinois Supreme court which held the "L" was entitled to a fare high enough to enable it to meet operating expenses.

Reached Court Two Weeks Ago

The final mandate of the state Supreme court, after a rehearing on its decision had been refused, reached the Circuit court nearly two weeks ago. It directed the lower court to grant a fare sufficient to guarantee an operating profit. The "L" attorneys then gave notice they would ask for the order today.

Atty. Gen. Barrett, who will be represented in court by an assistant, William C. Wines, argues the high court mandate means only that the Circuit court should open new hearings to determine whether the elevated is earning expenses.

"In 1943 the 'L' made a profit of $283,000," Barrett said. "In 1944 it earned $606,000 and, it is estimated, will earn $275,000 this year. In the face of these facts, how can an increase be justified? The "L" asked a rehearing from the Supreme court, just as we did. This indicated a fear on the corporation's part that it was not entitled to an increase."

Will Use Similar Argument

The city, represented by Attys. Joseph Grossman, William H. Sexton, and James J. Danaher, will argue along similar lines, and the OPA is expected to hold the raise would be inflationary. The "L" will be represented by Herbert M. Johnson and Thomas L. Marshall.

The Chicago Surface Lines announced its attorneys on Monday would request Judge Igoe of the federal District court to permit the company to order 400 more street cars and 480 new buses, to cost at least 13 millions.

DRY GOODS

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 [AP]—Activity in the cotton textile market today was limited to small sales of print cloths, sheetings, and other constructions for quick delivery, selling houses were studying set-aside schedules for goods in the fourth quarter under the amended order M317-A.

Mills accepted little new business in wool goods. Efforts extended primarily on catching up with old orders.

TRUMAN RULES WPB'S POWERS WILL END NOV. 3

New Agency, CPA, Will Take Over

BY ROBERT YOUNG
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4—The war production board, which exercised powerful controls over American industry thruout the war, today was ordered abolished by President Truman. The agency, one of the largest of the emergency war time government bureaus, will go out of existence Nov. 3.

J. A. Krug

The President's executive order created in place of the WPB a civilian production administration, which will be set up within the office for emergency management.

Small to Get Top Post

The White House announced that WPB Chairman Krug will resign Nov. 3 and that John D. Small, now WPB chief of staff, will head the new CPA. Krug, who has headed the WPB since August, 1944, will enter private business but has not disclosed his specific plans.

The order directed that all powers, functions, employes, property, and funds of the WPB be transferred to the CPA. The new agency was ordered to use these powers and functions "to further a swift and orderly transition from war time production to a maximum peace time production in industry free from war time government controls, with due regard for the stability of prices and costs."

The CPA is expected to exist only as long as certain government controls are necessary to assure orderly reconversion—possibly only a few months.

New Agency's Chief Functions

The major functions of the CPA will include increasing production of scarce materials, limiting the manufacture of civilian goods for which materials or facilities are insufficient, controling inventories to prevent speculative hoarding and unequal distribution, priority assistance to speed reconversion, and allocating materials and facilities to aid the manufacture of low priced essential items.

Among the WPB powers which the new agency will take over are the few remaining war time industry controls. These total about 40, a fraction of the 700 limitation and restriction orders which harnessed industry during the war.

Krug's office disclosed that the CPA organization will consist of five main bureaus to handle industrial operations, controls, priorities, field operations, international supply problems, and the liquidation of WPB. As administrator of the CPA, Small, who became associated with WPB in September, 1944, after serving as a navy captain, will receive $12,000 a year compared with the $15,000 paid Krug.

LIFE, LOOK, and SECRETS

Offhand there seems little in common between these three publications, although two of them are picture magazines. But all three were launched within the past ten years; and of the hundreds of adult magazines started within this period, only these three have been able to reach a newsstand sale of one million copies or more an issue.

In every decade of magazine publishing history, only two or three new magazines reach the million newsstand mark. That's because it takes a really sound and broad and enduring editorial conception to capture such a large segment of the population.

SECRETS editorial conception of dramatized self-improvement has brought it an audience of over a million young, married women between the ages of 18 and 35—the biggest consumers of most products—and the largest concentration of such women of any publication in this country.

House Passes Bill to Revamp U.S. Bureaus

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 - The house tonight voted sweeping powers to President Truman to reorganize the government structure but attached a rider to the legislation warning that it expects him to save at least 25 per cent in operation costs under any plan submitted to congress.

The measure was approved, 304 to 56.

The amendment was sponsored by Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.], and gained approval by a vote of 147 to 142 over Democratic opposition. It does not make a 25 per cent saving mandatory but Democrats insisted it would "shackle" the President.

Much of the power given Mr. Truman was withheld from President Roosevelt when he asked it in 1939. Approximately 100 agencies and their functions may be reorganized, consolidated or abolished by the President under the bill.

Effective Within 60 Days

The recommendations of the President will take effect 60 days after submission to congress unless both houses disapprove. An amendment by Rep. Judd [R., Minn.], which would have provided that any plan could be rejected by a majority vote of either house, was defeated by a vote of 159 to 145.

Also rejected, 145 to 111, was a proposal by Rep. Hoffman [R. Mich.] that majority approval of both houses be required for any reorganization plan. Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] took the floor to protest that passage of this amendment would make the bill meaningless. Hoffman argued tha. congress ought to retain responsibility and authority for revamping the government structure.

Defeat Dirksen Bill

After lengthy debate, an amendment by Rep. Dirksen [R., Ill.], proposing a single agency for relief and rehabilitation in foreign countries, was defeated on a voice vote. Rep. Vorys [R., O.] complained that this proposal would "create a new state department."

An amendment offered by Rep. Crosser [D., O.], exempting from reorganization any agencies or bureaus created by the railroad retirement act, was approved, 170 to 44. Rep. Halleck [R., Ind.] sought to extend exemptions to include nine other agencies, but was voted down, 161 to 127. The Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, however, was placed beyond the President's powers thru approval of an amendment sponsored by Rep. Manasco [D., Ala.].

Also defeated, 112 to 37, was an amendment which would have permitted the President to submit a plan to congress to merge the army and navy.

ILLINOIS PAY ROLLS, JOBS EXTEND DECLINE BEGUN EARLY IN 1944

Employment and pay rolls in the Chicago metropolitan area and Illinois declined between July 15 and Aug. 15, reports of 3,909 manufacturing and nonmanufacturing establishments show, State Director of Labor Gordon said yesterday. The manufacturing group led the decline.

The trend toward lower employment has prevailed since the beginning of 1944. Industrial employment has fallen 18 per cent in Illinois between December, 1943, and Aug. 15, 1945, Gordon said. He emphasized that the July 15-Aug. 15 employment changes did not reflect V-J day cancellations.

Employment and pay rolls declined 1.8 and 9.8 per cent, respectively, in the Chicago area and 2.2 and 9.5 per cent thruout Illinois.

The largest decreases in the Chicago area were shown in the miscellaneous transportation equipment, machinery and machine tools, sheet iron and tin plate, chemicals, explosives and soaps, heating and plumbing equipment, and meat packing industries. Workers were added in the electrical machinery, bookbinding and publishing, women's and children's clothing, and baking industries.

VACUUM COFFEE CAN OUTPUT TO START ON NOV. 1

The American Can company's Englewood plant, at 6005-39 S. Western av., will resume production of cans for vacuum packed coffee for civilian consumption on Nov. 1, J. J. Hurley, plant manager, disclosed yesterday. Delivery to roasters will start as soon as possible.

No coffee cans for civilian use have been produced since 1942 because of war time metal restrictions. Altho tin plate is not yet available, resumption of production was made possible by war time research to perfect techniques of coating and soldering black iron sheets, Hurley said. Black plate was used widely for ends of processed food cans and for packaging dry food products during the war.

American Can manufactured approximately 400 million coffee cans in 1942 and expects to make 700 million in the next 12 months in the Englewood and 13 other plants.

FRENCH ASSETS OF 1.4 BILLIONS IN U. S. RELEASED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 (AP)—The treasury today "unfroze" about 1 billion, 400 million dollars in previously blocked French government assets in the United States. It also lifted import and export controls over checks, drafts, bills of exchange, and other payment instructions being sent to or from blocked countries.

Rules Lessee Holds Right to Oil in Property

Benton, Ill., Oct. 4 [Special]—A test suit to obtain title to oil in land leased to coal companies for about 50 years was dismissed in Circuit court today by Judge Charles T. Randolph.

The litigation, altho directly involving only one landowner, had been considered a test of whether some 2,000 other owners could prove that buyers of coal rights years ago bought only the coal and not subsequently discovered oil estimated worth 2 billion dollars.

It had been indicated, during the year and a half legal battle, that the case likely would be carried to the Supreme court of the United States regardless of which side won in the initial stages. No announcements of appeal intentions have been made pending the judge's signature on a formal decree the attorneys will prepare.

Sues Chicago Firm

The action was begun in connection with land near West Frankfort, Ill., which was owned by Miss Amelia Sharkey of Glen Ellyn, Ill. The suit was directed against the Old Ben Coal corporation of Chicago, which held a lease for mining coal on the property.

Arrayed on one side were the farmer-owners of similar situated property in virtually all of Franklin county and parts of Jefferson and Williamson counties. They organized as the Southern Illinois Land Owners' association.

On the other side were all the coal companies holding coal leases but which have claimed and collected on the production of oil in recent years under what they term are valid "oil lease" rights in their original coal contracts.

How Owners Construed It

It was agreed that the land owners, in leasing their property to the companies back in the 1890s, had signed conveyances of "coal, oil, gas and other minerals." But the land owners contend this phrase was merely an accepted formula of the period and meant only that the companies had the right to oil, gas and other minerals that might be in the coal they mined.

Judge Randolph ruled, however, that there had been "no fraud, no ambiguity in the deed, no mutual mistake in facts in executing the various instruments."

MIDWEST SHIPPERS PREDICT FRATE CAR LOADINGS DECREASE

Frate car loadings of 18 of the 29 commodities covered in the Midwest Shippers' Advisory board's surveys are expected to be larger in the fourth quarter than a year ago, but total car loadings should decrease about 2 per cent, the board said yesterday.

The number of cars of all types needed during the quarter will be 1,174,744, a decrease of 19,450 from the 1,194,194 cars actually loaded a year earlier, estimates of various commodity committees showed.

Decreases predicted for commodities that are loaded in quantity included 22 per cent in iron ore, 10 per cent in iron and steel, 5 per cent in petroleum and petroleum products, 37 per cent in machinery and boilers, 3.5 per cent in flour, meal, and other mill products, and 7.4 per cent in manufacturer's and miscellaneous products.

Increases were forecast for loadings of grain, 10 per cent; agricultural implements, 5; canned goods, 5; live stock, 11.5, and brick and clay products and fertilizers, each 20 per cent.

UNITED ELECTRIC COAL'S EARNINGS HIGHER IN YEAR

United Electric Coal companies, Chicago, yesterday reported net profit in the fiscal year ended July 31 was $904,790, or $1.65 a share, compared with $837,208, or $1.53 a share, a year earlier. Sales rose to a record $6,881,203 from $6,682,975.

R. H. Macy & Co. reported net earnings in the fiscal year ended July 28 rose to $5,225,386, or $2.73 a share, from $4,118,810, or $2.49 a share.

EXPECT ROUTE FIGHT BETWEEN TWO AIR LINES

United Would Keep Link Intact

A route battle between two large air lines was foreshadowed yesterday in the application of United Air Lines for new links to its transcontinental system.

The application, filed with the civil aeronautics board, came after American Airlines' recent announcement it was seeking CAB approval of its proposed merger with Mid-Continent Airlines, a north and south feeder line which crosses the routes of four transcontinental carriers.

If the merger is effected it would eliminate the neutral carrier, Mid-Continent, on which United must depend for connections and for the interchange of traffic from Minneapolis-St. Paul, Kansas City, St. Louis, and the southwest, United contended.

Would Link Routes

Routes sought by United would connect Minneapolis-St. Paul, Kansas City, and St. Louis to its transcontinental route at Moline, Ill.; Des Moines, Ia., and Omaha, Neb., and include a route from Minneapolis-St. Paul to Chicago via Rochester, Minn., and Madison, Wis.

United's application requested CAB to hear its proposal concurrently with the hearings on American's merger plan so the issue of elimination of the neutral carrier and the services United proposes may be joined. United officials raised the question as to whether it would be to the public good to effect the merger and eliminate the neutral carrier.

"An approval of the merger agreement by the board would result in substantial diversion of passenger, mail, and express revenue from United by American and would impair the quality of connecting service between routes of Mid-Continent and United in that the new consolidated corporation would not be impartial in the routing of passengers having occasion to travel over Mid-Continent and United systems," the application said.

Termed Alternative Action

"In event of approval of the agreement between American and Mid-Continent by the board so that the consolidation becomes effective, public convenience and necessity will require that United be authorized to operate the routes described in this application."

The merger proposal would add 2,510 route miles to the American system, which is already the leader in the domestic field with 8,125 miles. American officials had said the proposed consolidation would join systems which logically fit together.

Bidders Find Surplus Sales a Venture Into Wonderland

Washington, D. C., Oct. 4 [Special]—Only Alice in Wonderland would be likely to find a connection between bed lamps and wheelbarrows, but that's the combination sold by the government in the confusion attending the disposal of surplus war property to municipalities, witnesses today told a senate war investigating subcommittee.

The "bedlam in bed lamps" was disclosed by Harold F. Burnworth, director of supplies for Pittsburgh. He said his city had hoped to buy 2 million dollars' worth of equipment and supplies from war surpluses. But so far it has bought only $148 worth and that was so far below grade a claim will be entered against the government.

Tried to Make Lots "Attractive"

Much of the trouble that arose in the Reconstruction Finance corporation's sale of surplus goods at Meadville, Pa., resulted from the goods being mixed up in about 700 lots, Burnworth said.

"In order to buy wheelbarrows that we needed, we would have had to buy bedlamps which we did not want," he related. "In order to buy some hemp rope which we needed, we would have had to buy cement."

"We put some bad items in with good items and sold it in lots to make it attractive," explained Robert J. Hayes, deputy director of the RFC office of surplus property.

Maurice G. Postley, superintendent of school supplies for the New York city board of education, told of his difficulties in trying to purchase usable equipment. Under an act adopted last year, local government units have a priority in obtaining surplus property.

"We had great hopes of obtaining supplies under the act," Postley said, "but nothing has happened. So far, we have succeeded in locating $716 worth of such school supplies."

Talk, Talk, but Few Sales

"Long conferences and long conversations over a long period have been held on what would work out under the program—and nothing tangible has happened," said Albert Pleydell, commissioner of purchase for New York City.

Altho Hayes said that 100 millions of property is being declared surplus each week, W. Z. Betts, director of North Carolina's division of purchase and contact, testified he was shunted from agency to agency in efforts to buy used tires, trucks, and road machinery from government stocks.

"Apparently you were the victim of a double lateral pass," observed Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.].

Court Stays ICC Order on Barge Rates

A three judge federal court yesterday granted two barge companies a temporary injunction restraining the interstate commerce commission from putting new barge rates into effect.

The Inland Waterways company and A. L. Mechling Barge Lines, both of St. Louis, Mo., which carry grain between the Mississippi river area and Chicago for trans-shipment east, contended the new rate the commission seeks to put into effect at midnight Thursday discriminated against them in favor of railroad and lake carriers.

Contend High Rate Is Forced

The proposed rate would force barge operators to pay three cents more a 100 pounds on the cargo's subsequent trip to New York than would shippers who used rail and lake routes to Chicago, said Edward B. Hayes, barge lines counsel.

When Judge Evan A. Evans, of the Circuit Court of Appeals, inquired why the ICC approved this differential, Daniel W. Knowlton, chief counsel for the commission, replied, "I am not in shape to answer that now. I have stayed up the last several nights on this, and I can't go into the merits of the case now."

Plaintiff Outlines Defense

Hayes said he understood the commission had made comparative measurements of the length of the railroad, lake, and barge line routes and found the barge lines have the shortest routes. Therefore, the commission felt their saving in operating cost should be equalized at the other end, he said.

The three judges agreed a temporary injunction should be issued. Hearing on a permanent injunction will be held Oct. 15.

The court consisted of Judge Evans and District Judges Walter J. La Buy and Michael L. Igoe. An appeal from the three judge tribunal may be taken direct to the Supreme court.

People and Events

Michael Ball

The 10th Chicago store of Grayson Shops, Inc., will open Saturday at 6 S. State st. The new store will have four selling floors and will handle coats, suits, dresses, accessories, and a new department of girls' and boys' clothing. Michael Ball, Chicago manager of Grayson Shops, will have charge of the new unit.

The American College of Surgeons announced the appointment of Edward G. Sandrok as controler. He formerly was a senior investment analyst with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

Appointment of Richard W. Goodspeed as inter-line traffic manager of United Air Lines, effective about Nov. 1, was announced by Harold Crary, vice president in charge of traffic. Goodspeed is a traffic representative with United now on special assignment to the Community and War Fund. He will have charge of United's interchange of business with other air lines, railroads, and bus companies.

Wells-Gardner & Co. announced the election of H. A. Johanson as vice president in charge of sales.

North Western Common, Senior Dividends Voted

Directors of North Western railroad yesterday declared dividends of $3 on the no par common stock and $2.50 on the series A preferred. The previous payment on the common was $5 last Dec. 30 and $2.50 on the preferred last July 25.

STOCK MARKET UNEVEN AGAIN; LIQUORS GAIN

Soft Drink, Air Line Issues Rise More

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—Assorted strong specialties helped balance the stock market today as many leaders declined. Prices were mixed from the start. Sizable offerings of a few low-quoted issues put volume at 1,340,000 shares compared with 1,430,000 yesterday.

Gains of one to three points for some liquors, soft drinks, amusements, and air transports were offset by declines of as much in others.

Favorites were buoyed by hopes for earnings, dividends and benefits expected from reduction of excess profits taxes. Inflation concern persisted as an anti-liquidating argument.

Index Is Unchanged

The Associated Press 60 stock average was unchanged at 71.3. Of 973 issues traded 374 closed up and 370 down.

At peaks for 1945 or longer were Distillers, Schenley, Pepsi-Cola, Loew's, Twentieth Century-Fox, American Airlines, United Air Lines, Goodrich, and Electric Power and Light. Chicago and North Western common and preferred rose 2⅞ and 1⅞, respectively, when directors voted $3 on the common and $2.50 on the senior stock.

Commonwealth and Southern, the livellest issue on 66,900 shares, was off ⅛ at 1⅜. Sears Roebuck fell 3¼.

RAIL BONDS RALLY LATE

New York, Oct. 4 (AP)—The bond market moved indecisively today until the final hour when a flurry of buying in rails lifted selected issues a point or more. Industrials and other major groups including treasury issues moved little.

Late gainers included Southern Railway consolidated 5s, up 3, North Western 4½s, up 1¾, Erie 3½s, up 1⅛, and Northern Pacific 5s.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED

Prices closed irregular in a reduced turnover of 34,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Most actively traded were Miller and Hart, up ½; Chicago corporation and Admiral, both unchanged; Armour, down ⅛, and Commonwealth Edison, down ⅜. Independent Pneumatic rose 1⅛ and Schwitzer-Cummins 1½ to set 1945 peaks.

The FAIR
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

The Board of Directors of the Company adopted a resolution calling for the redemption on November 1, 1945, of the remaining outstanding 7% preferred shares. The redemption price is $143.25 per share. The shares may be delivered for redemption to the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, Chicago, Illinois, at any time after October 1, 1945.

Uncle Sam Gets Paid First

The federal estate tax is usually the heaviest charge against an estate and must be paid before the balance of the property is turned over to the heirs. This tax ranges from $31,500 on an estate of $200,000 to $270,300 on $1,000,000—the rates are progressively higher on still larger amounts.

Many fail to make adequate provision for this tax and other obligations, and the resulting forced sale of assets frequently causes substantial loss to the heirs.

The purchase of government bonds and life insurance are among the methods of providing for heavy estate taxes. We shall be pleased to discuss with you and your lawyer the most economical arrangements for your estate.

FIRST NATIONAL GETS BIG PART OF NEW RAIL NOTES

Burlington's Equipment Issue Near 4 Million

The Burlington railroad yesterday awarded at competitive bidding almost 4 million dollars of promissory notes, issued under conditional sales contracts, to two Chicago led banking groups. The First National Bank of Chicago received the largest part in close bidding. The notes were issued to help finance equipment purchases.

The first contract for $2,836,800, representing 80 per cent of the cost of 10 new diesel-electric passenger locomotives ordered by Burlington, went to a First National on its bid setting an interest rate of 1.59 per cent for notes maturing over a 10 year period beginning Nov. 1, 1945. The National Bank of Detroit was second on its bid with a rate of 1.60 per cent.

Northern Trust Company of Chicago tied First National in bidding on the second contract for $1,046,640, representing 80 per cent of the cost of 10 new diesel-electric frate power units. Both groups bid 1.59 per cent and will divide the issue. The Detroit bank again was second on its offer of 1.60 per cent. The notes will mature over 10 years beginning Feb. 1, 1946.

Mercantile National Participates

Among banks associated with the First National group was Mercantile National Bank of Chicago.

The 93 million dollar issue of Pennsylvania Power and Light company first mortgage bonds, 3 per cent series of 1975, was sold at 101¾ by a Smith, Barney & Co. group.

Eastman, Dillon & Co. headed a group offering 150,000 shares of Thrifty Drug Stores company common stock at $20 a share, and 16,259 shares of preferred at $100 a share. Proceeds will be used to open new stores and provide additional capital.

Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric company registered with the securities and exchange commission 133,745 shares of $100 par 4½ per cent cumulative preferred. The company would offer the issue on a share for share basis to holders of its 6 per cent first preferred and 6½ per cent series B preferred shares. Underwriters would be headed by Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane.

4 Million Issue Filed

Consolidated Cigar corporation filed with SEC a 4 million dollar issue of 20 year 3¼ per cent debentures, to be underwritten by Eastman, Dillon. Proceeds would be used to retire $4.75 preferred.

Polaroid corporation registered with SEC 80,875 shares of $1 par common to be offered shareholders at the rate of one new share for each four shares of common held. Kuhn, Loeb & Co., underwriter, will purchase the unsubscribed portion. Proceeds would be added to general company funds.

Chemical Bank and Trust company shareholders will vote Oct. 31 on a directors' proposal to increase the capital stock to 25 million dollars from 20 millions to permit declaration of a 5 million dollar stock dividend. It woud be paid by distributing 500,000 shares of $10 par stock in the ratio of one share for each four shares held. The present dividend rate of $1.80 a share would be continued.

LAMBS ADVANCE AS RECEIPTS OF LIVE STOCK FALL

Further large decreases in supplies of meat animals at major packing centers brought a buying rush for live stock in Chicago yesterday. Prices were steady to higher, with pressure against office of price administration ceilings strongest since they were established. Lambs, on which there is no ceiling, soared 25 cents a hundred pounds to the highest level since mid-August.

Top lambs reached $14.75, highest since Aug. 16 and $1.40 above the low point of a month ago. Aged mutton sheep sold up to $6.50, highest since Aug. 31.

Almost all hogs sold at the ceilings of $14.75 for barrows and gilts and $14 for packing sows and stags.

STALEY MANUFACTURING

Sales of this large Decatur, Ill., manufacturer of corn and soybean products have increased each year since 1933, except 1938, rising from $12,102,000 to $69,445,000 in 1944. Growth has been particularly rapid since 1941 when the volume was $36,190,000. The principal products from corn are starch, syrup, sugar, oil, gluten feed, and germ meal; from soybeans they are oil, oil meal, and flour. The business was established in 1897.

A new 2 million dollar soybean plant which will use the hexane extraction method was recently completed.

Staley's earnings in the first half of 1945 were equal to $2.74 a share on 423,253 common shares compared with $2.31 in the 1944 period. By years the share profits were: 1944, $3.22; 1943 and 1942, $3.85; 1941, $3.97; 1940, $2.29; 1939, $3.48; 1938, $1.94; with a net loss shown for 1937. Common dividends, paid each year subsequent to 1934, were at the yearly rate of $1 from 1941 thru 1944. Early in the current year the rate was increased to 35 cents quarterly.

Outstanding are 46,977 cumulative $5 preferred shares, callable at $105, and a funded debt of 5 million dollars. Net working capital last March 31 was $12,046,000.
